Keyness in Texts Marina Bondi, Mike Scott, 2010-01-01 This is corpus linguistics with a text linguistic focus The volume concerns lexical inequality the fact that some words and phrases share the quality of being key and thereby reflect or promote important themes in some textual contexts while others do not The patterning of words which differ in their centrality to text meaning is of increasing interest to corpus linguistics At the same time software resources are yielding increasingly more detailed ways of identifying and studying the linkages between key words and phrases in text databases This volume brings together work from some of the leading researchers in this field It presents thirteen studies organized in three sections the first containing a series of studies exploring the nature of keyness itself then a set of five studies looking at keyness in specific discourse contexts and then three studies with an educational focus Edited by two central figures in the development of keyword analysis and with contributions from leading specialists in the field this unique collection brings together a wide range of insights into how keyword analysis can contribute both to linguistic and cultural analysis and to language education It deserves a place on the bookshelves of anyone with an interest in these areas Christopher Tribble King's College London This is a fascinating volume addressing both methodological and theoretical questions in the study of keywords It pushes forward the exploration of the nature of keyness and the interpretation of keywords in their textual contexts An inspiring contribution to a central area of corpus linguistics Michaela Mahlberg University of Nottingham

Texts in Context Jeffrey R. Timm, 1992-01-01 The major religious traditions of South Asia are religions of the book All accept basic arrays of texts of scriptures often seen as sacred reservoirs of meaning and power The West has viewed these texts as bibles of their respective traditions projecting onto them Western values and concerns This book challenges such misconceptions by revealing the complex character of scripture and its interpretation in South Asian religions Texts in Context explores the hermeneutical traditions of Hinduism Buddhism Jainism Islam and Sikhism The question of how we should understand the diversity of text traditions is approached by asking How have traditional thinkers the exegetes within these traditions understood and utilized scripture The answers though remarkably diverse do reveal important similarities and take the discussion of scripture in India to a deeper level This book makes accessible to the non specialist sensibilities and approaches that have previously received little attention in the West but have formed the basis for traditional efforts to understand and utilize scripture It is a collaboration between contemporary thinkers and their traditional counterparts whose voices emerge as they consider the sacred words of the religious traditions of South Asia Texts in Context David Boucher, 2012-12-06 The methodology of the study of the history of political thought is an area of study which has occupied my interests for nearly a decade I was introduced to the subject in University College Swansea My teachers there provided me with an excellent grounding in political studies I am particularly indebted to Bruce Haddock Peter Nicholson and W H Greenleaf Professor Greenleaf was kind enough to supply me with a copy of his bibliography and copies of two of his unpublished papers I continued to pursue my interest in methodology at the London School of Economics and Political Science I am indebted to Ken Minogue and Robert Orr who taught me there My greatest debt is to Dr Joseph Femia of the University of Liverpool who devoted a great deal of time to considering the arguments presented here His criticisms and suggestions for improvement proved to be invaluable I would also like to thank Alan Ryan for his general comments and encouraging advice It would be remiss of me if I neglected to express my gratitude to Dewi Beynon who was my first teacher of politics The research for this project was carried out in the following places The British Library of Political Science London The Sidney Jones Library University of Liverpool The National Library of Scotland Edinburgh The Main Library University of Edinburgh The Arts and Social Science Library University College Cardiff and the Bodleian Library Oxford

The Translation of Religious Texts in the Middle Ages Domenico Pezzini, 2008 The transition from Latin to vernacular languages in the late Middle Ages and the dramatic rise of a new readership produced a huge bulk of translations particularly of religious literature in its various genres The solutions are so multifarious that they defy any attempt to outline general theories This is particularly visible when the same text is translated or rewritten at different times and in different languages or genres Through a minute analysis of texts this book aims at highlighting lexical syntactic and stylistic choices dictated not only by the source but also by new readers and patrons or by new destinations of the works Established categories such as literalness and fidelity are thus questioned and integrated with these other factors which while being more external do nonetheless impinge on the very idea of translation and consequently on its assessment Far from being a mere transfer from one language to another a medieval translation verges on a form of creative writing and as such its study becomes a fascinating investigation into the very process of textual production
