American Educational History Journal J. Wesley Null, 2007-08-01 The American Educational History Journal is a peer reviewed national research journal devoted to the examination of educational topics using perspectives from a variety of disciplines The editors of AEHI encourage communication between scholars from numerous disciplines nationalities institutions and backgrounds Authors come from a variety of disciplines including political science curriculum history philosophy teacher education and educational leadership Acceptance for publication in AEHJ requires that each author present a well articulated argument that deals substantively with questions of educational history Rewriting the History of School Mathematics in North America 1607-1861 Nerida Ellerton, M.A. (Ken) Clements, 2012-01-18 The focus of this book is the fundamental influence of the cyphering tradition on mathematics education in North American colleges schools and apprenticeship training classes between 1607 and 1861 It is the first book on the history of North American mathematics education to be written from that perspective The principal data source is a set of 207 handwritten cyphering books that have never previously been subjected to careful historical analysis Archetype, Culture, and the Individual in Education Clifford Mayes, 2020-03-16 In Archetype Culture and the Individual in Education The Three Pedagogical Narratives Clifford Mayes presents a unique approach to understanding how Jungian principles can inform pedagogical theory and practice In a time when what the educational historian Lawrence Cremin called the military industrial educational complex and its standardized education are running roughshod over the psyche and spirit of students Mayes deploys depth psychology especially the work of Jung to advance an archetypal approach to teaching and learning Mayes demonstrates how catastrophic it is to students when the classroom is governed by forces that objectify the individual in a paralysing stranglehold He argues that one s life narrative is significantly impacted by one s narrative as a learner thus schooling that commodifies learning and turns the student into an object has neuroticizing effects that will spread throughout that student s entire life In Part I Mayes explores the interaction between archetypes and various types of time ultimately focusing on the individual but always mediated by the cultural unconscious In Parts II and III he brings together education with post Jungian and post Freudian psychology examining transference countertransference in the classroom the Jungian idea of the shadow applied to educational processes Jung's unique vision of the symbol and its importance for educational theory and Jung's transcendent function as a prime educational modality Mayes concludes by looking to the future of archetypal pedagogy This groundbreaking work in the emerging field of Jungian pedagogy is invaluable reading in Jungian Studies depth psychological theory educational theory and for teachers and psychotherapists New Visions and New Voices Clifford Mayes, Jacquelyn Ane Rinaldi, 2023-05-25 In this book the contributors expand on their use of Mayes archetypal pedagogy in volume 1 to apply its principles to a wide variety of venues purposes and projects Each essay explores from its own disciplinary angle the difference between what Mayes has called educational processes which are those practices that take place in the dedicated space of the classroom through the medium of the curriculum and under the stewardship of the teacher and educative acts which are those deep transactions between individuals in joint pursuit of existential truth wherein one is alternately the teacher and student in conversation and sometimes even communion with one s dialogical partner

Pedagogy of the Heart Martin Kokol,2022-03-11 In this honest and daring work Kokol tracks his career beginning as a high school teacher in south Florida up to a graduate student in Massachusetts out to a university professor in Utah and finally in New York City and then to a high school teacher once again in eastern Idaho What he learns along the way is both surprising and revealing in new ways to an audience that might be in the process of becoming a secondary school teacher. The author has not only spent time documenting his growth as he winds up in very different places in this country but also puts together an unusually insightful and long overdue blueprint on where we can go as educators in this rising age of Generation Z What comes out is meant to drum up conversations both in schools of education at the university level as well as out in the trenches of public and private secondary schools. The author reveals not only his professional ideas but also his personal journey not at all easy in the zip codes in which he finds himself at different points in his career. His work is wonderfully honest even refreshing and his readers will most certainly delight at the personal connection he succeeds at making Equality, Education, and Human Rights in the United States Mike Cole, 2022-10-12 This book offers an uncompromising and rigorous analysis of education and human rights by examining issues related to gender race sexuality disability and social class Written as a companion to the very successful U K version this volume reflects the economic political social and cultural changes in educational and political policy and practice in the United States Offering a comprehensive look at these areas this book is an essential resource across a wide range of disciplines and for all those interested in education social policy and equality Seven Curricular Landscapes Clifford Mayes, 2003 Seven Curricular Landscapes offers a holistic presentation and critique of what the author considers to be the seven major types of curricula This book which is suitable for both upper division and graduate education courses differs from previous holistic approaches in that it closely considers the holistic implications of postmodernism adds new categories and terms to the holistic repertoire includes the latest developments in transpersonal theory examines the Existentialist curriculum as a spiritual phenomenon and discusses the curricular implications of both Eastern and Western spirituality Social Education in the Twentieth Century Christine A. Woyshner, Joseph Watras, Margaret Crocco, 2004 Since the birth of the republic the aim of social education has been to prepare citizens for participation in democracy In the twentieth century theories about what constitutes good citizenship and who gets full citizenship in the civic polity changed dramatically In this book contributors with backgrounds in history of education educational foundations educational leadership and social studies education consider how social education inside and outside school has responded to the needs of a society in which the nature and prerogatives of citizenship continue to be contentious issues Education Law Charles J. Russo, Ralph D. Mawdsley, 2002 Education Law provides insightful analysis and case law citations on such topics as school governance finance and procurement employment issues including tenure dismissal and more Visual Ethics Michael Schwartz, Howard Harris, 2018-05-31 This volume includes six varied contributions to the study of visual ethics in organizations The implications of our visual world for organizational life and personal behaviour have received scant research attention. This volume sets out to address that lack of research Developing the Whole Student Clifford Mayes, 2019-12-31 This book proposes a new way of categorizing curricula in the holistic educational traditional This is an idea that goes back in the Western tradition at least as far as Plato and Lao Tzu in the Eastern tradition It is certainly present in Spinoza and Schopenhauer It is called a holarchy The idea of a holarchy gives rise to Integrative Curriculum Theory which with major modifications draws on Ken Wilber's in his evolutionary model of the development of consciousness at personal cultural and ontological realms Integrative Curriculum Theory will 1 Prove a useful addition to the holistic repertoire of systematic and above all humane terminologies and technologies for making and evaluating specific curricula as well as for theorizing the curriculum at a time when scientistic technist and profit driven views of education have commandeered the podium policy and praxis and 2 address some areas of concern that with certain holistic models of education and 3 address some problems in Wilber's integral model of psychological cultural and spiritual evolution Philosophic Conflicts in American Education, 1893-2000 Joseph Watras, 2004 In the past forty years the idea of home which is central to how the law conceives of crime punishment and privacy has changed radically Legal scholar Jeannie Suk shows how the legitimate goal of legal feminists to protect women from domestic abuse has led to a new and unexpected set of legal practices Suk examines case studies of major legal developments in contemporary American law pertaining to domestic violence self defense privacy sexual autonomy and property in order to illuminate the changing relation between home and the law She argues that the growing legal vision that has led to the breakdown of traditional boundaries between public and private space is resulting in a substantial reduction of autonomy and privacy for both women and men American Book Publishing Record, 2005 Social Studies Christine A.
