women remain underrepresented in almost every country Many women feel they've been excluded and are calling for equality This book offers a fresh perspective on gender roles that moves away from the old paradigm of male domination and female victimhood It argues that companies that want to succeed need to productively combine and leverage off the strengths offered by men and women It covers how mixed leadership teams can be made the norm in international companies To find some answers Bettina Al Sadik Lowinski interviewed senior male executives from eleven countries These alpha men agree that women and their abilities should be better represented on company boards They believe the current imbalance is due to a mix of talented women's reluctance to pursue their career ambitions along with the barriers created by existing power structures Male managers fear losing face and being shown up by strong women They want recognition rather than aggression from their female colleagues The interviewees also discuss what they see as women's strengths such as their positive calming influence in male dominated meetings and comment on sensitive topics such as MeToo and the influence of erotic capital and old boys networks The book presents the men's views in their own words complemented by alternative perspectives from top female executives Al Sadik Lowinski's analysis shows how both sexes can work together in international companies to build a brighter sustainable future Alpha Males and Alpha Females seeks to promote greater equality at senior levels in global companies with mixed leadership teams made up of both qualified men and qualified women It gives women who are interested in pursuing a management career an insight into men's views as well as advice on their personal career development And it suggests strategies that executives can adopt to strengthen diversity build mixed leadership teams and secure their companies long term success
