The domestic, moral and political economies of post-Celtic Tiger Ireland Kieran Keohane, Carmen Kuhling, 2015-11-01 This book provides an analysis of neo liberal political economics implemented in Ireland and the deleterious consequences of that model in terms of polarised social inequalities impoverished public services and fiscal vulnerability as they appear in central social policy domains health housing and education in particular Tracing the argument into the domains where the institutions are sustained and reproduced this book examines the movement of modern economics away from its original concern with the household and anthropologically universal deep human needs to care for the vulnerable the sick children and the elderly and to maintain inter generational solidarity The authors argue that the financialisation of social relations undermines the foundations of civilisation and opens up a marketised barbarism Civic catastrophes of violent conflict and authoritarian liberalism are here illustrated as aspects of the rough beast that slouches in when things are falling apart and people become prey to new forms of domination

Landscape Fieldwork Gareth Doherty, 2025-05-05 Refocusing on human inhabitants in landscape architecture Landscape architecture is at a crossroads The ability to draw upon interdisciplinary perspectives and generate insights from the combined vantage points of design environmental studies and the social sciences puts it in a prime position to address the most pressing issues of our time such as climate change and social inequality Its current reliance on digital and technological solutions however has increasingly caused landscape architects to lose sight of the ways in which humans actually use spaces And while landscapes are designed all over the world the discipline remains inordinately centered on the Global North Landscape Fieldwork alters that long standing paradigm through real life examples that provide tools for practitioners to engage more deeply with multidimensional diverse landscapes and the communities that create live in and use them

Narratives of Conflict, Belonging, and the State Brigittine M. French, 2018-04-27 Using key perspectives from Linguistic anthropology the book illuminates how social actors take up the ideals of law equality and democratic representation in locally meaningful ways to make their own national history in ways that may perpetuate violence and inequality Focusing specifically on post war conditions in Ireland the author contextualizes commonplace practices by which citizens are made to learn the gap between official membership in and political belonging to a democratic state Each chapter takes up a different aspect of state authority and power to constitute citizenship to enact laws to mediate conflict and to create histories in the context of social inequalities and political hostilities This book is an excellent ethnographic addition to courses in linguistic anthropology giving readers the opportunity to explore applications and ramifications of key theoretical text within research
