Animal Rights and the Hebrew Bible Saul M. Olyan, 2023-11-01

Does the Hebrew Bible ascribe an implicit form of legal personhood or legal rights to animals If so which animals domesticated or wild or both receive which rights and for what purpose Scholars have been slow to consider these questions and animal oriented research as a whole in the field of biblical studies For the first time author Saul M Olyan addresses these questions in detail and explores how the evidence of the Hebrew Bible might contribute to contemporary debates about animal rights in the academy in the courts in the public square and in religious communities In this book Olyan demonstrates that seven different biblical texts extend both legal personhood and rights to animals The rights conferred upon them are mainly specific and situational and the legal personhood associated with them is in most cases best characterized as limited Nonetheless he argues that the animal rights described by these texts are genuine because they are not contingent on the needs or demands of others they do not disappear or give way because of conflict with the interests of another legal person and they may not be violated with impunity Finally Olyan considers how the biblical texts examined in his analyses might be used to extend or strengthen the arguments of those advocating for animals in judicial academic political or religious settings

Pet Politics Susan Hunter, Richard A. Brisbin, 2016-02-15 Although scholars in the disciplines of law psychology philosophy and sociology have published a considerable number of prescriptive normative and theoretical studies of animals in society Pet Politics presents the first study of the development of companion animal or pet law and policy in Canada and the United States by political scientists The authors examine how people and governments classify three species of pets or companion animals cats dogs and horses for various degrees of legal protection They then detail how interest groups shape the agenda for companion animal legislation and regulation and the legislative and administrative formulation of anticruelty kennel licensing horse slaughter feral and roaming cat and breed ban policies Finally they examine the enforcement of these laws and policies by agencies and the courts Using an eclectic mix of original empirical data original case studies and interviews and relying on general theories and research about the policy process and the sociopolitical function of legality the authors illustrate that pet policy is a unique field of political struggle a conflict that originates from differing perspectives about whether pets are property or autonomous beings and clashing norms about the care of animals The result of the political struggle the authors argue is difficulty in the enactment of policies and especially in the implementation and enforcement of laws that might improve the welfare of companion animals

Domestic Animals, Humans, and Leisure

Janette Young, Neil Carr, 2018-01-29 Domestic animals are an integral component of human leisure experience and can enhance the physical social and mental wellbeing of humans The interplay of human and animal experiences of justice wellbeing rights and roles within leisure is the central theme of this book Research explores the position of domesticated animals in human leisure experiences in a wide array of leisure settings Chapters question whether domestic animals may have a desire for leisure that is different from human leisure whether animals have and wish to fulfil needs for meaningful leisure or non leisure and whether human leisure needs and desires may coincide or contradict wellbeing interests of animals This book provides a venue for the dissemination and exploration of research which champions the welfare and rights of these animals to have their needs and interests in leisure recognised It moves the debate about animals in leisure beyond the current limits which have seen research mainly confined to the exotic other rather than more mundane everyday domestic animals This book will be of interest to individuals in the fields of tourism ethics zoology animal behaviour and leisure studies
