Exploiting The Internal Market:

The Yearbook of Consumer Law 2007 Geraint Howells, Annette Nordhausen, Deborah Parry, Christian Twigg-Flesner, 2018-12-18 First published in 2007 The Yearbook of Consumer Law provides a valuable guide to developments in the consumer law field with a domestic regional and international dimension The volume presents a range of peer reviewed scholarly articles analytical in approach and focusing on specific areas of consumer law such as sales credit and safety as well as more general issues such as consumer law theory The book also includes a section dedicated to significant developments during the period covered such as key legislative developments or important court decisions The book provides an essential resource for all those academic and practitioner working in the areas of consumer law and policy

Exploiting the Knowledge Economy Paul M. Cunningham, Miriam Cunningham, 2006 Adaptation of applied information and communication technologies ICT research results is one of the greatest challenges faced in building the global knowledge economy This set of two books brings together a collection of contributions on commercial government or societal exploitation of applied ICT

The Political Economy of Europe's Incomplete Single Market David Howarth, Tal Sadeh, 2014-04-10 Progress in European market integration over the past two decades has come at the expense of growing flexibility or differentiation in the laws that govern the Single Market SM as well as the way that these laws are implemented This volume examines how the completion of the SM has been held back in the varied implementation of European Union competition policy variation in national policies on services corporate law telecommunications energy taxation and gambling and the EU's uneven transportation network These sectors and issue areas form the frontier at which the main political struggles over the future shape of the SM have taken place in the past decade Broadly progress in economic integration in the EU has been complicated by the need to reconcile perfection to the SM with the global competitiveness of European producers and efficiency gains with ideational and normative concerns In services there is a clash between deregulation and social policy Financial integration has had to reconcile different institutionalized views among the member states about the place of finance in the economy and society The SM notion supposedly entails a concrete set of substantive policy commitments that form the basis of the ever closer union However increasing differentiation in the SM undermines the identification of the EU's core constitutional commitments This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of European Public Policy

Legal Responses to Trafficking in Women for Sexual Exploitation in the European Union Heli Askola, 2007-03-01 The phenomenon of trafficking in women for sexual exploitation which in the last decade has changed from a marginal non issue to a legitimate concern in many parts of the world has become familiar through newspaper coverage and now finally legislators and law enforcement agencies have begun to act In Europe many EU Member States now have or are developing at least some sort of anti trafficking policies with some of them in the forefront of global anti trafficking efforts Moreover the EU itself has become markedly more active with regard to curbing trafficking in human beings as part of its migration control and police and judicial co operation functions However even co ordinated efforts such as those being worked on by the EU tend to produce only short term cures to a problem that is in truth global and structural in nature and which cannot be eradicated or necessarily even significantly reduced through policing and migration control measures alone Too often there is little debate on broader measures which might be targeted to address the root causes of trafficking such as poverty under development general lack of economic and migration opportunities and above all gender inequality Against this background this book deals with present efforts to control trafficking in women for sexual exploitation In doing so it examines claims that what is needed effectively to prevent and tackle trafficking is a comprehensive approach and at the very least one that is far more wide ranging and coherent than what exists today and also analyses the assertion that destination countries and more specifically Member States of the EU could and perhaps should take more action against trafficking through regional co operation particularly in the framework of the EU rather than as individual Member States The book will be of interest to a wide range of scholars in EU law human rights comparative law sociology feminist theory and politics as well as policy makers practitioners and NGO activists in various European countries

The Impact of the European Community's internal Market on the EFTA International Monetary Fund, 1990-12-04 This paper provides an overview of the likely impact of the creation of the European Community EC internal market on the European Free Trade Association EFTA members The focus is on the four freedoms and the institutional and legal changes required for increased economic cooperation between the EC and EFTA Although not formally part of the negotiations certain tax issues are also raised The paper is in ten parts and includes a summary and glossary The paper also discusses the institutional and legal changes that may prove necessary for greater EC EFTA cooperation and the implications of the internal market for trade production and resource allocation in the EFTA countries It examines issues related to trade in goods mainly industrial goods and transport services and considers issues of labor mobility and trade in financial services Changes would also appear desirable in the areas of industrial and intellectual property rights notably counterfeiting trademarks copyrights and patents

Modernization, Exploitation, and Dependency in Latin America Joseph Alan Kahl, 1976-01-01 Scholarly discussion of the fate of the Third World has long been dominated by North American and European authors Yet in recent years the writings of Third World social scientists have often been creative and are worthy of more attention in the United States This book makes the work of three outstanding Latin American sociologists readily available to the English reading public Gino Germani of Argentina who has moved to Harvard University Pablo Gonzalez Casanova of Mexico and Fernando Henrique Cardoso of Brazil Their major writings are summarized and then interpreted in the context of material from extensive interviews with the authors In these interviews the authors explain the events personal professional and political that have had major influence on their thought Their views range from Germani's synthesis of orthodox European and American sociology as adapted to his detailed empirical studies of the modernization of Argentina and other countries in this hemisphere through Gonzalez Casanova's interpretation of the forces of exploitation internal as well as external that dominate the Mexican political system to Cardoso's influential revisions of Marxist theory to deal with the basic situation of dependency that shapes the range of options open to the Latin American countries especially Brazil. These inside views of the development process often sharply diverge from the dominant opinions among outsiders. By understanding the differences readers in the United States can gain direct insight into Latin American social reality and can find ways of improving North American social science by bringing to the surface some unstated assumptions. One theme common to all three authors is their concern with issues that arise from policy debates; they focus on questions of practical import rather than abstruse theoretical models. Yet they use sophisticated tools of social science that go beyond ideological rhetoric and thus discipline political argument with scholarly rigor.

The Single Market Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2008-02-08 Evidence taken before Sub-committee B Internal Market Blackstone's EU Treaties and Legislation 2013-2014 Nigel Foster, 2013-08 This volume gives coverage of EU law containing all the up to date statutes relevant to undergraduate law degrees. It gives unannotated primary and secondary legislation allowing students to take it into examinations.

Taking Vulnerabilities to Labour Exploitation Seriously Letizia Palumbo, 2024-10-21 This open access book intends to contribute to the debate on migrant labour exploitation by exploring the extent to which the EU and the European countries provide a standard for protecting migrant workers. It moves from a socio-legal and theoretical perspective and builds on critical studies on vulnerability, exploitation, trafficking and migrant labour regimes along with relevant feminist theories including theories on social reproduction while also drawing on extensive fieldwork. By mobilising the concept of situational vulnerabilities, the book critically investigates the assemblage and interaction of factors creating and amplifying migrant workers' vulnerabilities to exploitation in the key sectors of agriculture and domestic work. The aim is to highlight how situations of vulnerability to exploitation are generated and exacerbated by relevant legal and policy frameworks underlining and questioning the tensions, continuities and ambiguities between different regimes such as the regimes regulating labour migration and those intended to combat severe exploitation. While at national level the focus is on relevant Italian legal and policy instruments and approaches, the book also offers a comparative look at those adopted in the UK. This critical analysis considers labour exploitation both in its systemic dimension and as a continuum. It sheds light on how forms of exploitation are associated with different situational vulnerabilities produced by the interplay of personal and structural factors in line with a gender and intersectional approach. By engaging an analysis of the ways in which the concepts of exploitation and vulnerability are addressed and formulated in various international, European and national legal and policy instruments, the study reveals the limitations and ambiguities of applicable legislation and policies. The book is a great resource for students and academics in the field as well as legal practitioners and policymakers interested in human rights, migration studies, labour rights, labour exploitation and gender-related issues.

Sub-Imperialism Revisited Adrián Sotelo Valencia, 2017-06-06 Does the growing economic might of regional superpowers like Brazil mean that dependency theory of the 1960s was all wrong The answer to this and many other enigmas of development is found in Sub Imperialism Revisited a theoretically rigorous study by the brilliant Mexican analyst Adrián Sotelo Valencia In analysing the 21st Century conditions of Latin America Sotelo systematically explores the concept of sub imperialism as advanced in the pioneering work of Ruy Mauro Marini Himself a former student of Marini Sotelo elucidates the explanatory power of a fully Marxist conception of imperialism and underdevelopment while providing considerable insight into opposing conceptions of dependency This timely book ultimately enables readers to appreciate why radical dependency theory remains more relevant today than ever

The Mediations of Super-exploitation Adrián Sotelo Valencia, 2025-08-28 This work by Mexican theorist Adrián Sotelo Valencia succinctly analyses the process of super exploitation in the present day context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution Drawing upon methodological insights from Hungarian Marxist István Mészáros Brazilian Marxist Ruy Mauro Marini and others Sotelo demonstrates the pivotal importance of analysing second order mediations as he builds an innovative expanded model of structural dependency The result is a more holistic dialectical grasp of the contradictory dynamics of contemporary imperialism where Capital globally deploys technology for automation in an unsustainable drive for profit that displaces labor and increasingly threatens the reproduction of the global labor force Empirical evidence presented throughout this work serves to reinforce its powerful updated articulation of Marxist Dependency Theory

Competition Law Richard Whish, David Bailey, 2012-01-12 The authors describes the potential scope and application of the various legal provisions which regulate competition in the UK This book also examines the results of the convergence of UK and EC law with regard to competition in business

Looting Greece Jack Rasmus, 2016-09-20 Looting Greece examines how and why the Syriza party which took power in January 2015 promising to end austerity and return Greece to economic growth ended up agreeing to a deal much worse than its political predecessors in 2010 and 2012 Placing the Greek events of 2015 in broader historical perspective Rasmus argues a radical new neoliberal initiative in Europe has emerged In the 2015 debt deal the Troika will now directly manage Greece's economy running its banks writing Greece's budget vetting and replacing government ministers exercising veto rights over Greece's parliament and Executive agencies dictating its taxes and implanting Troika Commissars to watch over and approve day to day decisions of Greek government at all levels Looting Greece explains how a new kind of financial imperialism is emerging in Greece Europe's periphery and soon elsewhere

Stopford, Susan Strange, John S. Henley, 1991-10-17 In this theoretically original work two distinguished authors explore the mutual interdependence of states and firms throughout the world They show how global structural changes in finance technology knowledge and politics often impel governments to seek the help and cooperation of managers of multinational enterprises Yet as Professors Stopford and Strange demonstrate this is constrained by each country s economic resources its social structures and its political history Based on grass roots research into the experience of over 50 multinationals and more than 100 investment projects in three developing countries Brazil Malaysia and Kenya the authors develop a matrix of agendas They present the impact on projects of the multiple factors affecting the bargaining relationships between the government and the foreign firm at different times and in a variety of economic sectors In conclusion they offer some guidelines for actions to both governments and firms and some points to future interdisciplinary research
