a monitor screen across three leading brands of AEDs was an extra 46% in cost In the context of resupplying 108 GPs with AEDs as a public health initiative the presence of a monitor screen would add significant additional cost for little quantifiable benefit

Investigation of Automated External Defibrillator (AED) and Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) Experience and Knowledge at The Ohio State University Bryan Patrick Hennessey,2012 Abstract Automated External Defibrillator AED and Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation CPR training has become increasingly more common among non medical individuals Past studies have shown the benefits of placing AEDs in public settings for use by non medical first responders and that AED CPR training of responders is an important factor in resuscitation of victims of cardiac arrest However potential users must be aware of AED locations and must be willing to use them and perform CPR There is currently no location listing of AEDs on the OSU main campus This naturally leads to questions about community knowledge and awareness of AED locations on campus and willingness and knowledge about their use A web based questionnaire with two sets of questions was administered to a sample of faculty and staff and a sample of administrators from The Ohio State University The goal of the study was to determine if these members of the OSU community know where AEDs are located on campus and to what extent these members are ready or willing to use them Information about the current training and experience levels of faculty and staff and their interest in participating in AED CPR training as well as administrators experience with AEDs and CPR and their interest in purchasing an AED or providing training was collected through the questionnaire The questionnaire was answered by 32 staff members 55 faculty members and 42 administrators over a two week period The results from the questionnaire suggest that few faculty staff or administrators have knowledge about the presence of AEDs in or near their work locations on campus The results from the questionnaire showed that while about two thirds of respondents had been trained in CPR at some point in time few were current in their training 10 7 percent of those who were trained at some point Very few had received AED training at any point in time However there was a widespread interest in participating in training in use of AED and CPR 95 2 percent of all respondents Administrators were generally interested in purchasing an AED for their building 80 0 percent responded yes or maybe and providing training for employees 80 0 percent responded yes or maybe Currently there is no system in place for providing AEDs in public areas at The Ohio State University and it is unknown exactly how many AEDs are currently on campus However based on this sample there is interest in obtaining AEDs for buildings on main campus that are not part of the medical campus and interest in receiving training in the use of AEDs and performing CPR Many other college campuses are moving toward comprehensive AED and CPR plans as part of their emergency management programs Their experience and the interest on the part of administrators faculty and staff who participated in this study could support the development of an AED program at The Ohio State University

A Community Needs Assessment for Public Access Defibrillation Patrick J. Mullen,2000

Recent technological advances in computer and electronics design have enabled medical device manufacturers to develop lightweight intrinsically simple automatic external defibrillators AED Simple to operate minimally trained non medical personnel may successfully operate these devices Due to their proven accuracy and reliability in treating sudden cardiac arrest SCA the American Heart Association recognizes them as essential in treating victims of sudden cardiac arrest in certain situations Because of these factors AEDs have gained in popularity among municipal service providers as well as private industry as a means to broaden the availability of defibrillation to the general populace and to reduce the time it takes to bring a defibrillator to the side of a stricken patient Acknowledging that the City of Naperville has yet to develop a program to promote public access defibrillation PAD within the community research was undertaken through descriptive method to conduct an assessment to evaluate the need for implementing a PAD program in Naperville The project attempted to answer the following questions 1 What is the prevalence of sudden cardiac arrest patients treated by the Naperville Fire Department 2 What are the essential components of a public access defibrillation program 3 What community groups should be considered for inclusion in an implementation plan 4 What have other organizations done to successfully implement public access defibrillation programs Research procedures combined the use of two retrospective studies and a survey questionnaire One study consisted of a three year review of patient care reports to determine the location of sudden cardiac arrest events treated by fire department personnel A second look back study sought to quantify cardiac arrest survival data for patients treated in 1999 The third research effort included the distribution of a survey questionnaire to organizations both public and private that had previously implemented PAD programs Results indicated that the Naperville Fire Department demonstrated a hospital discharge rate of 5.8 percent for individuals treated for out of hospital sudden cardiac arrest This contrasted with a successful resuscitation rate of 15.15 percent reported by questionnaire survey participants using AEDs Despite the posting a relatively rapid response time for ALS services to SCA events averaging 3.25 minutes most cardiac arrest patients treated by Naperville paramedics presented with an initial EKG of asystole The majority of arrests occurred in the home 62.24% and appeared to result from a cardiac etiology 84.06 percent of the time Based upon the demonstrated survival rate and the apparent successes of police agencies participating in the survey recommendations were made to promote the implementation of a PAD program With the Fire Department serving as the lead agency target priorities for deployment included police department patrol vehicles appropriate public access government buildings institutional residential care occupancies and large corporate campuses STAR 112804 CPR and AED American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, 2010-10-22 Completely updated and revised to include the 2005 guidelines for cardiovascular resuscitation CPR and emergency cardiovascular care ECC CPR and AED Fifth Edition integrates the training of CPR and AED into one simple program This program teaches basic life support and addresses breathing and cardiac emergencies in caring for adults children and infants It is also designed to facilitate the efficient training testing and retesting in the use of automated external defibrillators AEDs
