However there are difficulties and dangers in seeking to hear from children not least because they may be subject to pressure from each parent to express views that support his or her case Courts dealing with family law issues are constantly faced with a dilemma Is it better to keep children out of the conflict or to give them a say so that the arrangements are as workable for them as possible This book integrates examinations of these issues with empirical data from interviews which explore the views and experiences of children parents counsellors mediators lawyers and judges involved in such disputes in Australia Drawing on this research the authors suggest ways in which children can better be heard without placing them at the centre of their parents conflicts They argue that the focus should not just be on how children are heard in legal proceedings but on how they can be better heard in those families who resolve their conflicts without going to court A
