Closing the Capabilities Gap Ortrud Leßmann,Hans-Uwe Otto,Holger Ziegler,2011-03-08 The volume relates the Capabilities Approach to research and practice in education welfare economics and social policy Thus it challenges traditional objectives and approaches in these fields The authors suggest a capabilities perspective that calls into question the metric of success of these disciplines and in the fields of politics It moves the attention away from economic growth and human capital towards autonomy and agency freedom of young individuals Especially with respect to the young this implies a substantial shift of perspectives Young persons have been particularly highlighted in the political debate on the one hand side they are one of the groups with the highest risk to face situations of poverty on the other hand side young persons are the main focus group of educational strategies in the form of investments in human capital which dominate the discourse In this context the capability perspective implies a provoking shift of paradigms because it takes place against the background of capitalist societies redefining their notion of the public and diminishing the collective responsibility for the vulnerable The volume discusses whether and in how far the capabilities perspective makes a difference and provides additional value in terms of promoting democracy and justice on a social level as well as well being on the level of individual particularly young individuals Incompatibilism's Allure Ishtiyaque Haji,2008-11-03 The role of freedom in assigning moral responsibility is one of the deepest problems in metaphysics and moral theory Incompatibilism s Allure provides original analysis of the principal arguments for incompatibilism Ishtiyaque Haji incisively examines the consequence argument the direct argument the deontic argument the manipulation argument the impossibility argument and the luck objection He introduces the most important contemporary discussions in a manner accessible to advanced undergraduates but also suited to professional philosophers The result is a unique and compelling account for incompatibilism s continuing allure Capital, capabilities and culture: a human development approach to student and school transformation Cliona Hannon,2020-01-15 This book applies the capability approach as an evaluative lens through which to explore the range of capabilities that emerged over a three year period through the Trinity Access 21 College for Every Student TA21 CFES higher education access project in four schools Qualitative analysis is presented from a longitudinal study of four schools over a three year period drawing on data from four student focus groups involving 21 student participants and 14 individual student interviews An additional sixteen school personnel contributed in interviews There are three main findings first specific student capabilities emerge because of their engagement in the TA21 CFES core practices of Leadership Mentoring and Pathways to College These are autonomy practical reason college knowledge identity social relations and networks and hope Second students encounter a range of inhibiting social conversion factors in developing capabilities and persisting with higher education aspirations These are the negative pull of peer relations pressure related to the Junior Certificate limited subject choice and conflicting family expectations Third it is the combination of their own emerging capability set along with a network of trusted relationships with others that enables them to overcome potentially corrosive disadvantage and translate their experiences into fertile functionings It is proposed that these findings have national and international relevance for widening participation interventions The research makes a methodological contribution as it is the first use of qualitative longitudinal research QLR in Ireland within a lived project aimed at working class students over a three year period It contributes empirically as it provides new knowledge about the impact of interventions aimed at developing students capability set and how these might help them to develop navigational capital and post secondary educational aspirations It also makes a conceptual contribution to how we frame the design and evaluation of impact of widening participation initiatives as it takes a capability approach to considering how students develop higher education aspirations over time towards what they consider a life of value It is useful to researchers practitioners and policy makers who are interested in taking an evidence based approach to developing higher education access programmes

Chase, Chance, and Creativity James H. Austin, 2003-08-15 A personal story of the ways in which persistence chance and creativity interact in biomedical research This first book by the author of Zen and the Brain examines the role of chance in the creative process James Austin tells a personal story of the ways in which persistence chance and creativity interact in biomedical research the conclusions he reaches shed light on the creative process in any field Austin shows how in his own investigations unpredictable events shaped the outcome of his research and brought about novel results He then goes beyond this story of serendipity to propose a new classification of the varieties of chance drawing on his own research and examples from the history of science including the famous accidents that led Fleming to the discovery of penicillin Finally he explores the nature of the creative process considering not only the environmental and neurophysiological correlates of creativity but also the role of intuition in both scientific discoveries and spiritual quests This updated MIT Press paperback edition includes a new introduction and recent material on medical research creativity and spirituality

The (Im)possibility of Forgiveness Dion Forster, 2019-09-10 The findings from this study go beyond biblical theological scholarship on forgiveness Dion Forster boldly succeeds in showing that creating conditions for deeper human connection transforms impossibility into possibility and shines a light on the face of the Other who can now be forgiven Pumla Gobodo Madikizela Professor and Research Chair of Historical Trauma and Transformation Stellenbosch University Dion Forster refuses to accept the conclusion that understandings of forgiveness may be so different and complex across social racial and cultural groups in South Africa that actual forgiveness may be impossible Using Matthew 18 15 35 as a meeting ground he gathers ordinary Methodist Christians for cross cultural intergroup Bible reading He draws upon the philosophical integral theory of Ken Wilber the insights of intergroup contact theory and the methods of critical biblical exegesis to organize analyse and understand this encounter What emerges is a hopeful conclusion that differing conceptions of forgiveness its challenges and possibilities can be understood shared and perhaps actualized across social racial and cultural barriers Bruce C Birch Dean and Professor of Biblical Theology Wesley Theological Seminary Reading Dion Forster on the impossibility of forgiveness I was once again struck by our desperate need to learn more about ourselves and one another but also about the meaning of forgiveness in our respective communities This is an excellent example of the potential of Intercultural Bible Reading Forster not only makes an outstanding academic contribution with implications for New Testament studies Systematic and Public Theology but also for flesh and blood communities wrestling with the possibilities and perils of forgiveness Juliana Claassens Professor of Old Testament Studies and Head of Department Chair of the Gender Unit Stellenbosch University This book deals with contested and topical matters Biblical hermeneutics has always been contested how to read and understand Biblical passages Things become even more contested when such passages are read inter culturally they become even more contested when the words are about contested personal and social issues like Jesus words on forgiveness in Matthew 18 Empirical studies like this show how deeply contested such readings truly are in the context of South African churches with their painful histories of division and conflict Future academic work will therefore benefit from the creative and careful methodological approach developed in this study However this book offers much more than academic promise precisely because of the theme so topical today and without doubt topical for a long time to come and in many other places in our contemporary world as well Forster offers resources for reading and conversation for everyone concerned with public life today This is public theology in action showing how faith matters without prescribing answers but rather by invitation to join an informed discussion Dirk J Smit The Rimmer and Ruth deVries Professor of Reformed Theology and Public Life Princeton Theological Seminary

Youth, Gender and the Capabilities Approach to Development Aurora Lopez-Fogues, Firdevs Melis Cin, 2017-10-12 Youth Gender and the Capabilities Approach to Development investigates to what extent young people have access to fair opportunities the factors influencing their aspirations and how able they are to pursue these aspirations and to carry out their life plans The book positions itself in the intersection between capabilities youth and gender in recognition of the fact that without gender equality capabilities cannot be universal and development strategies are likely to fail to achieve their full objectives Within the framework of the human development and capabilities approach Youth Gender and the Capabilities Approach to Development focuses on examples in the areas of education political spaces and social practices that confront inequality and injustice head on by seeking to advance young people's capabilities and their agency to make valuable life plans The book focuses how youth policies and issues can be approached globally from a capabilities friendly perspective arguing for the promotion of freedoms and opportunities both in educational and political spheres with the aim of developing a more just world With a range of studies from multiple and diverse national contexts including Russia Spain South Africa Tanzania Morocco Turkey Syria Colombia India and Argentina this important multidisciplinary collection will be of interest to researchers within youth studies gender studies and development studies as well as to policy makers and NGOs

Training, performance and dynamic capabilities: New insights from absorptive, innovative, adaptative and learning capacities Juan Moreno-Garcia, Felipe Hernández-Perlines, Benito Yáñez-Araque, Murad Ali, 2023-07-04 Geography, Technology and Instruments of Exploration Fraser MacDonald, Charles W.J. Withers, 2016-04-22 Focusing on aspects of the functioning of technology and by looking at instruments and at instrumental performance this book addresses the epistemological questions arising from examining the technological bases to geographical exploration and knowledge claims Questions of geography and exploration and technology are addressed in historical and contemporary context and in different geographical locations and intellectual cultures The collection brings together scholars in the history of geographical exploration historians of science historians of technology and importantly experts with curatorial responsibilities for and museological expertise in major instrument collections Ranging in their focus from studies of astronomical practice to seismography meteorological instruments and rockets from radar to the hand held barometer the chapters of this book examine the ways in which instruments and questions of technology too often overlooked hitherto offer insight into the connections between geography and exploration Time and the Museum Jen A. Walklate, 2022-07-25 Time and the Museum Literature Phenomenology and the Production of Radical Temporality is the first explicit in depth study of the nature of museum temporality It argues as its departure point that the way in which museums have hitherto been understood as temporal in the scholarship as spaces of death othering memory and history is too simplistic and has resulted in museum temporality being reduced to a strange heterotopia Foucault something peculiar and thus black boxed However to understand the ways in which museum temporalities and timescapes are produced and the consequences that these have upon display and visitor response is crucial because time is itself a political entity with ethical consequence Time and the Museum highlights something we all experience in some way time as a key ethical and political feature of the museum space Utilizing the fields of literature and phenomenology the book examines how time is experienced and performed in the public areas of three museum spaces within Oxford the Ashmolean Pitt Rivers and Oxford University Museum of Natural History Using concepts such as shape structure form presence absence authenticity and aura the book argues for a reconsideration of museum time as something with radical potential and political weight It will appeal to academics and postgraduate students especially those engaged in the study of museums culture literature and design Climate Change Adaptation and Human Capabilities D. Kronlid, 2014-11-12 Climate Change Adaptation and Human Capabilities explores learning health mobility and play as climate capabilities and produces new insights into the depth of climate change impact on social life Capabilities and Happiness Luigino Bruni, Flavio Comim, Maurizio Pugno, 2008-10-30 Approaches to well being have been hotly debated across the social sciences with most challenging the conventional economic approach which uses income as a key indicator of happiness This volume compares and contrasts two such approaches the Capability and Happiness Approach
