Kagel, Alvin E. Roth, 2016-09-20 An indispensable survey of new developments and results in experimental economics When The Handbook of Experimental Economics first came out in 1995 the notion of economists conducting lab experiments to generate data was relatively new Since then the field has exploded This second volume of the Handbook covers some of the most exciting new growth areas in experimental economics presents the latest results and experimental methods and identifies promising new directions for future research Featuring contributions by leading practitioners the Handbook describes experiments in macroeconomics charitable giving neuroeconomics other regarding preferences market design political economy subject population effects gender effects auctions and learning and the economics of small decisions Contributors focus on key developments and report on experiments highlighting the dialogue between experimenters and theorists While most of the experiments consist of laboratory studies the book also includes several chapters that report extensively on field experiments related to the subject area studied Covers exciting new growth areas in experimental economics Features contributions by leading experts Describes experiments in macroeconomics charitable giving neuroeconomics market design political economy gender effects auctions and more Highlights the dialogue by experimenters with theorists and each other Includes several chapters covering field experiments related to the subject area studied Advancing the Frontiers of Monetary Policy Tobias Adrian, Mr. Douglas Laxton, Mr. Maurice Obstfeld, 2018-04-13 Inflation forecast targeting is state of the art for monetary policy This book explores first principles including managing short term policy trade offs The book also outlines efficient operational procedures and reviews the experiences of Canada the Czech Republic and India The analysis highlights the need for assertive policies and maximum transparency Political Economics and Macroeconomic Policy Torsten Persson, Guido Enrico Tabellini, 1997 This paper surveys the recent literature on the theory of macroeconomic policy We study the effect of various incentive constraints on the policy making process such as lack of credibility political opportunism political ideology and divided government The survey is organized in three parts Part I deals with monetary policy in a simply Phillips curve model it covers credibility issues political business cycles and optimal design of monetary institutions Part II deals with fiscal policy in a dynamic general equilibrium set up the main topics here are credibility of tax policy and political determinants of budget deficits Part III studies economic growth in models with endogenous fiscal policy

Complex Agent-Based Models

Mauro Gallegati, 2018-09-19 This book offers a thorough introduction to the highly promising complex agent based approach to economics in which agent based models ABMs are used to represent economic systems as complex and evolving systems composed of heterogeneous agents of limited rationality who interact with each other generating the system's emergent properties in the process This approach represents a response to the limitations of the dominant theory in economics which does not consider the possibility of a major crisis and to the inability of dynamic stochastic general equilibrium theory to generate empirically falsifiable propositions In the new perspective the focus is on identifying the elements of instability rather than the triggering event As the theory of complexity demonstrates the interactions of heterogeneous agents produce non linearity this puts an end to the age of certainties With ABMs the methodology is from the bottom up The individual parameters and their distribution are estimated and then evaluated to verify whether aggregate regularities emerge on the whole In short not only micro but also meso and macro empirical validation are employed Moreover it shows that the mantra of growth should be supplanted by the concept of a growth Given its depth of coverage the book will enable students at the undergraduate and Master's level to gain a firm grasp of this important emerging approach This book is flower blossomed by one of the two greatest Italian economists Bruce Greenwald Columbia University The author's the ABM prophet's thoughts on economics have been at the forefront of the world Without a firm belief in and dedication to human society it is impossible to write such a book This is a work of high academic value which can help readers quickly understand the history and current situation of complex economic theory In particular we can understand the basic viewpoints academic status advantages and shortcomings of various schools of economic theory Jie Wu Guangzhou Milestone Software Co China

Macroeconomic Instability in Post-communist Countries Jacek Rostowski, 1998 The destruction or collapse of a social system is bound to be cataclysmic and the collapse of the communist system which has played itself out at across twenty eight countries is no exception The political social and economic relations which governed these societies are all being simultaneously changed in a fundamental way In such a context the presence of macroeconomic instability is hardly surprising Yet it is the job of economists to try to identify the specific causes of economic phenomena even when they are caught up in the whirlwind of history This book by a participant in the events examines the causes of very high inflation and large fall in statistically measured output in the post Communist countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union It focuses on the fundamental nature of the shift from supply constrained economies in which there is no unemployment to ones which are constrained by demand on the reconstruction of monetary and credit systems and on the central role of macroeconomic stabilization and generalised liberalisation in creating the basis for private sector growth Many of the chapters have grown out of policy debates in which the author participated
