

VENOMOUS VS. POISONOUS

What's the Difference and Why Does it Matter?

Do you know the difference between venomous and poisonous? Many people use these terms interchangeably, but there are important distinctions between the two that could save your life!

Venomous

- Refers to animals that inject toxins through a bite or sting
- Examples include snakes, spiders, and scorpions
- Toxins are typically used for self-defense or hunting prey
- Symptoms of venomous bites or stings may include pain, swelling, and tissue damage

Poisonous

- Refers to plants or animals that release toxins when touched or ingested
- Examples include poison ivy, mushrooms, and some frogs
- Toxins are typically used for self-defense against predators
- Symptoms of poisoning may include nausea, vomiting, and organ damage

- It's important to understand the difference between venomous and poisonous because the treatment for each can be different. If you've been bitten or stung by a venomous animal, seek medical attention immediately. If you've come into contact with a poisonous plant or animal, wash the affected area thoroughly and seek medical attention if symptoms develop. Remember, knowledge is power when it comes to staying safe in the great outdoors!
