What the Water Gave Me: Poems After Frida Kahlo Pascale Petit, 2013-01-18 What the Water Gave Me contains fifty two poems in the voice of the Mexican painter Frida Kahlo Some of the poems are close interpretations of Kahlo's work while others are parallels or version homages where Petit draws on her experience as a visual artist to create alternative paintings with words More than just a verse biography this collection explores how Kahlo transformed trauma into art after the artist's near fatal bus accident Petit with her vivid style her feel for nature and her understanding of pain and redemption fully inhabits Kahlo's world Each poem is an evocation of how art works on the pain spectrum laced with splashes of ferocious colour Their apparent shared sensibility makes the ventriloquism of these poems entirely unforced and while Kahlo's voice is subtly distinguished from Petit's own both women have a way of taking painful private experiences and transmuting them through imagery into something that has the power of folklore. They capture the unsettling spirit of Frida Kahlo and her work perfectly. Poetry London. Farewell to the Muse: Love, War and the Women of Surrealism Whitney Chadwick, 2017-11-14 A fascinating examination of the ambitions and friendships of a talented group of midcentury women artists. Farewell to the Muse documents what it meant to be young, ambitious, and female in the context of an avant-garde movement defined by celebrated men whose backgrounds were often quite different from those of their younger lovers and companions. Focusing on the 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s, Whitney Chadwick charts five female friendships among the Surrealists to show how Surrealism, female friendship, and the experiences of war, loss, and trauma shaped individual women's transitions from someone else's muse to mature artists in their own right. Her vivid account includes the fascinating story of Claude Cahun and Suzanne Malherbe in occupied Jersey, as well as the experiences of Lee Miller and Valentine Penrose at the front line. Chadwick draws on personal correspondence between women, including the extraordinary letters between Leonora Carrington and Leonor Fini during the months following the arrest and imprisonment of Carrington's lover Max Ernst, and the letter Frida Kahlo shared with her friend and lover Jacqueline Lamba years after it was written in the late 1930s. This history brings a new perspective to the political context of Surrealism, as well as fresh insights on the vital importance of female friendship to its progress.

Flowers and Towers Nira Tessler, 2015-11-25 This book explores the meaning and symbolism of the flower motif in the art of women artists from the nineteenth century to the present day. It begins with a discussion of the symbolic significance of the flower in canonical texts such as the Song of Songs, in which the female lover is likened to a lily among the thorns, and to an enclosed garden. These allegorical images permeated into Christian iconography, attaining various expressions in the plastic arts from the twelfth through nineteenth centuries. The heart of the book is a discussion of the meaning of the change in representations of the flower, and at the same time the appearance of amazing images of masculine skyscrapers in the works of avant-garde American women artists during the 1920s and 30s, in three hubs of Modernist art: New York, California, and Mexico. Tessler explains how modernist artists of various fields of art, such as Glaspell, Stettheimer, O'Keeffe, Pelton, Cunningham, Mather, Modotti, and Kahlo, were aware of the religious symbolism of the flower in Judaism and Christianity and turned it into an emblem of the new modern woman with her own views of the world. Flowers and Towers concludes by presenting the works of contemporary feminist American artists such as Chicago and Schapiro, who pay tribute to those same Modernist artists by creating a new and daring image of the flower and using feminine materials and techniques that link them as it were to their spiritual mothers.
