Evaluating Health Projects Lessons From The Literature:

Investing in Health Timothy A. Johnston, Susan Stout, 1999-01-01 World Bank lending for health nutrition and population HNP activities is accelerating The Bank's emphasis has evolved from expanding HNP service delivery capacity to encouraging systemic reform The Bank is now the major source of external finance for the sector in the developing world The policy influence of its nonlending services is potentially significant With the current generation of projects the Bank and its partners are attempting to address underlying constraints to sector performance while remaining cognizant of the difficulty of improving health sector effectiveness and efficiency even in developed countries This volume recommends that the Bank seek to do better not more in the HNP sector improve project monitoring and evaluation and strengthen its ties with the World Health Organization and other interested organizations

Evaluating Health Projects Susan Stout, 1997-01-01 This book explores the wave of decentralization that has swept through Latin America and the projected institutional changes within the governments in the region Although it notes the ways in which decentralization implies a critique of past governing patterns the emphasis is on such potential consequences of governmental change as the strengthening of democratic participation in government and the improvement of local public service The book draws upon institutional experiments carried out at the state level to examine which decentralization strategies work best in Latin America It is organized around three major requirements for the success of decentralization Establishing the national fiscal framework Moving government closer to the people Improving municipal service delivery Tables illustrate the shift of revenues and expenditures from central authorities to intermediate levels of government

Evaluation Advisory Groups Ross VeLure Roholt, Michael L. Baizerman, 2012-12-18 Advisory committees are used often in evaluation studies yet this practice is little discussed or reported This issue is the first full length text devoted to the purpose practice and scholarship about this type of formal structured advice It includes case studies and analyses of these to answer such basic topics as What is an evaluation advisory group EAG Why not use an EAG How to organize an EAG and how to evaluate it The reader will learn how to view the EAG as a structure of expertise its use for political legitimacy and as a response to a variety of constituencies Guidelines on how to recruit select orient train monitor assess and evaluate EAG members are also included This is the 136th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association

Ghana Shiyan Chao, 1999-01-01 Ghana is an extremely diverse country ethnically culturally ecologically and economically Women and men play different roles undertake different activities and face different constraints Gender based differences in their activities and practices result from existing gender inequalities Because these gender differences are often fundamental to men and women's livelihoods understanding them is essential to designing policies and projects that will effectively reduce gender inequalities and promote sustainable development A growing body of literature indicates that reducing gender inequalities and increasing women's access to productive resources greatly improves both welfare and economic productivity Despite recent gains in some areas significant gender inequalities continue to limit women's capabilities and constrain their ability to participate in and contribute to Ghana's economy This report examines key gender inequalities and gender based differences in economic activities opportunities and constraints focusing on two broad areas the links between gender economic productivity and poverty and the development of human capital It is the result of the World Bank's recognition of the need to understand gender issues in order to develop strategies to deal with them and support the government's program to develop a gender strategy In addition it is intended to further the dialogue between the Bank the government other donors and nongovernmental organizations NGOs on how to reduce or eliminate gender specific constraints on economic development in Ghana

Preker, April Harding, 2003 As the largest expenditure category of the health systems in both industrialised and developing countries hospital care provision has been the focus of reforms over recent decades This publication reviews recent trends in hospital policy reforms and options around the world and includes case studies which offer insights into lessons learned Issues considered include differences in income levels cultural settings and market environments organisational changes such as increased management autonomy and privatisation the need for parallel reforms and effective evaluation mechanisms

Design of Social Funds Deepa Narayan-Parker, Katrinka Ebbe, 1997-01-01 Annotation World Bank Discussion Paper No 375 Social funds have proved to be important instruments for reaching the poor using community based strategies Yet while there have been innovations in the design of these funds the projects are much less participatory and demand oriented than is commonly believed This paper examines the extent to which social fund subprojects are designed to support community participation demand orientation and investment in local organizational capacity to achieve sustainability at the community level

Gender and Development, 2010-01-01 In 2001 the World Bank adopted a gender equality policy as a means to help reduce poverty This policy was outlined in Integrating Gender into the World Bank's Work A Strategy for Action referred to as the 2001 Gender Strategy Through this evaluation IEG finds that the World Bank made progress in gender integration between 2002 and 2008 integrating gender concerns in more than half of the relevant projects These signs of progress are qualified by findings that implementation of this policy weakened in the latter half of the review period and that there was no built in results framework in the strategy

Hungary Mihaly Kopanyi, 2000-01-01 Modernisation of the public sector reforming intergovernmental fiscal relations enhancing the local capacity to implement local strategies and developing the legislative and institutional framework for efficient delivery of public services are among the biggest challenges in transition economies Hungary has been a pioneer in local government reform and the Hungary Subnational Development Program SNDP proves the value of an integrated approach Measuring and Apportioning Rents from Hydroelectric Power Developments Mitchell P. Rothman, 2000-01-01 Hydro resources are provided by nature The exploitation of such resources can generate significant economic rent to the owners In the past governments have usually claimed ownership of hydroelectric resources and passed on the rents to their state owned utilities which have used them to expand their systems or provide lower tariffs to their consumers With the restructuring of the electric power sector in many countries a more explicit consideration of hydroelectric rents is required Moreover hydropower resources are often owned by more than one party or at least require cooperation between parties to develop them In this context the measurement and apportionment of hydropower rents between cooperating parties becomes important This paper addresses some of the issues involved in cooperative development of water resources especially for hydroelectric generation It promotes a better understanding of the sources of the benefits and attempts to derive an analytical basis for discussions between cooperating parties This volume will be of interest to hydropower resource earning countries hydropower developers and Bank staff Trade, Global Policy, and the Environment Per Fredriksson, 1999-01-01

QUOTE We live in an increasingly interconnected world Trade flows worldwide are growing rapidly and global production patterns are shifting as countries follow their comparative advantage in production via trade At the same time however there is growing concern about potential adverse environmental impacts from increasing trade QUOTE John A Dixon Lead Economist The Environment Department World Bank Interest in the trade and environment debate has intensified as a result of international trade agreements and because many proposed solutions to the climate change problem have potential implications for the global trading system Clearly more empirical work is needed to inform the debate guide policymakers toward solutions and help set priorities This volume is an attempt to further our understanding of the empirical links between trade and the environment Thirteen chapters which were presented as papers at a World Bank conference in April 1998 focus on three main themes 1 Effects of trade liberalization and growth on the environment 2 The QUOTE pollution haven QUOTE hypothesis 3 Economic instruments for resolving global environmental problems The papers address a number of different issues within each of the themes offering new data or new questions and approaches They are devoted to deepening our understanding and empirical knowledge of the various effects of trade liberalization Only through a firm understanding of the linkages involved can well founded policy advice be formulated East Asia Corporations, 2000 East Asian corporations differ from their counterparts in other countries in important ways Before the recent financial crisis these differences were viewed as one of the reasons for the success of East Asian economies The crisis altered that view and many scholars now argue that the weak corporate governance and financing structures of East Asian corporations are partly to blame for the recent crisis This paper reviews several features of East Asian corporations showing that they have high leverage and concentrated ownership are typically affiliated with business groups and operate in multiple industries These characteristics affected the performance of corporations prior to the crisis as well as their ability to deal with its aftermath Each economy's level of development also affected how these characteristics interacted with firm performance and valuation Finally the concentration of ownership in the hands of a few large families may have influenced economies institutional development
