The Expository Times ,1901 A History of English Laughter ,2021-11-01 Is there a history of laughter Or isn t laughter an anthropological constant rather and thus beyond history a human feature that has defined humanity as homo ridens from cave man and cave woman to us The contributors to this collection of essays believe that laughter does have a history and try to identify continuities and turning points of this history by studying a series of English texts both canonical and non canonical from Anglosaxon to contemporary As this is not another book on the history of the comic or of comedy it does not restrict itself to comic genres some of the essays actually go out of their way to discover laughter at the margins of texts where one would not have expected it all in Beowulf or Paradise Lost or the Gothic Novel Laughter at the margins of texts which often coincides with laughter from the margins of society and its orthodoxies is one of the special concerns of this book This goes together with an interest in impure forms of laughter in laughter that is not the serene and intellectually or emotionally distanced response to a comic stimulus which is at the heart of many philosophical theories of the comic but emotionally disturbed and troubled aggressive and transgressive satanic and sardonic laughter We do not ask then what is comic but who laughs at and with whom where when why and how Laughter ,1890 English Composition William Murison, 1926 David David Herbert Lawrence, 1927 The Complete Works of D. Laughter, Jestbooks and Society in the Spanish Netherlands Johan Verberckmoes,1999-03-15 Prior to the modern age laughter raised passions and activated the body to sweat and shake Derision was not distinguished from joy Deceiving the senses by tricks or funny stories made all people laugh loudly regardless of class Johan Verberckmoes describes in this innovating book the hotchpotch of comic images and stories in Flandres during the rule of the Spanish Habsburgs from 1500 to 1700 It challenges the Bakhtinian idea of a caesura in the history of laughter around 1600

The People And the Word Robert Allen Warrior, Much literary scholarship has been devoted to the flowering of Native American fiction and poetry in the mid twentieth century Yet Robert Warrior argues nonfiction has been the primary form used by American Indians in developing a relationship with the written word one that reaches back much further in Native history and culture Focusing on autobiographical writings and critical essays as well as communally authored and political documents The People and the Word explores how the Native tradition of nonfiction has both encompassed and dissected Native experiences Warrior begins by tracing a history of American Indian writing from the eighteenth century to the late twentieth century then considers four particular moments Pequot intellectual William Apess's autobiographical writings from the 1820s and 1830s the Osage Constitution of 1881 narratives from American Indian student experiences including accounts of boarding school in the late 1880s and modern Kiowa writer N Scott Momaday's essay The Man Made of Words penned during the politically charged 1970s Warrior's discussion of Apess's work looks unflinchingly at his unconventional life and death he recognizes resistance to assimilation in the products of the student print shop at the Santee Normal Training School and in the Osage Constitution as well as in Momaday's writing Warrior sees reflections of their turbulent times as well as guidance for our own Taking a cue from Momaday's essay which gives voice to an imaginary female ancestor Ko Sahn Warrior applies both critical skills and literary imagination to the texts In doing so The People and the Word provides a rich foundation for Native intellectuals critical work deeply entwined with their unique experiences Robert Warrior is professor of English and Native American studies at the University of Oklahoma He is author of Tribal Secrets Recovering American Indian Intellectual Traditions Minnesota 1994 and coauthor with Paul Chaat Smith of Like a Hurricane The Indian Movement from Alcatraz to Wounded Knee
