Effectiveness Of World Bank Support For Community Development:

The Effectiveness of World Bank Support for Community-based and -driven Development, 2005-01-01 Participatory approaches that involve local communities in their own development have gained substantial support among international donors over the past quarter century and have become increasingly important in the work of the World Bank Community participation is an approach to development that can be used with any Bank lending instrument and across sectors Projects can involve communities in different ways by sharing information consulting collaborating or empowering them The process of involving communities in project activities is also expected to contribute in most cases to communi

Assessing World Bank Support for Trade, 1987-2004 Yvonne Manu Tsikata, 2006-03-14 An independent evaluation of the World Bank's extensive support to developing countries on trade issues between 1987 and 2004 The study assesses the development effectiveness of World Bank trade related advocacy capacity building lending and research It examines the extent to which the Bank's policies and assistance have met its stated objectives in the area of trade and makes recommendations to strengthen the effectiveness of future Bank trade assistance

IEG Review of World Bank Assistance for Financial Sector Reform Laurie Effron, 2006-01-01 This evaluation presents an independent assessment of the Bank's support for financial sector reforms over the period FY93-03 It assesses the extent to which the objectives of Bank assistance were achieved including reducing government ownership of financial intermediaries decreased market concentration increased competition and efficiency healthier and more stable financial intermediaries and deeper more developed financial systems It also examines Bank support for financial sector reforms in countries under crisis

World Bank Assistance to the Financial Sector Laurie Effron, 2006-01-01 This report is a synthesis of three evaluations carried out by the Independent Evaluation Group and completed between July 2005 and February 2006 on different aspects of Bank assistance to financial sector development in client countries The three evaluation reports are World Bank Lending for Lines of Credit An IEG Evaluation IEG Review of World Bank Assistance for Financial Sector Reform and Financial Sector Assessment Program IEG Review of the Joint World Bank and IMF Initiative This paper seeks to draw out common themes and issues that have arisen from the three evaluations which reviewed major components of the Bank's assistance during more than a decade to the financial sectors of client countries

World Bank Engagement at the State Level World Bank, 2010-04-21 This report is a pilot cross country study that summarizes 10 years 1998-2008 of the World Bank's engagement at the state level in selected large federal countries and combines elements of a country assistance evaluation and a thematic review It looks at several strategic and operational questions posed by state level engagement among them the selection of states the scope and the modalities of engagement According to the report two tendencies often in tension featured in most approaches for selection of states for direct engagement One was to support better performing reformist states while the other was to support the poorest states as a more direct route to reducing poverty Overall the study confirms the desirability of continued selective lending in a few focus states Among other findings the Bank's engagement with progressive reformist states has added value and has been highly appreciated but in order to enhance the poverty impact of state level interventions greater weight should be given to the needs of poorest states by balancing states propensity to reform and the concentration of poverty within them continued focus on public finance management appears sound irrespective of whether engagement is confined to this area or serves as an entry point for broader engagement there is considerable scope for greater impact from knowledge transfer between states and countries and expanded knowledge services to the state level clients

Strengthening the World Bank's Role in Global Programs and Partnerships Uma Lele, 2006-01-01 This volume reports on a conference held by the World Bank's independent Operations Evaluation Department OED to discuss the Bank's role in global program partnerships The starting point for the discussions was a comprehensive review by OED of the effectiveness of 26 of the largest programs including the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research and programs in health environment and trade Participants at the conference provided crosscutting lessons about program design implementation and evaluation and shared views about how the Bank can best help build commitment and assure financing for high priority global public goods that benefit the poor

Climate Change and the World Bank Group, 2009-01-01 Kenneth Chomitz was the evaluation manager and main author for this study P xiii

World Bank Lending for Lines of Credit Laurie Effron, 2006-01-01 This review of World Bank support for lines of credit channeled through local financial institutions in client countries finds that the Bank's own guidelines have not been followed and outcomes are poor

Pawar, 2009-09-11 This book familiarizes readers with the Asia Pacific region presents the major social economic and political issues maps contemporary community development trends and critically analyzes the challenges of and opportunities for community development practice in the Asia Pacific region

Development Without Aid David A. Phillips, 2013-04-15 Development Without Aid opens up perspectives about foreign aid to the world's poorest countries Growing up in Malawi the author developed a sense of the limitations of foreign assistance and from this evolves a critique of foreign aid as an alien resource unable to provide the dynamism that could propel the poorest countries out of poverty The book aims to help move the discussion beyond foreign aid It examines the rapid growth of the world's diasporas as a quasi indigenous resource of increasing strength in terms of both financial and human capital and considers how far such a resource might supersede aid It uses extensive research findings to explore the possibilities for a resumption of sovereignty by poor states especially in Africa over their own development with the assistance of the world's diasporas

World Bank Assistance to Agriculture in Sub-Saharan Africa, 2007-01-01 Sub-Saharan Africa is a critical development priority it has some of the world's poorest countries and during the past two decades the number of poor in the Region has doubled to 300 million more than 40 percent of the Region's population Africa remains behind on most of the Millennium Development Goals MDGs and is unlikely to reach them by 2015 With some of the world's poorest countries

Africa is a development priority for the donor community. A major drag on Africa's development is the underperformance of the critical agriculture sector which has been neglected both by donors and governments over the past two decades. The sector faces a variety of constraints that are particular to agriculture in Africa and make its development a complex challenge. Poor governance and conflict in several countries further complicate matters. IEG has assessed the development effectiveness of World Bank assistance in addressing constraints to agricultural development in Africa over the period of fiscal 1991-2006.

What is Effective Aid? Charles Kenny, 2006. There are significant weaknesses in some of the traditional justifications for assuming that aid will foster development. This paper looks at what the cross-country aid effectiveness literature and World Bank Operations Evaluation Department reviews have suggested about effective aid, first in terms of promoting income growth and then for promoting other goals. This review forms the basis for a discussion of recommendations to improve aid effectiveness and a discussion of effective aid allocation. Given the multiple potential objectives for aid, there is no one right answer. However, it appears that there are a number of reforms to aid practices and distribution that might help to deliver a more significant return to aid resources. We should provide aid where institutions are already strong where they can be strengthened with the help of donor resources or where they can be bypassed with limited damage to existing institutional capacity. The importance of institutions to aid outcomes, as well as the fungibility of aid flows, suggests that programmatic aid should be expanded in countries with strong institutions while project aid should be supported based on its ability to transfer knowledge and test new practices and support global public good provision rather than merely as a tool of financial resource transfer. The importance of institutions also suggests that we should be cautious in our expectations regarding the results of increased aid flows.

Annual Review of Development Effectiveness 2006 Monika Huppi, 2006. The results agenda adopted by the World Bank and other donors aims to ensure that development assistance yields sustainable poverty reduction. Effective poverty reduction results from three main factors: sustained and inclusive growth, effective service delivery to the poor, and capable public sector institutions that are accountable to stakeholders for the results they achieve. The Annual Review of Development Effectiveness 2006 assembles evaluative evidence around three questions central to poverty reduction: How effectively has economic growth translated into poverty reduction in Bank-assisted countries and what factors have affected these results? What factors have led to high-quality results in areas that deliver services to the poor? What measures help raise the accountability of public institutions responsible for delivering and sustaining these results? The report identifies three key areas where the World Bank can further strengthen its effectiveness in helping countries reduce poverty. Economic growth has improved in many Bank-client countries, but a stronger focus on the nature of growth is needed to ensure that such growth leads to jobs for the poor and productivity increases in poorer regions and sectors where the poor earn their incomes. Consistent use of a clearly articulated results chain helps ensure that Bank-country assistance programs and individual projects set realistic objectives that key cross-sectoral constraints to achieving them are adequately considered and that due attention is given to building capacity A realistic assessment of the political economy of governance related reforms is needed to tailor efforts to increase the accountability of public sector institutions to local conditions

Reform and Growth R. Kyle Peters, 2017-09-04 Although the quest for growth remains as elusive as it was more than a decade ago there is now much greater consensus on the policies and institutional changes that are needed to foster growth and economic development But debate continues on the timing sequencing and local adaptation of these reforms Furthermore although the benefits of reform are well documented the reasons as to why and when reforms occur still remain somewhat unclear Many countries go through long periods of stagnation or even decline without being able to create an environment for change while others seem able to break the hold of vested interests and start following paths of reform In October 2004 the Operations Evaluation Department OED of the World Bank held a conference on the Effectiveness of Policies and Reform This event provided a forum at which participants over 500 government officials civil society representatives and World Bank staff could discuss how to improve the effectiveness of World Bank support for development policies and reform programs Included in this volume are the contributions of distinguished development practitioners on issues such as the links between good performance and policy change how windows of opportunity can best be used to promote reform how ownership of policies and reform programs can be encouraged and how developed country policies can be improved to create a better global environment for development

Budget Support as More Effective Aid? Stefan Koeberle, Zoran Stavreski, Jan Walliser, 2006-01-01 Budget support has become an increasingly important instrument in the context of a partnership based approach to development assistance Compared to traditional modes of aid delivery it promises greater country ownership reduced transaction costs better donor coordination scaling up of poverty reduction and potentially greater development effectiveness This book presents a timely and valuable review of key concepts issues experiences and emerging lessons relevant to budget support It provides an overview of principal characteristics expectations and concerns related to budget support key design and implementation issues as well as some practical experiences The contributors include government representatives from developing countries leading academic scholars bilateral development agencies and development practitioners from international financial institutions including the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund They present a wide range of views on key issues such as the choice of instruments alignment of budget support with country programs predictability and coordination and conditionality The authors draw their insightful analysis on the contemporary research and evaluation work as well as the broad practical experience with budget support This book will be of great interest to practitioners in aid recipient countries and international financial institutions bilateral agencies and civil organizations involved in budget support

Building Effective Employment Programs for Unemployed Youth in the Middle East and North Africa Diego F. Angel-Urdinola, Arvo Kuddo, Amina Semlali, 2013-07-17 Given the labor market challenges that countries in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region are facing notably high unemployment prevalence of skills mismatches low labor market mobility and lack of formal employment networks employment services could be a relevant policy instrument to assist unemployed individuals to find jobs Despite high and increasing unemployment rates employers in the region are facing difficulties to find workers whose competences and skills fit their employment needs The study first surveys international best practices for the delivery of employment services and then reviews the provision of these services in a selected group of countries in the MENA region with a focus on public provision through existing public employment agencies Findings indicate public agencies in the region face many challenges for the effective delivery of employment programs namely poor administrative capacity system fragmentation lack of governance and accountability regulation bottlenecks and flaws in program design In order to help unemployed workers to obtain the competences required by available jobs this study proposes a reform agenda based on the development of strong partnerships between public agencies public providers and employers for the design and implementation of flexible employment programs that respond to real employment needs These partnershipss will need to be developed with strong governance mechanisms that make beneficiaries private providers and firms accountable for making sure that investments in employment programs lead to employment insertion The book is directed to policy makers practitioners economists and anyone interested in international best practices to promote a more effective delivery of employment services

Public Sector Reform, 2008-01-01 The effectiveness and efficiency of a country's public sector is vital to the success of development activities including those the World Bank supports Sound financial management an efficient civil service and administrative policy efficient and fair collection of taxes and transparent operations that are relatively free of corruption all contribute to good delivery of public services The Bank has devoted an increasing share of its lending and advisory support to the reform of central governments so it is important to understand what is working what needs improvement and what is missing IEG has examined lending and other kinds of Bank support in 1999 2006 for public sector reform in four areas public financial management administrative and civil service revenue administration and anticorruption and transparency Although a majority of countries that borrowed to support public sector reform experienced improved performance in some dimensions there were shortcomings in important areas and in overall coordination The frequency of improvement was higher among IBRD borrowers than among IDA borrowers Performance usually improved for public financial management tax administration and transparency but did not usually with respect to civil service
