Evaluating Capacity Development Experiences From Research And:

Evaluating Capacity Development Douglas Horton, 2003 The perspective that informs this important book is that every evaluation of a capacity development effort should itself contribute to the capacity development effort and ultimately to the organization's performance This is a revolutionary idea in evaluation With the idea have come the questions Can it be done And if it is done what will be the consequences This book elucidates and deepens the idea shows it can be done and examines the consequences both intended and unintended of engaging in capacity development evaluation Evaluating Capacity Development D. Horton, 2003 The evaluating capacity development project an experiment in evaluating capacity development The basics of capacity organizational capacity development and evaluation Why managers should be concerned with organizational capacity development and its evaluation Towards a holistic approach to organizational capacity development Towards partnership in organizational capacity development Approaches for evaluating organizational capacity development Using and benefiting from a evaluation Evaluating Capacity Development Horton, Douglas E, International Service for National Agricultural Research, International Development Research Centre (Canada), 2003 This book explains how the project used an action learning approach bringing together people from various countries and different types of organizations As they conducted six evaluation studies over the course of 3 years project participants learned a great deal about capacity development and the process of evaluation The authors use examples and lessons drawn from the evaluation studies as a basis for making more general conclusions regarding how capacity development efforts and evaluation can help organizations to achieve their missions Evaluating Capacity Development Douglas et al. Horton (ed), 2003 Building and Evaluating Research Capacity in Healthcare Systems Nancy Edwards, Dan Kaseje, Eulalia Kahwa, 2016-07-20 Over the past decade there have been many international calls to strengthen and support sustain research capacity in lower and middle income countries LMICs This capacity is considered an essential foundation for cost effective healthcare systems While there have been long standing investments by many countries and research funding organisations in the training of individuals for this purpose in many LMICs research capacity remains fragmented uneven and fragile There is growing recognition that a more systems oriented approach to research capacity building is required Nonetheless there are considerable gaps in the evidence for approaches to capacity building that are effective and sustainable This book addresses these gaps capturing what was learned from teams working on The Global Health Research Initiative This book brings together the experiences of research capacity building teams co led by Canadians and LMIC researchers in several regions of the world including China Chile Jamaica Kenya Mexico Nigeria South Africa and Uganda Learning to evaluate capacity development and collaborative learning about community-based natural resource management. Vernooy, R., Nelles, W., Campilan, D., Li, Z., 2008-11-28 Innovation for development Devaux, A., Ordinola, M., Horton, D., 2011-11-30 Agency Capacity for Recreation Science and Management Lee K. Cervený, Clare Ryan, 2008 This report examines the capacity of natural resource agencies to generate scientific knowledge and information for use by resource managers in planning and decisionmaking This exploratory study focused on recreation in the U S Department of Agriculture Forest Service A semistructured open ended interview guide elicited insights from 58 managers and 28 researchers about recreation issues information exchange and research management interactions Data were coded and analyzed using Atlas ti a qualitative analysis software program Results indicate that recreation managers seek information to address user conflicts and manage diverse activities across sites and landscapes Managers do not always turn to the research community when looking for scientific information and are uncertain about the proper channels for communication Managers consult a variety of information sources and aggregate various types of scientific information for use in planning and management Managers desire greater and more diverse interactions with researchers to promote knowledge exchange useful for addressing recreation problems Barriers to interaction include organizational differences between management and research researcher responsiveness relevance of information to manager needs and the lack of formal interaction opportunities Several structural processes were suggested to facilitate opportunities for greater interaction and information exchange Enabling

Participatory Research and Development Julian F. Gonsalves, 2005 Research and development can no longer be the exclusive domain of scientists To find sustainable solutions to development problems a wider range of actors must be involved It is crucial for example that local stakeholders provide input to the process Participatory research and development PR D offers such an inclusive model This three volume sourcebook provides easy access to field tested PR D concepts and practices for practitioners researchers and academic As well it presents a comprehensive overview of PR D and will serve as a general reference for trainers policymakers donor

Fragile Urban Governance Gangadhar Jha, 2018-06-13 Urbanization is giving rise to a vibrant and volatile urban India The urban local self government ULSG is struggling to provide efficient effective inclusive and responsive urban services Most ULSGs are too fragile to perform the mandated functions for enhancing the quality of life and making cities and towns livable The book traces evolution of ULSGs its decline after Independence and steps taken to strengthen them especially through the big bang decentralization initiative of 1992 for their empowerment by enacting the 74th Constitution Amendment Act 74th CAA Analyzing facets of the decentralization initiative views of two review Commissions policy responses to it and processes for implementation of constitutional provisions it alludes to conspicuous gaps at three levels such as i gaps and deficiencies in the 74th CAA ii gaps in the post 74th CAA municipal Acts that were required to conform to the constitutional provisions and iii gaps due to half hearted implementation of even the mandatory constitutional provisions Empowerment and strengthening of ULSG being in the nature of an imperative it explores plausible options within the constitutional autonomy of states Empowerment denotes authority power and clarity in municipal functional and fiscal domain Therefore it also specifies experiential based rational framework and a strategy for strengthening ULSGs that must look beyond the existing predilection for mere training It fills an existing void in ULSG
