Irish Economic Statistics Frank Kirwan, James McGilvray, 1983 Reference book on statistical sources data collecting and data analysis of economic conditions and labour force in Ireland covers historical and current population growth agricultural production industrial production trade national accounts income distribution taxation consumer expenditure prices wages service sector etc and discusses the statistical computing of index numbers Bibliography diagrams graph map and references

Irish Economic Statistics Frank Kirwan, 1983      Irish Economic Statistics James McGilvray, 1968      A History of Irish Economic Thought Thomas Boylan, Renee Prendergast, John Turner, 2013-03 For a country that can boast a distinguished tradition of political economy from Sir William Petty through Swift Berkeley Hutcheson Burke and Cantillon through to that of Longfield Cairnes Bastable Edgeworth Geary and Gorman it is surprising that no systematic study of Irish political economy has been undertaken In this book the contributors redress this glaring omission in the history of political economy for the first time providing an overview of developments in Irish political economy from the seventeenth to the twentieth century Logistically this is achieved through the provision of individual contributions from a group of recognized experts both Irish and international who address the contribution of major historical figures in Irish political economy along the analysis of major thematic issues schools of thought and major policy debates within the Irish context over this extended period      Irish Economic Development Eoin O'Leary, 2015-02-20 This book offers a discerning narrative on the spectacular rise and fall of the so called Celtic Tiger economy It depicts Ireland as a micro state with a unique reliance on foreign assisted businesses driven in part by a favourable taxation regime It shows that rent seeking by trades unions and property developers contributed to the fall since 2002 Although the country's highly centralized government's pre disposition to lobbying has yielded international successes it has also resulted in recurring self inflicted crises since 1970 This volume shows how Ireland's export led growth is associated more with the attraction of foreign assisted businesses than with the development of critical masses of internationally competitive indigenous businesses Although the success of foreign assisted businesses in the pharmaceutical ICT and finance sectors has been influenced by tax advantages many of these businesses have been involved in highly productive activity in Ireland over a number of decades The problem of rent seeking is shown to have undermined Irish competitiveness in the internationally traded and sheltered sectors The Irish policy mind set is shown to lean towards distribution rather than growth While this has been advantageous for how Ireland Inc interacts with other governments and international businesses it has also resulted in a failure to resist the destructive effects of capture by lobbies In conclusion this book considers future opportunities offered by the EU's smart specialization policy and future threats from increased international tax competition It argues that unless Irish citizens and policymakers change deep seated attitudes and mind sets towards business development the country's performance for the next number of decades will more likely resemble serial under achievement than that of a high performing EU state      Irish Economic Statistics Central

The Northern Ireland Question Nationalism Unionism and Partition offers a revisionist challenge to Irish nationalist claims in for example the Report of the New Ireland Forum published in 1984 about the nature and extent of discrimination in Northern Ireland and to Irish nationalist claims about the economic viability of the political unification of Ireland The book concludes with an overview of unionist and nationalist thinking in the 1990s during the crucial period of the beginning of the peace process and the negotiations that led to the Belfast Agreement in 1998

After the Famine Michael Turner, 2002-04-11 After the Famine examines the recovery in Irish agriculture in the wake of the disastrous potato famine of the 1840s and presents an annual agricultural output series for Ireland from 1850 to 1914 Michael Turner's detailed 1996 study is in three parts he analyses the changing structure of agriculture in terms of land use and peasant occupancy he presents estimates of the annual value of Irish output between 1850 and 1914 and he assesses Irish agricultural performance in terms of several measures of productivity These analyses are placed in the context of British and European agricultural development and suggest that contrary to prevailing orthodoxies landlords rather than tenants were the main beneficiaries in the period leading up to the land reforms After the Famine is an important contribution to an extremely controversial area of Irish social and economic history
