Evaluation Models D.L. Stufflebeam, George F. Madaus, T. Kellaghan, 2000-11-30 Organized in three sections the first includes a historical perspective on the growth of evaluation theory and practice the second section includes articles on the major schools of thought about evaluation the final section describes and discusses the standards for program evaluation

Evaluation Models George F. Madaus, M. Scriven, D.L. Stufflebeam, 2012-12-06 Attempting formally to evaluate something involves the evaluator coming to grips with a number of abstract concepts such as value merit worth growth criteria standards objectives needs norms client audience validity reliability objectivity practical significance accountability improvement process product formative summative costs impact information credibility and of course with the evaluation itself To communicate with colleagues and clients evaluators need to clarify what they mean when they use such terms to denote important concepts central to their work Moreover evaluators need to integrate these concepts and their meanings into a coherent framework that guides all aspects of their work If evaluation is to lay claim to the mantle of a profession then these conceptualizations of evaluation must lead to the conduct of defensible evaluations The conceptualization of evaluation can never be a one time activity nor can any conceptualization be static Conceptualizations that guide evaluation work must keep pace with the growth of theory and practice in the field Further the design and conduct of any particular study involves a good deal of localized conceptualization Evaluation Models George F.
