law topic there is a limited repertoire of core issues that must be identified and then resolved with advocacy argument This pattern of issues and arguments arises from embedded and recurring factual patterns and the resulting criminal law performance of prosecutors defense lawyers and trial and appellate judges over decades and even centuries Your professor presents only some of the core issues and related arguments from these repertoires in her course and on her criminal law exam Thus you can systematically learn the set of core issues and arguments in each topic presented by your and know the issues before you go into the exam room The exam then presents no surprises What do you mean by resolving the core issues with advocacy argument Identifying the core issues from your professor s course is the first critical task The second critical task is resolving these issues with advocacy argument Advocacy argument is the lawyer s single minded marshalling of the relevant facts and doctrine that are necessary to resolve the identified issues in favor of either the prosecution or defense This book helps you with both tasks identifying the exam issues and resolving them

Logan,1990 American prisons and jails are overflowing with inmates To relieve the pressure courts have imposed fines on overcrowded facilities and fiscally strapped governments have been forced to release numerous prisoners prematurely In this study noted criminologist Charles Logan makes the case for commercial operation of prisons and jails as an alternative to the government s monopoly On philosophical economic legal and practical grounds Logan argues a compelling case for the private and commercial operation of prisons He critically examines all objections raised by opponents and concludes that while private prisons face many potential problems they do so primarily because they are prisons not because they are private Historically the record of private ownership and operation of corrections facilities has been bleak ridden with political corruption physical abuse of prisoners and the single minded pursuit of profits This study demonstrates that this need not be the case Critiquing the tendency to contrast private prisons with a hypothetical ideal Logan instead compares them with existing public institutions arguing that the potential problems attributed to private prisons are experienced by their public counterparts The work examines ten sets of issues including the propriety cost security and quantity of prisons to set out a strong case for the viability of proprietary prisons

A Primer on Legal Reasoning Michael Evan Gold, 2018-11-15. After years of teaching law courses to undergraduate, graduate and law students, Michael Evan Gold has come to believe that the traditional way of teaching analysis, explanation and example is superior to the Socratic Method for students at the outset of their studies. In courses taught Socratically, even the most gifted students can struggle and many others are lost in a fog for months. Gold offers a meta-approach to teaching legal reasoning, bringing the process of argumentation to the fore. Using examples both from the law and from daily life, Gold's book will help undergraduates and first-year law students to understand legal discourse. The book analyzes and illustrates the principles of legal reasoning such as logical deduction, analogies and distinctions, and application of law to fact, and even solves the mystery of how to spot an issue. In Gold's experience, students who understand the principles of analytical thinking are able to understand arguments, to evaluate and reply to them, and ultimately to construct sound arguments of their own. This book develops and tests a dual process theory of political beliefs attitudes and behavior claiming that all thinking feeling reasoning and doing have an automatic component as well as a conscious deliberative component The authors are especially interested in the impact of automatic feelings on political judgments and evaluations This research is based on laboratory experiments which allow the testing of five basic hypotheses hot cognition automaticity affect transfer affect contagion and motivated reasoning
