Evaluation And Assessment For Conservation:

Evaluation and Assessment for Conservation Ian Spellerberg, 2013-11-11 Most politicians have jumped on the conservation bandwagon and nobody running for public office these days can afford to take an overtly anti environment stand The fascination that children have for nature the generous donations people make to conservation organizations the votes cast for Green Parties the continuing popularity of zoos and wildlife films and the strong sales of books about the environment all provide evidence to politicians that the general public supports the idea of conservation Conservation has become a major issue for governments No longer is it necessary for conservationists to campaign for getting the cause on the agenda it is already there at least as a talking point The issue now is how to convert this generalized interest into real action And among the many priorities competing for attention how is a government or a private organization to decide what to do first From a very limited budget for budgets will always be limited what is the package of activities that is most likely to lead to the results that the public wants Ian Spellerberg attempts to address these questions which are at the heart of modern conservation action It is relatively easy to prescribe useful activities that will benefit both the environment and the public at large
