

The book cover features a dark, atmospheric illustration. In the foreground, a stone wall with a crenelated top and a black wrought-iron gate stands on the left. The gate is slightly ajar, revealing a path that leads into a misty, wooded landscape. Bare, gnarled trees with dark trunks and branches are scattered throughout the scene. In the distance, a large, imposing stone building, possibly a castle or manor, is visible through the haze. The overall color palette is muted, with greys, browns, and soft blues, creating a sense of mystery and age.

spatial turn in scholarship recent years have also seen an emotive turn an increased interest in the study of emotion in literature Many works on landscape in classical antiquity focus on themes such as the sacred and the pastoral and the emotions such spaces evoke such as respectively feelings of awe or tranquillity in settings both urban and rural Far less scholarship has been generated by the locus terribilis the space associated with negative emotions because of the bad things that happen there In short the recent emotive turn in humanities studies has so far largely neglected several of the more negative emotions including anxiety fear terror and dread The papers in this volume focus on those neglected negative emotions especially dread and they do so while treating many types of space including domestic suburban rural and virtual and while covering many genres and authors including the epic poems of Homer Greek tragedy Roman poetry and historiography medical writing paradoxography and the short story
