Exploring Architecture Eleanor Gawne, 2004 The Routledge Companion to Design Studies Penny Sparke, Fiona Fisher, 2016-06-17 Since the 1990s in response to dramatic transformations in the worlds of technology and the economy design a once relatively definable discipline complete with a set of sub disciplines has become unrecognizable Consequently design scholars have begun to address new issues themes and sub disciplines such as sustainable design design for well being empathic design design activism design anthropology and many more The Routledge Companion to Design Studies charts this new expanded spectrum and embraces the wide range of scholarship relating to design theoretical practice related and historical that has emerged over the last four decades Comprised of forty three newly commissioned essays the Companion is organized into the following six sections Defining Design Discipline Process Defining Design Objects Spaces Designing Identities Gender Sexuality Age Nation Designing Society Empathy Responsibility Consumption the Everyday Design and Politics Activism Intervention Regulation Designing the World Globalization Transnationalism Translation Contributors include both established and emerging scholars and the essays offer an international scope covering work emanating from and relating to design in the United Kingdom mainland Europe North America Asia Australasia and Africa This comprehensive collection makes an original and significant contribution to the field of Design Studies Exploration and Meaning Making in the Learning of Science Bernard Zubrowski, 2009-08-14 Mountaineers Rock Climbers and Science Educators Around the 1920s rock climbing separated from mountaineering to become a separate sport At that time European climbers developed new equipment and techniques enabling them to ascend mountain faces and to climb rocks which were considered unassailable up to that time American climbers went further by expanding and improving on the equipment They even developed a system of quantification where points were given for the degree of difficulty of an ascent This system focused primarily on the pitch of the mountain and it even calculated up to decimals to give a high degree of quantification Rock climbing became a technical system Csikszentmihaly 1976 observed that the sole interest of rock climbers at that time was to climb the rock Rock climbers were known to reach the top and not even glance around at the scenery The focus was on reaching the top of the rock In contrast mountaineers saw the whole mountain as a single unit of perception The ascent to them is a gestalt including the aesthetic historical personal and physical sensations Csikszentmihaly 1976 p 486 This is an example of two contrasting approaches to the same kind of landscape and of two different groups of people Interestingly in the US Europe and Japan a large segment of the early rock climbers were young mathematicians and theoretical physicists while the mountaineers were a more varied lot Think Like an Architect Hal Box, 2010-01-01 An award winning architect and educator demystifies the process of making architecture and explains why good architectural design matters The design of cities and buildings affects the quality of our lives Making the built environments in which we live work and play useful safe comfortable efficient and as beautiful as possible is a universal quest What many don't realize is that professional architects design only about five percent of the built environment While much of what non architects build is beautiful and useful the ugliness and inconveniences that blight many urban areas demonstrate that an understanding of good architectural design is vital for creating livable buildings and public spaces To help promote this understanding among non architects and those considering architecture as a profession award winning architect and professor Hal Box explains the process from concept to completed building using real life examples to illustrate the principles involved To cause what we build to become architecture we have three choices hire an architect become an architect or learn to think like an architect In this book organized as a series of letters to students and friends Box covers what architecture should be and do how to look at and appreciate good buildings how to understand the design process work with an architect or become an architect an overview of architectural history with lists of books to read and buildings to see practical guidance about what goes into constructing a building an architect's typical training and career path how architecture relates to the city where the art of architecture is headed why good architecture matters

Building the Architect's Character Kendra Schank Smith, Albert Smith, 2017-12-22 An understanding of architects character traits can offer important insights into how they design buildings These traits include leadership skills necessary to coordinate a team honest and ethical behavior being well educated and possessing a life long love of learning flexibility resourcefulness and visionary and strategic thinking Characteristics such as these describe a successful person Architects also possess these traits but they have additional skills specifically valuable for the profession These will include the ability to question the use of digital media new materials processes and methods to convey meaning in architectural form Although not exhaustive a discussion of such subjects as defining imaging persuading and fabricating will reveal representational meaning useful for the development of an understanding of architects character Through the analogies and metaphors found in Greek myth the book describes the elusive hard to define characteristics of architects to engage the dilemmas of a changing architectural landscape Building the Architect's Character Explorations in Traits examines traditional and archetypal characteristics of the successful architect to ask if they remain relevant today

The underlying theme of Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is the relationship of architecture to the human being how it frames our lives and orchestrates our experience how it can help us make sense of the world and contribute to our sense of identity and place Exploring these dimensions through a wide range of case studies that illustrate the rich diversity of twentieth and twenty first century architecture this book is essential reading for every architect With the addition of numerous shorter analyses this new edition covers an even greater range of architectural ideas providing students and architects with further inspiration for exploration in their own design work Architects live by ideas But where do they come from And how do they shape buildings There is no one right way to do architecture This book illustrates many Its aim is to explore the rich diversity of architectural creativity by analysing a wide range of examples to extract the ideas behind them Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is a companion to Simon Unwin's Analysing Architecture the Universal Language of Place Making most recent edition 2021 and part of the trilogy which also includes his Exercises in Architecture Learning to Think as an Architect second edition 2022 Together the three books offer an introduction to the workings of architecture providing for the three aspects of learning theory examples and practice Twenty Five Buildings focusses on analysing examples using the methodology offered by Analysing Architecture which operates primarily through the medium of drawing An underlying theme of Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is the relationship of architecture to the human being how it frames our lives and orchestrates our experiences how it can help us give form to the world and contributes to our senses of identity and place Exploring these dimensions through case studies that illustrate the rich diversity of twentieth and twenty first century architecture this book is essential reading and hopefully an inspiration for every architect In this new edition supplementary analysis and discussion has been added to each of the twenty five case studies drawing attention to their influences from and on other architects A number of extra shorter analyses have been included too following the practice of presenting extra small dishes interspersed among main courses in high end restaurants These additional short analyses account for the sign after Twenty Five in the title of this edition and double the number of buildings analysed to around fifty Elements of Architecture Mikkel Bille, Tim Flohr Sorensen, 2016-02-26 Elements of Architecture explores new ways of engaging architecture in archaeology It conceives of architecture both as the physical evidence of past societies and as existing beyond the physical environment considering how people in the past have not just dwelled in buildings but have existed within them The book engages with the meeting point between these two perspectives For although archaeologists must deal with the presence and absence of physicality as a discipline which studies humans through things to understand humans they must also address the performances as well as temporal and affective impacts of these material remains The contributions in this volume investigate the way time performance and movement both physically and emotionally are central aspects of understanding architectural assemblages. It is a book about the constellations of people, places and things that emerge and dissolve as affective, mobile, performative and temporal engagements. This volume juxtaposes archaeological research with perspectives from anthropology, architecture, cultural geography and philosophy in order to explore the kaleidoscopic intersections of elements coming together in architecture. Documenting the ephemeral, relational and emotional meeting points with a category of material objects that have defined much research into what it means to be human, Elements of Architecture elucidates and expands upon a crucial body of evidence which allows us to explore the lives and interactions of past societies. Exploring the Digital Frontier Anne Woodsworth, 2010-12-02. This volume presents international research and exhaustive reviews of literature on a range of issues related to the evolving digital environment. With the growing trend for digital-only access to information, this volume makes an important contribution in both highlighting problems and challenges and pointing to pathways for future solutions.

Five Ways to Make Architecture Political Albena Yaneva, 2017-05-18. Five Ways to Make Architecture Political presents an innovative pragmatist agenda that will inspire new thinking about the politics of design and architectural practice. Moving beyond conventional conversations about design and politics, the book shows how recent developments in political philosophy can transform our understanding of the role of the architect. It asks how, when and under what circumstances can design practice generate political relations. How can architectural design become more political? Five central chapters, which can be read alone or in sequence, explore the answers to these questions. Powerfully pragmatic in approach, each presents one of the five ways to make architecture political and each is illustrated by case studies from a range of contemporary situations around the world. We see how politics happens in architectural practice, learn how different design technologies have political effects and follow how architects reach different publics, trigger reactions and affect different communities worldwide. Combining an accessible introduction to contemporary political concepts with a practical approach for a more political kind of practice, this book will stimulate debate among students and theorists alike and inspire action in established and start-up practices.

Sustainable Architecture - Between Measurement and Meaning Carmela Cucuzzella, Sherif Goubran, 2021-01-05. Each day new articles, books and reports present new methods, standards and technologies for achieving sustainability in architecture. Additionally, new materials, technological gadgets and data are increasingly considered the staples of architecture's future. As we increasingly embrace this techno-advancement, we must be equally aware that we may be pushing architecture into a managerial science and away from its core concerns such as expression, contextuality, functionality and aesthetics. Sustainable architecture that is focused on the abstract measurements of consumption, energy and emissions loses sight of the vital role that architecture holds in our world: it is the field that creates our public spaces and our places of dwelling, of business, of production, of leisure and creation. Additionally, it fails to comprehend the human dimension of buildings as elements that are deeply connected to their sites, historic contexts and that play a key role in defining our social relations and our connection to the spaces we occupy and utilize Sustainable Architecture Between Measurement and Meaning takes a step back to reflect on how sustainability in the built environment can be theorized and practiced critically This book exposes that architecture remains a human and social science that lies at the intersection of measurements and meanings It reveals that sustainable architecture can still operate in a dialectic space of expression rather than serving as a manifesto for either the technical or socio cultural extremes It purports that the human intuition senses and skills still holds the key to unravelling alternative futures of sustainable built spaces And that most importantly humans still have a place in sustainable architecture This book will be of interest to students early career scholars established researchers and practitioners studying sustainability in the built environment It can be used as a referencee to those in the fields of design architecture landscape and urban design urban studies geography social sciences and engineering Structures and Architecture Paulo J. Cruz,2013-06-27 Although the disciplines of architecture and structural engineering have both experienced their own historical development their interaction has resulted in many fascinating and delightful structures To take this interaction to a higher level there is a need to stimulate the inventive and creative design of architectural structures and to persua

Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin, 2010-02-25 Have you ever wondered how the ideas behind the world's greatest architectural designs came about? What process does an architect go through to design buildings which become world renowned for their excellence? This book reveals the secrets behind these buildings. He asks you to read the building and understand its starting point by analyzing its final form. Through the gradual revelations made by an understanding of the thinking behind the form, you learn a unique methodology which can be used every time you look at any building. Masters Theses in the Pure and Applied Sciences Wade H. Shafer, 2012-12-06 Masters Theses in the Pure and Applied Sciences was first conceived, published, and disseminated by the Center for Information and Numerical Data Analysis and Synthesis CINDAS at Purdue University in 1957, starting its coverage of theses with the academic year 1955. Beginning with Volume 13, the printing and dissemination phases of the activity were transferred to University Microfilms Xerox of Ann Arbor, Michigan, with the thought that such an arrangement would be more beneficial to the academic and general scientific and technical community. After five years of this joint undertaking, we had concluded that it was in the interest of all concerned if the printing and distribution of the volumes were handled by an international publishing house to assure improved service and broader dissemination. Hence, starting with Volume 18, Masters Theses in the Pure and Applied Sciences has been disseminated on a worldwide basis by Plenum Publishing Corporation of New York, and in the same year the coverage was broadened to include Canadian universities. All back issues can also be ordered from Plenum. We have reported in Volume 38, thesis year 1993, a total of 13,787 thesis titles from 22 Canadian and 164 United States universities. We are sure that this broader base for these titles reported will greatly enhance the value of this important annual reference work. While Volume 38 reports theses submitted in 1993, on occasion certain universities do report theses submitted in previous years but not reported at the time. Affective Architectures Jacques Micieli-Voutsinas, Angela M. Person, 2020-09-20 How do places manipulate our emotions? How are spaces affective in their articulation and design? This book provides theoretical frameworks for exploring affective dimensions of architectural sites based on the notion that heritage as an embodied experience is embedded in places and spaces. Drawing together an interdisciplinary collection of essays spanning geographically diverse architectural sites including Ford's Theater, the site of President Lincoln's assassination, the Estadio Nacional of Santiago, Chile, where 12,000 detainees were held following the ouster of President Salvador Allende, and Unit 731, the site of a biological and chemical warfare research unit of the Imperial Japanese army in Harbin, China, amongst others, this edited collection assembles critical dialogue amongst scholars and practitioners engaging in affective and other more than representational approaches to cultural memory, heritage, and identity making. Broken into three main sections: Affective Politics, Embedded Geographies, and Affective Methodologies, this book draws together multidisciplinary perspectives from the arts, social sciences, and humanities to understand the role of architecture in generating embodied experiences at places of memory. This book offers interdisciplinary perspectives on fundamental questions of memory, identity, and space It will be of interest to students and scholars in the fields of geography architecture cultural studies and museum and heritage studies
