Irish Delftware Peter Francis,2000 This comprehensive book will soon establish itself as the standard work on the subject The Irish delftware industry is covered in its entirety from its beginnings in 1697 through its initial success subsequent difficulties and renewed fortunes in the 18th century The author presents up to date research with new attributions recent archeological investigations and additional information concerning some of the smaller Irish factories The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish History Alvin Jackson,2014-03-27 The study of Irish history once riven and constricted has recently enjoyed a resurgence with new practitioners new approaches and new methods of investigation The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish History represents the diversity of this emerging talent and achievement by bringing together 36 leading scholars of modern Ireland and embracing 400 years of Irish history uniting early and late modernists as well as contemporary historians The Handbook offers a set of scholarly perspectives drawn from numerous disciplines including history political science literature geography and the Irish language It looks at the Irish at home as well as in their migrant and diasporic communities The Handbook combines sets of wide thematic and interpretative essays with more detailed investigations of particular periods Each of the contributors offers a summation of the state of scholarship within their subject area linking their own research insights with assessments of future directions within the discipline In its breadth and depth and diversity The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish History offers an authoritative and vibrant portrayal of the history of modern Ireland A New Anatomy of Ireland Toby Christopher Barnard,2004-01-01 What was life like for Irish Protestants between the mid 17th and the late 18th centuries Toby Barnard scrutinizes social attitudes and structures in every segment of Protestant society during this formative period English & Irish Delftware 1570-1840 Aileen Dawson,2010 Tin glazed earthenware has been made in Europe since the 15th century In Britain floor tiles and drug pots were made in Aldgate London in the 16th century by immigrant potters from the Low Countries In the early 17th century factories making dishes and other wares were set up in London close to the River Thames Their products were initially much influenced by Chinese porcelain as well as by Italian maiolica Manufacture spread from London to centres such as Bristol Liverpool and Dublin Known as gally ware in the 17th century this type of pottery has come to be known as delftware from the Dutch town of Delft which was renowned for its manufacture The British Museum collection of delftware which was established in the later part of the 19th century is one of the finest in the world It is especially notable for the number of pieces bearing dates and for those which document historical personages and events This beautifully illustrated book will feature more than 140 items from this extensive collection and include pieces which have never before been fully described or published in colour Publisher s description The First Irish Cities David Dickson,2021-06-08 The untold story of a group of Irish cities and their remarkable development before the age of industrialization A backward corner of Europe in 1600 Ireland was transformed during the following centuries This was most evident in the rise of its cities notably Dublin and

Cork David Dickson explores ten urban centers and their patterns of physical social and cultural evolution relating this to the legacies of a violent past and he reflects on their subsequent partial eclipse Beautifully illustrated this account reveals how the country's cities were distinctive and through the Irish diaspora influential beyond Ireland's shores

An Archaeology of the English Atlantic World, 1600 - 1700 Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2018-07-05 An Archaeology of the British Atlantic World 1600 1700 is the first book to apply the methods of modern world archaeology to the study of the seventeenth century English colonial world Charles E Orser Jr explores a range of material evidence of daily life collected from archaeological excavations throughout the Atlantic region including England Ireland western Africa Native North America and the eastern United States He considers the archaeological record together with primary texts by contemporary writers Giving particular attention to housing fortifications delftware and stoneware Orser offers new interpretations for each type of artefact His study demonstrates how the archaeological record expands our understanding of the Atlantic world at a critical moment of its expansion as well as to the development of the modern Western world

The Grove Encyclopedia of Decorative Arts Gordon Campbell, 2006-11-09 The Grove Encyclopedia of Decorative Arts covers thousands of years of decorative arts production throughout western and non western culture With over 1 000 entries as well as hundreds drawn from the 34 volume Dictionary of Art this topical collection is a valuable resource for those interested in the history practice and mechanics of the decorative arts Accompanied by almost 100 color and more than 500 black and white illustrations the 1 290 pages of this title include hundreds of entries on artists and craftsmen the qualities and historic uses of materials as well as concise definitions on art forms and style Explore the works of Alvar Aalto Charles and Ray Eames and the Wiener Werkstätte or delve into the history of Navajo blankets and wing chairs in thousands of entries on artists craftsmen designers workshops and decorative art forms Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2013-04-19 Scholars who investigate race a label based upon real or perceived physical differences realize that they face a formidable task The concept has been contested and condoned debated and denied throughout modern history Presented with the full understanding of the complexity of the issue Race and Practice in Archaeological Interpretation concentrates on the archaeological analysis of race and how race is determined in the archaeological record Most archaeologists even those dealing with recent history have usually avoided the subject of race yet Charles E Orser Jr contends that its study and its implications are extremely important for the science of archaeology Drawing upon his considerable experience as an archaeologist and using a combination of practice theory as interpreted by Pierre Bourdieu and spatial theory as presented by Henri Lefebvre Orser argues for an explicit archaeology of race and its interpretation The author reviews past archaeological usages of race including a case study from early nineteenth century Ireland and explores the way race was used to form ideas about the Mound Builders the Celts and Atlantis He concludes with a proposal that historical archaeology cast as modern world archaeology should take the lead in the archaeological analysis of race because its purview is the recent past that period during which our conceptions of race developed      Ireland in the Virginian Sea Audrey Horning, 2013-12-16 In the late sixteenth century the English started expanding westward establishing control over parts of neighboring Ireland as well as exploring and later colonizing distant North America Audrey Horning deftly examines the relationship between British colonization efforts in both locales depicting their close interconnection as fields for colonial experimentation Focusing on the Ulster Plantation in the north of Ireland and the Jamestown settlement in the Chesapeake she challenges the notion that Ireland merely served as a testing ground for British expansion into North America Horning instead analyzes the people financial networks and information that circulated through and connected English plantations on either side of the Atlantic In addition Horning explores English colonialism from the perspective of the Gaelic Irish and Algonquian societies and traces the political and material impact of contact The focus on the material culture of both locales yields a textured specificity to the complex relationships between natives and newcomers while exposing the lack of a determining vision or organization in early English colonial projects      Booleying in Ireland Theresa McDonald, 2025-06-09 This book offers a detailed account of booleying both in Achill and beyond Drawing on extensive research from Ireland Britain and continental Europe the book challenges the view of booleying as a post medieval practice typically outside the scope of traditional archaeology By examining early Irish manuscripts and cross referencing findings the research sheds new light on the origins of booleying suggesting its roots stretch back to the prehistoric period The book highlights how farmers maximized economic resources through transhumance altering perceptions of the significance of booleying beyond the 19th century rundale system This work provides a fresh perspective on the history and importance of transhumance in Ireland and Achill It is based on extensive research on transhumance or booleying in Ireland Britain and Scandinavia with many new insights into its economic and social aspects over a long period of time      Ireland William Laffan, Christopher P. Monkhouse, Leslie Fitzpatrick, 2015-01-01 A sweeping survey of the arts of Ireland spanning 150 years and an astonishing range of artists and media This groundbreaking book captures a period in Ireland s history when countless foreign architects artisans and artists worked side by side with their native counterparts Nearly all of the works within this remarkable volume many of them never published before have been drawn from North American collections This catalogue accompanies the first exhibition to celebrate the Irish as artists collectors and patrons over 150 years of Ireland s sometimes turbulent history Featuring the work of a wide range of artists known and unknown and a diverse array of media the catalogue also includes an impressive assembly of essays by a pre eminent group of international experts working on the art and cultural history of Ireland Major essays discuss the subjects of the Irish landscape and tourism Irish country houses and Dublin s role as a center of culture and commerce Also included are numerous shorter essays covering a full spectrum of topics and artworks including bookbinding ceramics furniture glass mezzotints miniatures musical instruments pastels silver and textiles      Irish Economic and Social History , 1999      Early Belfast Raymond Gillespie, 2007 For most people nineteenth century Belfast is the very essence of an industrial city boasting as it did by 1900 the world's largest spinning mill the most productive shipyard the biggest ropeworks and tobacco factory This book looks beyond that world to reveal an earlier Belfast where the foundations for its later industrial prowess were laid It charts the town's remarkable growth from site to city from the first mentions of it as long ago as the seventh century through to the 13th century Anglo Norman settlement and Gaelic revival to the Plantation town of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries It re-traces not only the development of the early streets and their names but also the lives of those who walked and lived in them In doing so it recreates something of the thriving commercial settlement and port that came increasingly to dominate the life of the region it served Ulster in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Using a unique series of maps together with archaeological and documentary evidence that has been expertly pieced together the book revolutionises our understanding of this the most Ulster of towns before the coming of industrialisation Just as importantly it reminds us that Belfast has always stood in the poet Derek Mahon's lyrical phrase a hill at the top of every street BOOK JACKET Material Culture and Sedition,

1688-1760 M. Pittock, 2013-10-18 Material Culture and Sedition 1688 1760 is a groundbreaking study of the ways in which material culture and its associated designs rituals and symbols was used to avoid prosecution for treason and sedition in the British Isles The fresh theoretical model it presents challenges existing accounts of the public sphere and consumer culture

Places in Mind Paul A. Shackel, Erve J. Chambers, 2004-02-24 This edited volume provides a cross section of the cutting edge ways in which archaeologists are developing new approaches to their work with communities and other stakeholder groups who have special interest in the uses in the past A Guide to Sources for the History of Material Culture in Ireland,
