Cody, 2005-06-27 The export of American architecture began in the nineteenth century as a disjointed set of personal adventures and commercial initiatives It continues today alongside the transfer of other aspects of American life and culture to most regions of the world Jeffrey Cody explains how why and where American architects planners building contractors and other actors have marketed American architecture overseas In so doing he provides a historical perspective on the diffusion of American building technologies architectural standards construction methods and planning paradigms Using previously undocumented examples and illustrations he shows how steel frame manufacturers shipped their products abroad enabling the erection of American style skyscrapers worldwide by 1900 and how this phase was followed by similar initiatives by companies manufacturing concrete components

Sites Unseen William A. Gleason, 2011-08-22 Sites Unseen examines the complex intertwining of race and architecture in nineteenth and early twentieth century American culture the period not only in which American architecture came of age professionally in the U S but also in which ideas about architecture became a prominent part of broader conversations about American culture history politics and although we have not yet understood this clearly race relations This rich and copiously illustrated interdisciplinary study explores the ways that American writing between roughly 1850 and 1930 concerned itself often intensely with the racial implications of architectural space primarily but not exclusively through domestic architecture In addition to identifying an archive of provocative primary materials Sites Unseen draws significantly on important recent scholarship in multiple fields ranging from literature history and material culture to architecture cultural geography and urban planning Together the chapters interrogate a variety of expressive American vernacular forms including the dialect tale the novel of empire letters and pulp stories along with the plantation cabin the West Indian cottage the Latin American plaza and the Oriental parlor These are some of the overlooked plots and structures that can and should inform a more comprehensive consideration of the literary and cultural meanings of American architecture Making sense of the relations between architecture race and American writing of the long nineteenth century in their regional national and hemispheric contexts Sites Unseen provides a clearer view not only of this catalytic era but also more broadly of what architectural historian Dell Upton has aptly termed the social experience of the built environment

The Global Architect Donald McNeill, 2009-06-02 The Global Architect explores the increasing significance of globalization

processes on urban change architectural practice and the built environment In what is primarily a critical sociological overview of the current global architectural industry Donald McNeill covers the star system of international architects who combine celebrity and hypermobility the top firms whose offices are currently undergoing a major global expansion and the role of advanced information technology in expanding the geographical scope of the industry Designing Emerging Markets Giaime Botti,2023-05-22 This book offers a unique glance into the process of globalisation of the architectural practice during the last three decades through the lenses of innovative methodologies in architectural history based on quantitative data Focusing on the golden age of globalisation 1990 2019 it investigates the transnational work of more than one thousand architectural firms of different business models from Europe North America and the Asia Pacific in a broad sample of emerging markets Mainland China South East Asia India the Persian Gulf Sub Saharan Africa Russia and Kazakhstan and Latin America In the book different thematic geographies are presented to explore the global scope of the contemporary profession examine significant projects and the structural conditions behind them and reveal the debates that such works generated Understanding the global agency of design firms in emerging markets also becomes a way to study different market conditions modes of production and architectural trends comparatively and to highlight the shifts that occurred in the profession over the last few decades The use of quantitative methodologies produces a novel and updated narrative on contemporary architecture in emerging markets grounded in quantitative data rather than in preassumptions and purely qualitative interpretations Richly illustrated this book is further enhanced by an ample set of maps graphs and tables to visualise data better Incorporating Architects Aaron Cayer,2025-06-03 By the end of the twentieth century US architecture and engineering firms held more capital than entire countries employed more people than were housed in most cities and rented offices in more nations than comprised the UN Within them architects were designing not single buildings but urban systems including the multinational infrastructures legal codes and financial mechanisms on which those systems came to depend However despite the extraordinary power of these architects their histories remain shrouded in myth and concealed by design This forensic analysis traces a history of architects at one such firm AECOM as they assembled their own multinational corporation and embedded themselves in the operations of American empire after World War II shielding themselves from the instabilities of a postwar political economy Incorporating Architects reveals how architects through their businesses more than their drawings or buildings modulated the political economy gripped the reins of their profession and produced the global injustices that define our neoliberal present The Icon Project Leslie Sklair,2017-02-27 In the last quarter century a new form of iconic architecture has appeared throughout the world s major cities Typically designed by globe trotting starchitects or by a few large transnational architectural firms these projects are almost always funded by the private sector in the service of private interests Whereas in the past monumental architecture often had a strong public component the urban ziggurats of today are emblems and conduits of capitalist globalization In The Icon

Project Leslie Sklair focuses on ways in which capitalist globalization is produced and represented all over the world especially in globalizing cities Sklair traces how the iconic buildings of our era elaborate shopping malls spectacular museums and vast urban megaprojects constitute the triumphal Icon Project of contemporary global capitalism promoting increasing inequality and hyperconsumerism Two of the most significant strains of iconic architecture unique icons recognized as works of art designed by the likes of Gehry Foster Koolhaas and Hadid as well as successful derivative icons that copy elements of the starchitects work speak to the centrality of hyperconsumerism within contemporary capitalism Along with explaining how the architecture industry organizes the social production and marketing of iconic structures he also shows how corporations increasingly dominate the built environment and promote the trend towards globalizing consumerist cities The Icon Project Sklair argues is a weapon in the struggle to solidify capitalist hegemony as well as reinforce transnational capitalist control of where we live what we consume and how we think

Remodelling to Prepare for Independence Ian Morley, 2023-12-01 Remodelling to Prepare for Independence The Philippine Commonwealth Decolonisation Cities and Public Works c 1935 46 illuminates the implications of the USA's final phase of colonial rule in the Philippine Islands It explores the Filipino side of decolonisation and the management of the built environment in the years immediately prior to self rule This book shakes off the collaboration vs resistance paradigm that empire histories generally follow and consequently yields an original vantage point to comprehend transition within an Asian society in the years immediately prior to during and after World War Two This will not only deepen insight of the American Empire but also grants the opportunity to tie Philippine political cultural change to the global history of urban planning's advancement Accordingly it opens a new window to rethink Filipino ethno history and societal evolution alongside the opportunity to compare the Philippines with other nations that undertook planning projects as part of their decolonisation process and early postcolonial advancement The book utilises theoretical frames in order to help creatively excavate the era 1935 46 for the purpose of not just revealing what public works occurred but to also uncover what those projects meant to the Commonwealth Government the BPW's staff and the public who benefitted from public works projects The book will be relevant to students and researchers of Urban History Asian and American Empire History and Imperial and Colonial Studies Architects planners and members of the public who are interested in the form and meaning of urban environments designed constructed in the past will also find the publication to be of great interest

Building Transatlantic Italy Paolo Scrivano, 2017-05-15 At the end of the Second World War America's newly acquired status of hegemonic power together with the launch of ambitious international programs such as the Marshall Plan significantly altered existing transatlantic relations In this context Italian and American architectural cultures developed a fragile dialogue characterized by successful exchanges and forms of collaboration but also by reciprocal wariness The dissemination of models and ideas concerning architecture generated complex effects and frequently led to surprising misinterpretations obstinate forms of resistance and long negotiations between the involved parties Issues of continuity and discontinuity dominated Italian culture and society at the time since at stake was the possible balance between allegedly long established traditions and the prospect of a radical rupture with recent history Architectural culture often contributed to reach a compromise between very diverging attitudes Situated in the larger realm of studies on Americanization this book questions current interpretations of transatlantic relations in architecture By reconsidering the means and effects of the dialogue that unfolded between the two sides of the Atlantic during the postwar years the volume analyzes how cultural and formal models were developed in one context and then modified when transferred to a new one as well as the fortune of this cultural exchange in terms of circulation amplification and simplification

The History of Architectural Education in the Middle East and North Africa

Farhan Karim, Mohammad Gharipour, 2024-12-31 The History of Architectural Education in the Middle East and North Africa explores the varied socio political landscapes within which different architectural programs and schools were established across Middle Eastern and North African countries It addresses a significant gap in our understanding of the diverse strategies and paths through which architectural pedagogy underwent institutionalization and standardization during nineteenth and twentieth centuries This process of modernization was greatly influenced by rapidly evolving socio economic conditions and the interests of the real estate market Concurrently architectural educators and institutions responded to public demands for more inclusive urban environments shaping the social ambitions and expectations of emerging modern cities Karim and Gharipour present an interconnected and parallel history of these institutions through a series of case studies They argue that architectural pedagogy and its stakeholders didn't solely shape the technical discourse of the building industry Instead their activism and advocacy collectively ignited epistemological debates concerning the perception of modern urban society and its direction

Domesticity and Consumer Culture in Iran

Pamela Karimi, 2013-05-29 Examining Iran's recent history through the double lens of domesticity and consumer culture Domesticity and Consumer Culture in Iran demonstrates that a significant component of the modernization process in Iran advanced beyond political and public spheres On the cusp of Iran's entry into modernity the rules and tenets that had traditionally defined the Iranian home began to vanish and the influx of new household goods gradually led to the substantial physical expansion of the domestic milieu Subsequently architects designers and commercial advertisers shifted their attention from commercial and public architecture to the new home and its contents Domesticity and consumer culture also became topics of interest among politicians Shiite religious scholars and the Left who communicated their respective views via the popular media and numerous other means In the interim ordinary Iranian families who were capable of selectively appropriating aspects of their immediate surroundings demonstrated their resistance toward the officially sanctioned transformations Through analyzing a series of case studies that elucidate such phenomena and appraising a wide range of objects and archival documents from furnishings appliances architectural blueprints and maps to photographs films TV series novels artworks scrapbooks work logs personal letters and reports this book highlights the significance of private life in social economic and political contexts of modern Iran Tackling the subject of home from a variety of perspectives Domesticity and Consumer Culture in Iran thus shows the interplay between local aspirations foreign influences gender roles consumer culture and women s education as they intersect with taste fashion domestic architecture and interior design Modern Middle-Class Housing in Tehran Rana Habibi,2020-11-16 In Modern Middle Class Housing in Tehran Reproduction of an Archetype Rana Habibi offers an engaging analysis of the modern urban history of Tehran during the Cold War period 1945 1979 The book while arguing about the institutionalism of modernity in the form of modern middle class housing in Tehran shows how vernacular archetypes found their way into the construction of new neighborhoods The trajectory of ideal modernism towards popular modernism the introduction of modern taste to traditional society through architects while tracing the path of transnational models in local projects are all subjects extensively expounded by Rana Habibi through engaging graphical analyses and appealing theoretical interpretations involving five modern Tehran neighborhoods

Xue,2005-09-01 Building a Revolution Chinese Architecture Since 1980 presents a picture of Chinese architecture in transition as the entire economy shifted from being planned and state controlled to being market led The book also examines the national form and Chinese identity the impact of international architecture housing reform and the emergence of architects in private practice Both celebrated and young Chinese architects are portrayed and the notable buildings in the prosperous coastal cities are highlighted Through this book on modern Chinese architecture the reader will appreciate the influence of globalization and modernization on the most populous country in the world

Consumers' Imperium Kristin L. Hoganson,2010-03-15 Histories of the Gilded Age and Progressive Era tend to characterize the United States as an expansionist nation bent on Americanizing the world without being transformed itself In Consumers Imperium Kristin Hoganson reveals the other half of the story demonstrating that the years between the Civil War and World War I were marked by heightened consumption of imports and strenuous efforts to appear cosmopolitan Hoganson finds evidence of international connections in quintessentially domestic places American households She shows that well to do white women in this era expressed intense interest in other cultures through imported household objects fashion cooking entertaining armchair travel clubs and the immigrant gifts movement From curtains to clothing from around the world parties to arts and crafts of the homelands exhibits Hoganson presents a new perspective on the United States in the world by shifting attention from exports to imports from production to consumption and from men to women She makes it clear that globalization did not just happen beyond America s shores as a result of American military might and industrial power but that it happened at home thanks to imports immigrants geographical knowledge and consumer preferences Here is an international history that begins at home Rooted Cosmopolitanism, Heritage and the Question of Belonging Lennart Wouter Kruijer,Miguel John Versluys,Ian Lilley,2024-03-21 This book explores the analytical and practical value of the notion of rooted cosmopolitanism for the field of cultural heritage Many concepts of present day heritage discourses such as World Heritage local heritage practices or indigenous heritage tend to elide the complex interplay between the local and the global entanglements that are investigated as glocalisation in Globalisation Studies However no human group ever creates more than a part of its heritage by itself This book explores an exciting new alternative in scholarly critical heritage discourse the notion of rooted cosmopolitanism a way of making manifestations of globalised phenomena comprehensible and relevant at local levels It develops a critical perspective on heritage and heritage practices bringing together a highly varied yet conceptually focused set of stimulating contributions by senior and emerging scholars working on the heritage of localities across the globe A contextualising introduction is followed by three strongly theoretical and methodological chapters which complement the second part of the book six concrete empirical chapters written in response to the more theoretical chapters Two final reflective conclusions bring together these different levels of analysis This book will appeal primarily to archaeologists anthropologists heritage professionals and museum curators who are ready to be confronted with innovative and exciting new approaches to the complexities of cultural heritage in a globalising world The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
