Researching Local History M. Williams, 2014-05-12. This practical but inspiring book considers what local history is, why researching it is valuable and rewarding, and how we should go about it. Issues addressed include getting oral and documentary evidence, keeping records, the nature of data, information and knowledge, and their use to create the different products of local history research. Michael Williams is both a professional scientist and a local historian of long standing, and he uses both sides of his experience in a text that is at once rigorous about the historical process and also a fascinating and often moving account of his adventures into the past of his own family and community. He demonstrates local history methodology through his research into ancestry, migration, work, war and religion in the towns and villages of England and Wales. It is richly illustrated throughout.

Exploring the Postsecular, 2010-05-17. The re-emergence of the religious in secular domains has led prominent scholars such as Jürgen Habermas and Charles Taylor to speculate about a new postsecular age. The alleged shift from the secular to the postsecular is most visible in the spheres of urban public space, governance and civil society. This volume addresses contemporary relations between religion, politics and urban societies primarily from a theoretical perspective, while also paying attention to empirical manifestations of the central conceptual ideas. The primary focus is the relations between public religion, deprivatization of religion and theorizations of modernity and modernities, with the secondary and closely related focus on theorizing postsecular urbanism including the role of faith based organizations FBOs in cities Contributors include Justin Beaumont James A Beckford Luke Bretherton Paul Cloke Candice Dias Wilhelm Gr b Maaike de Haardt Jason Hackworth Christoph Jedan Kim Knott Michiel Leezenberg Bernice Martin David Martin Gregor McLennan Arie L Molendijk Nihan zdemir S nmez Martijn Oosterbaan Andy F Sanders Anke Schuster and Hetty Zock      Exploring Atmospheres
