European Security An Introduction To Security Issues In Postcold War Europe:

European Security Andrew M. Dorman, Adrian Treacher, 1995 Although the end of the Cold War cannot clearly be dated there are certain points in recent history that constitute markers in its final stages This book taking the final date as 1989 offers a longer historical analysis in order to trace elements of continuity as well as discontinuity across the Cold War and post cold War periods

Rethinking Security in Post-Cold-War Europe William Park, G. Wyn Rees, 2014-06-11 Provides a survey of the principal items on the agenda following the end of the Cold War focusing upon the institutions and regions where the reconsideration of security issues has been particularly profound The book is organised into three main sections the first examines the changed roles of the main security institutions which have survived the Cold War NATO the European Union Western European Union and the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe The second analyses the Central European countries Russia and States of the former Soviet Union in terms of their ideologies political structures and relationships of the Cold War period Lastly the text examines the northern and southern regions of Europe where quite different perspectives and agendas are concerned

The European Union and Conflict Prevention Emma J. Stewart, 2006 The book examines the evolution of EU conflict prevention as an internal EU process and as an area of external cooperation with the UN OSCE and NATO Conflict prevention has emerged as a prominent EU policy in the post Cold War era Yet how suited is the organisation to practice conflict prevention and what does the record of cooperation with other key European organisations tell us about the EU s external priorities The book critically analyses the EU s policy and outcomes to date concluding that conflict prevention is underdeveloped by the EU and is in danger of being marginalised in favour of shorter term crisis management Moreover EU external cooperation reinforces this the priority is cooperation in crisis management with the UN and NATO rather than longer term cooperation with the OSCE

European Security and Hybrid Threats Zeynep Arkan, 2025-03-21 Hybrid threats have been defined in various ways by different security actors with their scope continuously expanding to encompass emerging insecurities within the evolving security environment. As an umbrella term encompassing a wide spectrum of threats with complex and multidimensional features, the notion of hybrid threats remains inherently vague and amorphous. This lack of clarity presents significant challenges for policymakers who must constantly identify potential dangers, anticipate risks, and formulate effective responses to safeguard their polities and populations. Consequently, a persistent sense of insecurity has become a defining characteristic of the current European security landscape. This new normal of European security is characterised by a series of unknowns that fall under the elusive concept of hybrid threats. However, rather than accepting this evolving security paradigm at face value, this study calls for a critical examination of its underlying assumptions, core concepts, and broader political implications. It argues that the hybrid threat narrative demands a re-evaluation of what security means in contemporary Europe and how it is operationalised. Moreover, the study underscores the expansive nature of the hybrid threat framework, which has the potential to include virtually any domain ranging from education and technology to research and public infrastructure, thereby contributing to the securitisation of all aspects of social and political life. This expansive and ambiguous framing raises important questions about the limits of security and allocation of resources, carrying considerable implications for democratic governance in Europe.

Dr Zeynep Arkan is an Associate Professor of International Relations at Hacettepe University, Ankara, and a Visiting Fellow at the Österreichisches Institut für Internationale Politik, Vienna. She holds a BSc from Middle East Technical University, Ankara; an MA from Exeter University, Exeter; and a PhD from the University of Kent, Canterbury.

EU Conflict Prevention and Crisis Management Eva Gross, Ana Juncos, 2010-12-22

Conflict prevention and crisis management has become a key activity for the EU since the creation of the Common Security and Defence Policy in 1999. The rapid growth of this policy area, as well as the number of missions deployed beyond the EU's border, raise important questions about the nature of the EU's international role and its contribution to international security. The Contributions to EU Conflict Prevention and Crisis Management analyze European conflict prevention and crisis management in terms of the EU's evolving global role, its institutions, and its policies. The volume analyzes the EU's position in relation to the US, the UN, and other regional security organizations, and applies three different institutionalist perspectives: historical, rational choice, and sociological institutionalism, to explain the increasing institutionalization of EU crisis management. It also critically analyzes the application of EU policies in West Africa, Afghanistan, and the Caucasus. Providing a comprehensive analysis of EU crisis management, the volume explores what role EU conflict prevention and crisis management plays in a European and a global context. Offering a comprehensive and original contribution to the literature on EU foreign and security policy, this volume will be of interest to students and scholars of European politics, international relations, and security studies.
