A Labyrinth of Lifetimes Kathy Bornino,2020-08-01 Recovering past life experiences is analogous to walking a labyrinth You begin at an entry point you walk in a weave back and forth until you arrive near the center then back and forth outward again then return in weaving toward the center again and back outwards again until you finally arrive at the center This center can represent the Self at the center of our being We rest here then set forth again weaving our way outward until we arrive again at the entry point We have a new experience each time we walk the labyrinth but always we return to the center This is like the experience of taking on new lifetimes between lives we rest in the Spirit Source or Great Self the Center of our Being choose your term This is the ultimate adventure definitely worthwhile exploring Hope in Pastoral Care and Counseling Andrew D. Lester,1995-01-01 In this ground breaking book pastoral counselor Andrew Lester demonstrates that pastoral theology as well as social and behavioral sciences has neglected to address effectively the predominant cause of human suffering a lack of hope a sense of futurelessness Lester examines the reasons that pastoral theology and other social and behavioral sciences have overlooked the importance of hope and despair in the past He then offers a starting point for the development of addressing these significant dimensions of human life He provides clinical theories and methods for pastoral assessment of and intervention with those who despair He also puts forth strategies for assessing the future stories of those who despair and offers a corrective to these stories through deconstruction reframing and reconstruction This book will be invaluable to pastoral caregivers who are looking for a vantage point from which to provide care and to pastoral theologians who are seeking to develop a theological lens through which to understand the human condition The Ultimate Life
