Experimental Reversal Of Acid Rain Effects The Gardsjon Roof Project:

Experimental Reversal of Acid Rain Effects Hans Hultberg, Richard Skeffington, 1998-02-04 Acid deposition is considered to be one of the greatest threats to the environment in industrialised countries. Recognising this, governments have instituted programmes to reduce emissions of SO₂ and NO_x, the major sources of acid rain. But is this enough? Will ecosystems damaged by acid rain recover? And if they do, how quickly? What ecosystem processes determine the rate of recovery? Do acidification models give accurate predictions? Are any other actions necessary to promote recovery? To answer such questions without waiting for the results of current policies, scientists in Sweden and the UK decided to eliminate acid deposition on an acidified ecosystem altogether and monitor the effects. They did this by constructing a huge roof over an acidified catchment near Lake Gardsjön in Southwest Sweden. Acid rain falling on the roof is diverted away and replaced with clean rain. The detailed responses of the ecosystem are measured. This book records the results from the first five years of the Project and considers the implications for emission control. The book describes the effect of eliminating acid deposition and some other pollutants on vital ecosystem processes, both chemical and biological, and how the predictions of acidification and hydrological models compared with experimental results. It describes the catchment, how the roof was constructed, and the problems associated with such large experiments. The implications for pollution control policies and what still needs to be discovered are emphasised. The book should be of interest to a wide variety of environmental scientists, especially those interested in pollution effects, forestry, freshwater fisheries, and ecosystem function, and to environmental managers and policymakers.

Aquatic Effects of Acidic Deposition Timothy J Sullivan, 2019-05-07 The completion of the initial phase of the U.S. National Acid Precipitation Assessment Program (NAPAP) in 1990 marked the end of the largest environmental research and assessment effort to that time. The resulting series of 27 State of Science and Technology (SOST) Reports and the NAPAP Integrated Assessment represent a decade of work by hundreds.

Handbook of Ecological Models used in Ecosystem and Environmental Management Sven Erik Jorgensen, 2016-04-19 It is estimated that roughly 1000 new ecological and environmental models join the ranks of the scientific literature each year. The international peer-reviewed literature reports some 20 000 new models spanning the period from 1970-2010. Just to keep abreast of the field, it is necessary to design a handbook of models that doesn't merely list them.
