Foundations Of Demographic Theory Choice Proceb Context:

Foundations of Demographic Theory Bart de Bruijn, 1999 Demography is more than just population figures It is also about people and how they behave in certain situations This book provides an interpretative framework that integrates a number of theoretical approaches to various behavioural processes underlying the numerical aspects of population development The leading concepts in this interdisciplinary approach are choice context and process time which are elaborated in a micro perspective drawing on cognitive institutional and developmental interpretations The resulting framework is developed for the study of fertility and is applied to a case study on family planning and reproductive health in India The added value of this conceptual model for the discipline of demography is to be found in its contribution to a more profound understanding of the causal processes of demographic behaviour and to the ability to found population research policy and interventions on a behavioural scientific basis

Demography: Analysis and Synthesis, Four Volume Set Graziella Caselli, Jacques Vallin, Guillaume Wunsch, 2006-01-03 This four volume collection of over 140 original chapters covers virtually everything of interest to demographers sociologists and others Over 100 authors present population subjects in ways that provoke thinking and lead to the creation of new perspectives not just facts and equations to be memorized The articles follow a theory methods applications approach and so offer a kind of one stop shop that is well suited for students and professors who need non technical summaries such as political scientists public affairs specialists and others Unlike shorter handbooks Demography Analysis and Synthesis offers a long overdue thorough treatment of the field Choosing the analytical method that fits the data and the situation requires insights that the authors and editors of Demography Analysis and Synthesis have explored and developed This extended examination of demographic tools not only seeks to explain the analytical tools themselves but also the relationships between general population dynamics and their natural economic social political and cultural environments Limiting themselves to human populations only the authors and editors cover subjects that range from the core building blocks of population change fertility mortality and migration to the consequences of demographic changes in the biological and health fields population theories and doctrines observation systems and the teaching of demography The international perspectives brought to these subjects is vital for those who want an unbiased rounded overview of these complex multifaceted subjects Topics to be covered Population Dynamics and the Relationship Between Population Growth and Structure The Determinants of Fertility The Determinants of Mortality The Determinants of Migration Historical and Geographical Determinants of Population The Effects of Population on Health Economics Culture and the Environment Population Policies Data Collection Methods and Teaching about Population Studies All chapters share a common format Each chapter features several cross references to other chapters Tables charts and other non text features are widespread Each chapter contains at least 30 bibliographic citations

Agent-Based Modelling in Population Studies André Grow, Jan Van Bavel, 2016-08-11 This book examines the use of agent based modelling ABM in population studies from concepts to applications best practices to future developments It features papers written by leading experts in the field that will help readers to better understand the usefulness of ABM for population projections how ABM can be injected with empirical data to achieve a better match between model and reality how geographic information can be fruitfully used in ABM and how ABM results can be reported effectively and correctly Coverage ranges from detailing the relation between ABM and existing paradigms in population studies to infusing agent based models with empirical data The papers show the benefits that ABM offers the field including enhanced theory formation by better linking the micro level with the macro level the ability to represent populations more adequately as complex systems and the possibility to study rare events and the implications of alternative mechanisms in artificial laboratories In addition readers will discover guidelines and best practices with detailed examples of how to apply agent based models in different areas of population research including human mating behaviour migration and socio structural determinants of health behaviours Earlier versions of the papers in this book have been presented at the workshop Recent Developments and Future Directions in Agent Based Modelling in Population Studies which took place at the University of Leuven KU Leuven Belgium in September 2014 The book will contribute to the development of best practices in the field and will provide a solid point of reference for scholars who want to start using agent based modelling in their own research

Agent-Based Computational Demography Francesco C.

Billari,Alexia Prskawetz,2012-12-06 Agent Based Computational Demography ABCD aims at starting a new stream of research among social scientists whose interests lie in understanding demographic behaviour The book takes a micro demographic agent based perspective and illustrates the potentialities of computer simulation as an aid in theory building The chapters of the book written by leading experts either in demography or in agent based modelling address several key questions Why do we need agent based computational demography How can ABCD be applied to the study of migrations family demography and historical demography What are the peculiarities of agent based models as applied to the demography of human populations ABCD is of interest to all scientists interested in studying demographic behaviour as well as to computer scientists and modellers who are looking for a promising field of application

Population Issues Leo J.G.

van Wissen,Pearl A. Dykstra,2012-12-06 This volume marks the end of an eight year program of research on population issues launched in 1990 by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research The NWO Priority Program on Population Issues Initiatives for this program of research were taken over ten years ago by Hans Van Ginkel who became the first program chair and Dirk Van De Kaa The Dutch community of population scientists is deeply indebted to them for their early efforts At the time the program carried the name Between Individual Development and Social Solidarity Population and Society in a Period of Transition The goals of the Priority Program were threefold To reduce the fragmentation of research on population issues to increase collaboration among population researchers with different disciplinary backgrounds and to strengthen the position of population studies in Dutch academe and in international forums Looking back over eight years of

programed research we can safely say that the Priority Program has given an enormous impetus to population research in the Netherlands as this volume attests This program of research could not have been carried out success fully without the valuable contributions and constructive input of a large group of scientists The scope and the focus of the Priority Program were defined by a preparatory committee chaired by Gerard Frinking      Advanced Statistical Methods for the Analysis of Large Data-Sets Agostino Di Ciaccio, Mauro Coli, Jose Miguel Angulo Ibanez, 2012-03-14 The theme of the meeting was Statistical Methods for the Analysis of Large Data Sets In recent years there has been increasing interest in this subject in fact a huge quantity of information is often available but standard statistical techniques are usually not well suited to managing this kind of data The conference serves as an important meeting point for European researchers working on this topic and a number of European statistical societies participated in the organization of the event The book includes 45 papers from a selection of the 156 papers accepted for presentation and discussed at the conference on Advanced Statistical Methods for the Analysis of Large Data sets      Public Childcare Provision and Fertility Behavior Sandra Krapf, 2014-02-19 The author analyzes the relationship between the availability of public childcare for children under age three and the decision to have a first child One would expect that providing women with the option of returning to work soon after childbirth would reduce the anticipated negative effects of having a child on a woman s career However existing research results on this relationship are inconsistent      Towards an Interdisciplinary Perspective on the Life Course René Levy, Paolo Ghisletta, Jean-Marie Le Goff, Dario Spini, Eric Widmer, 2005-11-17 Despite the well established consensus on the need for an interdisciplinary research paradigm to understand the unfolding of human lives within their social context existing empirical research rarely embraces this belief This volume aims at examining the feasibility and hurdles of interdisciplinarity specific to given research fields by bringing together leading North American and European researchers in sociology psychology social psychology and social demography all highly concerned with fostering an interdisciplinary perspective for the study of the human life course The contributions are organized along four major axes three of them substantive agency and structure transitions and biographical re constructions and one methodological methodological innovations leaving ample leeway for the contributions to address the specific gains and difficulties of empirical interdisciplinary research within their particular domain The editors introduce the volume by discussing general features theoretical linkages and transversal substantive themes of interdisciplinarity in life course research Likewise the volume is ended by the editors conclusions based on the contributions they single out major challenges and difficulties for the interdisciplinary study of the life course together with some promising research meant to address such difficulties and improve current knowledge about the life course The volume speaks to both experienced scholars and graduate students of the life course Advanced scholars will benefit from the latest in life course research domains and from a comprehensive overview of life course methodologies Graduate students of the life course will find in the book an original introduction to many empirical aspects of life course research and to the application of innovative methods to various research settings as well as rich bibliographical references from the research literature in English German and French      Demographic Research, Volume 17: Book I Demographic Research,2008      Qualitative Research Methods Monique Hennink,Inge Hutter,Ajay Bailey,2010-11-30 Lecturers click here to request an e inspection copy of this text Qualitative Research Methods is based on the authors highly successful multidisciplinary qualitative methods workshops which have been conducted for over a decade In this book the authors propose a qualitative research cycle that leads students through the selection of appropriate methods the collection of data and the transformation of findings into a finished project It provides a clear explanation of the nature of qualitative research and its key concepts Topics covered include o formulating qualitative research questions o ethical issues o in depth interviews o focus group discussions o observation o coding o data analysis o writing up qualitative research This text is ideal for any students taking a qualitative methods course or producing a qualitative research project at undergraduate or graduate level It is illustrated throughout with case studies and field examples from a range of international contexts The practical techniques are also accompanied by the author s own research tools including interview guides real coded data and comprehensive research checklists

Marriage and Fertility Behaviour in Japan Nobutaka Fukuda,2016-01-28 This monograph examines the influence of ideational and socio economic factors on Japanese marriage and fertility behaviour It also investigates the historical change in attitudes toward partnership and family in Japan which if current trends continue can lead to population shrinkage and an asymmetrical age structure The author first details the differences between ideational and economic approaches He examines these two behavioural models from a viewpoint of rational choice theory which he then follows with a discussion on the influence of institutional contexts on matrimony and childbirth Next the book considers salient features of Japanese marriage behaviour including the relation between these patterns and changes in society and the influence of marriage on attitudes toward partnership and family relations Coverage then goes on to explore the influence of ideational factors on fertility and analyse the impact of childbirth on couples attitudes The author also investigates attitudinal changes between generations in Japan He provides a theoretical review on the relation between socio economic development and value orientation as well as looks at the difference in attitudes from a viewpoint of cohorts and periods Overall the book presents an authoritative theoretical and empirical analysis using data from panel and repeated cross sectional surveys Throughout the author clearly identifies the sources of his data as well as the methods used in his analysis      The Transition to Motherhood in Japan Hideko Matsuo,2003 This study is about the extent of and reasons for postponement of first birth in Japan And in order to answer this research question the nature of the Second Demographic Transition in Japan will be assessed The first objective is to document the postponement of first birth in Japan and compare this with the Netherlands The second objective is to explain the reasons for postponement of first birth taking an approach which is multi level macro micro perspective and process context and life courses approaches comparative comparing with the Netherlands and historical cohort and period and linking this with the study of the Second Demographic Transition      Higher Education and the Reproductive Life Course Sarbani Banerjee, 2006 This study examines the impact of higher educational attainment on the changing lives of women both at the individual and the societal level The study focusses on the cross cultural contexts in one of the states in South India and the Netherlands Karnataka in the recent times is experiencing fertility transition while the Netherlands has already achieved fertility transition The two cultural contexts are both diverse and unique in character The author explores both the uniqueness as well as the similarities hence studying the impact of higher education on the changing lives of women as a continuum across cultures and societies Changes at the individual level are captured by distinguishing women into older and younger generations while changes at the societal level are captured through social change At the individual level we distinguish between the lived life course and the perceived life course At the societal level we focus on how higher educational attainment has enhanced women's position in the society The study uses secondary data from the National Family Health Survey 1998-1999 for the state of Karnataka and the Netherlands Family Fertility Survey OG 98 In addition to the secondary data in depth interviews were also conducted amongst women in Bangalore and Groningen      Fertility of Immigrants Nadja Milewski, 2009-11-09 This volume Fertility of Immigrants A Two Generational Approach in Germany by Dr Nadja Milewski is the sixth book of a series of Demographic Research Monographs published by Springer Verlag Dr Milewski is now working for the University of Rostock but at the time she wrote the book she was a research scientist at the Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research The book is a slightly revised version of her doctoral dissertation Fertility of Immigrants and Their Descendants in West Germany An Event History Approach which she completed at the Max Planck Institute and submitted to the University of Rostock She was awarded highest honors summa cum laude for her dissertation As Professor Jan Hoem wrote in his review of Dr Milewski's dissertation the research focuses on the patterns and levels of childbearing among immigrant women Given Germany's varied immigration experience with refugees asylum seekers guest workers and foreign born persons of German ancestry Dr Milewski's topic is of particular interest especially with regard to differences in the patterns and levels of childbearing among various kinds of immigrants to Germany vs native born Germans Numerous empirical and theoretical studies of childbearing among immigrants to various countries have been published and Dr Milewski carefully reviews them While earlier studies have tended to be rather fragmentary particularly for European populations Dr Milewski's research provides a comprehensive picture of the recent female fertility of post war migrants and their descendants in West Germany with an emphasis on migrants who came to Germany to work      Macro-economic Determinants of International Migration in Europe Roel Peter Wilhelmina Jennissen, 2004 Discusses macro economic determinants of international migration in Europe      Reproduction in an African City Today Rogers Hansine, 2021 Sub Saharan Africa is considered the last region in the world where women still give birth to presumably too many children However within large cities such as Maputo the capital of Mozambique the average number of children per woman varies greatly What is extraordinary as this book shows is that childbearing is a social action Parenting allows one to consider different action alternatives or rather opportunities to act These actions are not the same for everyone in different contexts The book highlights that macro level socio demographic changes namely intraurban reproductive disparities are brought up by micro level individual actions

Searching for Longevity Determinants: Luisa Salaris, 2009 The scientific debate on longevity and its determinants is lively and involves researchers from different some people live longer than others is not an easy task Variables that are shown to be significant for longer survival in certain populations are not always relevant to individuals of other populations Recently researchers have identified in Sardinia the Blue Zone BZ thus denominated due to the significant number of cases of centenarians recorded as well as a low sex ratio value A village located in this area was selected for the carrying out of a more detailed analysis at individual level and socio demographic determinants of longevity were examined A family reconstructed database was created using a multi source approach Historical data was therefore used to study today's population establishing a unique bridge between historical demography and the current level of longevity The study focused on survival of newborns in the selected village during a period of 50 years from 1866 to 1915 and also took into consideration information on related family members Each individual included in the database was followed from birth to death as he/she went through marriage and family formation Complete survival of all newborns was observed until the present Based on careful review of the existing literature the empirical model considered factors such as sex differential the contribution of familial transmission both in terms of genes biological and shared environment and the role played by environment operationalised considering early life conditions Concepts were organized into a life course approach for survival analysis The analysis of the data enabled the estimation of mortality trajectories which in turn confirmed the exceptional longevity of the population under study and in particular of males The investigation of differential survival among members of the same community brought to light the relevance of certain familial variables on survival which are not exclusively genetic The results achieved open the way to further studies

Environment & Planning, 2008 Culture, Risk and HIV/AIDS Among Migrant and Mobile Men in Goa, India Ajay Bailey, 2008 Conservation Biology Fred Van Dyke, 2008-02-28 Fred Van Dyke's new textbook Conservation Biology Foundations Concepts Applications 2nd Edition represents a major new text for anyone interested in conservation Drawing on his experience as a conservation biologist college teacher and successful textbook author Van Dyke's organizational clarity and readable style make this book an invaluable resource for students in conservation around the globe Presenting key information and well selected examples this student friendly volume carefully integrates the science of conservation biology with its implications for ethics law policy and economics In addition to rigorous examination of the scientific theory supporting conservation biology and its applications this unique book includes a number of features which set it apart from others These include its chapters on aquatic conservation landscape ecology and ecosystem management and its direct
