The Flaming Forest James Oliver Curwood, 2015-07-07 This early work by James Oliver Curwood was originally published in 1921 and we are now republishing it with a brand new introductory biography In Curwood's action filled novel The Flaming Forest North West police sergeant David Carrigan's assignment is to track down a criminal however when shot by the beautiful Jeanne Marie Carrigan's priorities start to change James Oliver Jim Curwood was an American action adventure writer and conservationist He was born on 12th June 1878 in Owosso Michigan USA In 1900 Curwood sold his first story while working for the Detroit News Tribune and after this his career in writing was made By 1909 he had saved enough money to travel to the Canadian northwest a trip that provided the inspiration for his wilderness adventure stories The success of his novels afforded him the opportunity to return to the Yukon and Alaska for several months each year allowing Curwood to write more than thirty such books This approach gave his work broad commercial appeal and helped drive his appearance on several best seller lists in the early 1920s His most successful work was his 1920 novel The River's End The book sold more than 100 000 copies and was the fourth best selling title of the year in the United States according to Publisher's Weekly He contributed to various literary and popular magazines throughout his career and his bibliography includes more than 200 such articles short stories and serializations Curwood was an avid hunter in his youth however as he grew older he became an advocate of environmentalism and was appointed to the Michigan Conservation Commission in 1926 The change in his attitude toward wildlife can be best expressed by a quote he gave in The Grizzly King that The greatest thrill is not to kill but to let live Despite this change in attitude Curwood did not have an ultimately fruitful relationship with nature In 1927 while on a fishing trip in Florida Curwood was bitten on the thigh by what was believed to have been a spider and he had an immediate allergic reaction Health problems related to the bite escalated over the next few months as an infection set in He died soon after in his nearby home on Williams Street on 13th August 1927 He was aged just forty nine and was interred in Oak Hill Cemetery Owosso in a family plot Curwood s legacy lives on however and his home of Curwood Castle is now a museum

The Flaming Forest Oliver James Curwood,2008-07-01 The Bookman ,1922 Mountain Clement Wood,2021-04-26 Clement Wood s Mountain is a captivating exploration of the human spirit against the backdrop of nature s overwhelming grandeur Written in a vivid lyrical style the book intricately weaves together themes of solitude aspiration and the struggle for self discovery Wood effectively employs rich imagery and metaphor creating a tapestry that reflects both the physical journey of climbing a mountain and the internal landscape of the psyche Set in the context of early 20th century American literature it captures the burgeoning interest in nature as an escape from industrialization and modernity resonating deeply with the Romantic tradition Clement Wood an accomplished poet and novelist found inspiration from his diverse experiences including his affinity for nature and outdoor exploration His travels and encounters with majestic landscapes shaped his understanding of human resilience and the transformative effects of nature These influences are evident throughout Mountain where Wood s passion for both the written word and the natural world converge to illuminate the profound connection between humanity and the wilderness I highly recommend Mountain to readers who seek a thought provoking journey that marries literary artistry with the awe of nature Wood s work offers not only a narrative rich with adventure but also a reflective meditation on life s challenges making it an essential read for anyone interested in the intersection of literature and the natural world
