European Integration And Environmental Policy:

European Integration and Environmental Policy J. D. Liefferink, Philip Lowe, A. P. J. Mol, 1993 In the past two decades environmental policy has emerged as a major field of action in the European Community It is recognised that the liberalisation and integration of the European market should be matched by common environmental measures The process of environmental policy making in the Community is characterised by a delicate interplay of political agendas institutional relations and regulatory cultures at national and transnational levels This interplay is the subject of the present book

Environmental Policy in the European Union Andrew Jordan, 2002 Collection of the most innovative and incisive writing on the environmental policies of the EU Essential reference and course book for environmental politics and European politics courses Emphasises how policy is a dynamic process and examines the roles of the main actors and institutions The European Union has come to dominate the way environmental policy is thought about developed and implemented throughout Europe It is also a guide and benchmark for policy elsewhere in the world This Guide brings together the best and most influential work on the full range of EU environmental policy Incorporating a range of case studies it draws out the links between levels of governance and the role of environment in other policy areas such as agriculture trade and transport The editor's introduction explores the important theoretical and empirical questions raised by the development of EU policy and the challenges of the new sustainability agenda The result is a highly useful primer and source book for all those involved or studying environmental politics and policy not just in Europe but in other regions too The Origins of Energy and Environmental Policy in Europe Thomas C. Hoerber, 2013 This book examines the development of a European environmental conscience through successive steps of European integration in energy policy In the 1960s 70s the world was slowly beginning to realise that environment degradation was not sustainable With phenomena such as acid rain it became clear that pollution did not stop at national boundaries and the European environmental conscience developed in parallel to such growing environmental concerns The oil crisis in 1973 was a turning point in the integration process for both energy policy and environment policy and while further integration towards the European energy policy failed the environmental policies took shape in measures such as energy saving The Commission incorporated both energy and environmental policies into the EU policy canon and built an institutional framework responding to the insufficiency of national policy answers and the developing environmental conscience of the European people This book will be of interest to students and scholars of European Integration European Union politics and history and environmental politics and policy Environmental Politics in Southern Europe Klaus Eder, M. Kousis, 2001 This volume discusses why there will always be a local dimension located in ecology economy and society with no transnational equivalent Political integration and economic globalization cannot diminish local identity and social memories locality is the basis for meaningful sustainability The Innovation of EU

Environmental Policy Duncan Liefferink, 1997 Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana B.

Andonova,2003-11-21 A study of the effect of EU membership on Central and Eastern European environmental policy and the interplay of political incentives and industry behavior that determines policy In Transnational Politics of the Environment Liliana Andonova examines the effect of the European Union EU on the environmental policies of Bulgaria the Czech Republic and Poland Compliance with EU environmental regulations is especially onerous for Central and Eastern European countries because of the costs involved and the legacy of pollution from communist era industries But Andonova argues that EU integration has a positive impact on environmental policies in these countries by exerting a strong influence on the environmental interests of regulated industries With her empirical study of chemical safety and air pollution policies from 1990 to 2000 she shows that export competitive industries such as the chemical industry that would benefit from economic integration have an incentive to adopt EU norms By contrast industries such as electric utilities that primarily serve the domestic market remain opposed to EU environmental standards and must be prodded by their own governments to implement environmental protection measures These differences in domestic interests greatly influence the course of reforms and the adoption of EU standards Transnational Politics of the Environment challenges the current focus on intergovernmental cooperation between East and West by highlighting the roles of industries transnational norms and domestic institutions in promoting change in environmental regulation It offers a generalizable framework for understanding the politics of environmental regulation in emerging market economies and helps bridge the divide between the study of domestic and international environmental politics The Future of European Union Environmental Politics and Policy

Anthony R. Zito,Charlotte Burns,Andrea Lenschow,2020-07-29 The Future of European Union Environmental Politics and Policy investigates the trajectory of European Union EU environmental policy and reflects on how this hugely vital policy area of the EU has evolved over the decades Gathering together a selection of the leading scholars working on European environmental policy the volume assesses the extent to which change has occurred in important dimensions of EU environmental policy research These dimensions include the EU s values and approaches the provision of leadership the possibilities of Brexit and the dismantling of policies policy instruments and climate change policy implementation and enforcement and policy evaluation The contributors situate their research in the context of current developments and conditions including the global economic challenges and the rise of political challenges to both European governance and integration Each chapter reviews the EU environmental policy over the long term and assesses the implications of current developments for the future health of European environmental policy European integration and the environment itself The Future of European Union Environmental Politics and Policy will be of great interest to scholars of environmental politics environmental governance and EU policy The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Environmental Politics

Green Parties and Politics in the European Union Elizabeth Bomberg,2005-08-02 Bomberg argues the greening of European politics and the advancement of European integration are inextricably linked and that the EU presents a strategic dilemma to Green parties In short how can Greens reconcile their radical alternative politics with the EU's mainstream traditional institutions and practices Bomberg's analysis is based on over 100 interviews with leading green politicians NGO members environmental and industrial lobbyists EU officials and MEPs She includes appendices showing profiles of green parties in European countries and key policy making institutions

Environmental Policy in Europe Andrew J. Jordan,Duncan Liefferink,2004-08-02 The continuing development of the European Union EU is transforming policy and politics in its member countries and possibly in an even larger number of potential members This book offers a detailed investigation of the Europeanization of national environmental policy in ten western European countries since 1970 By blending state of the art theories with fresh empirical material on the many manifestations of Europeanization it sheds new light on the dynamics that are decisively reshaping national environmental policy It also offers an original assessment of how far Europeanization has produced greater policy convergence in western Europe Throughout the approach taken is genuinely comparative drawing on the insights provided by leading country specialists Environment and the Nation State Duncan Liefferink,1996 With the European Union's increasing powers its environmental legislation has grown rapidly This study investigates the dynamics of the Europeanization of environmental policy and concludes that the domestic environmental policies of relatively green member States are actually hardly affected The text focuses on policy making in the field of air pollution and acidification between the former European Community and one Member State the Netherlands Included in the text is a concise history of EC environmental policy an explanation of the theories of sovereignty European integration and power dependence and final commentary on the future of environmental policy in the European Union The European Environmental Conscience in EU Politics Thomas Hoerber,Gabriel Weber,2021-12-06 Based on empirical studies of European energy and environmental policies this book suggests that in combination these two policy fields form a consensus in the EU which might also become the basis for a new European ideology namely European sustainability It asks why an environmental conscience has grown since the late 1960s in the industrialised world and shows that whilst there is undeniable environmental degradation during this time and that a European environmental conscience has mainly developed through successive steps of European integration in energy policy In this connection between energy and the environmental we find one driver for European integration and indeed European identity If sustainabilism should become a European ideology it will substantially influence the way future Europeans will live This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Studies International Relations Political Science History Economics Sustainability Studies Environmental and Energy Policies in Europe
