The conspiracy of Pontiac and the Indian war after... Francis Parkman, 1898 The Historical Archaeology of Military Sites Clarence Raymond Geier, Lawrence E. Babits, Douglas Dowell Scott, David G. Orr, 2010-12-15 The recent work of anthropologists historians and historical archaeologists has changed the very essence of military history While once preoccupied with great battles and the generals who commanded the armies and employed the tactics military history has begun to emphasize the importance of the common man for interpreting events As a result military historians have begun to see military forces and the people serving in them from different perspectives The Historical Archaeology of Military Sites has encouraged efforts to understand armies as human communities and to address the lives of those who composed them Tying a group of combatants to the successes and failures of their military commanders leads to a failure to understand such groups as distinct social units and in some instances self supporting societies structured around a defined social and political hierarchy regulated by law needing to be supplied and nurtured and often at odds with the human community whose lands they occupied be they those of friend or foe The Historical Archaeology of Military Sites will afford students professionals dealing with military sites and the interested public examples of the latest techniques and proven field methods to aid understanding and conservation of these vital pieces of the world's heritage

The American Revolution: Writings from the War of Independence 1775-1783 (LOA #123) Various, 2001-04-01 This comprehensive collection of writings from the War of Independence poses a subtle but profound challenge to much that we think we know about the founders and their era. Los Angeles Times. Drawn from letters, diaries, newspaper articles, public declarations, contemporary narratives, and private memoranda, this Library of America volume brings together over 120 pieces by more than seventy participants and eyewitnesses to create a unique literary panorama of the War of Independence. Beginning with Paul Revere's own narrative of his legendary ride in April 1775 and ending with a moving account of George Washington's resignation from the command of the Continental Army in December 1783, the volume contains writing that describes the major events of the conflict: the early battles of Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill; the failed American invasion of Canada; the 1776 campaign in New York and New Jersey; the crucial battle of Saratoga; the bitter fighting in the South and along the western frontier; and the decisive triumph at Yorktown. Included are writings by famous figures: Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Benedict Arnold, John and Abigail Adams, and by lesser-known participants: Samuel Blachley Webb describing courage and panic at Bunker Hill; Sarah Hodgkins writing longingly to her absent soldier husband; Jabez Fitch recounting the last hours of a wounded American officer in Brooklyn; Albion Waldo chronicling the privations and miseries of Valley Forge; Otho Holland Williams recording, with appealing candor, American defeats and victories in South Carolina. The volume also contains writings by American Loyalists and by British officers and officials serving in America that provide provocative insights into the losing side of an epochal conflict. All selections are written by people who were in America at the time of the conflict. The American Revolution also includes a chronology of events, biographical and explanatory notes, and an index.
