s relationship with the RPS was turbulent as the innovative photographer repeatedly challenged the conservative Society In 1903 Steichen took aim at the formulaic photographs favored by the Society writing Some day there may be invented a machine that needs but to be wound up and sent roaming o er hill and dale through fields and meadows by babbling brooks and shady woods in short a machine that will discriminatingly select its subject and by means of a skilful arrangement of springs and screws compose its motif expose the plate develop print and even mount and frame the result of its excursion so that there will remain nothing for us to do but to send it to the Royal Photographic Society s exhibition and gratefully receive the Royal Medal

Edward Steichen, a Life in Photography ,1963 The Family of Man Revisited Gerd Hurm,Anke Reitz,Shamoon Zamir,2020-08-09 The Family of Man is the most widely seen exhibition in the history of photography The book of the exhibition still in print is also the most commercially successful photobook ever published First shown at the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 1955 the exhibition travelled throughout the United States and to forty six countries and was seen by over nine million people Edward Steichen conceived curated and designed the exhibition He explained its subject as the everydayness of life and the essential oneness of mankind throughout the world The exhibition was a statement against war and the conflicts and divisions that threatened a common future for humanity after 1945 The popular international response was overwhelmingly enthusiastic Many critics however have dismissed the exhibition as a form of sentimental humanism unable to address the challenges of history politics and cultural difference This book revises the critical debate about The Family of Man challenging in particular the legacy of Roland Barthes s influential account of the exhibition The expert contributors explore new contexts for understanding Steichen s work and they undertake radically new analyses of the formal dynamics of the exhibition Also presented are documents about the exhibition never before available in English Commentaries by critical theorist Max Horkheimer and novelist Wolfgang Koeppen letters from photographer August Sander and a poetic sequence on the images by Polish poet Witold Wirpsza enable and encourage new critical reflections A detailed survey of audience responses in Munich from 1955 allows a rare glimpse of what visitors thought about the exhibition Today when armed conflict environmental catastrophe and economic inequality continue to threaten our future it seems timely to revisit The Family of Man
