BOOK JACKET

John Rothenstein in the Interwar Years David McCann, 2023-07-12 Appointed in 1938 Sir John Rothenstein was the first director of the Tate to embrace modern art mounting a series of daring exhibitions and procuring a procession of audacious masterworks that in the words of one contemporary completely knocked the stuffiness out of that veritable institution So why since he died in 1991 has his name become a byword for reactionary conservatism The answer is that from the outset of his career Rothenstein refused to bow to the patriarchs of the avant garde In the 1920s while they were busy decrying the figurative tradition Rothenstein was championing a brilliant generation of artists whose work remained firmly rooted within it In the 1930s while they advocated a geometrical art of the utmost austerity Rothenstein used his first curatorial positions to promote a new wave of exciting young British realists Pitted against the progressives of Hampstead and Bloomsbury and inspired by the anti vanguardism of his father and Wyndham Lewis this book charts Rothenstein's earliest efforts to champion modern realistic painting in an age of abstraction Along the way it uncovers his selfless and pioneering patronage of artists as diverse as Stanley Spencer Edward Bawden Evelyn Dunbar Paul Nash Charles Mahoney and Eric Ravilious In so doing it also establishes his importance in the reassessment of twentieth century figuration going on today Literature as History Simon Barker, Jo Gill, 2011-10-27 Literature as History presents a selection of specially commissioned essays by a range of key contemporary thinkers on the interdisciplinary study of literature and history The unifying theme is the interrelationship between literary cultural production and its historical moment The essays in the collection are astute and exciting in terms of their engagement with ever changing developments in critical and theoretical practice while retaining an invaluable focus on familiar and engaging texts and authors The contributors offer a reappraisal of the nature of literary studies today looking back over the thirty five years of Peter Widdowson's career a career which has coincided with the emergence of challenges to and reformulations of critical theory and ask what the future holds particularly for the interdisciplinary ways of working which Widdowson pioneered Bringing together distinguished scholars in the interdisciplinary study of English and History it seizes the opportunity to take stock of the current field of literary studies and to ask searching questions about its future development
