The Reformed Church in America Marvin D. Hoff, 1985 Hoff chronicles and analyzes the RCA's creative experiments in organizing for mission in America and around the world recording the successes and shortcomings of a great variety of structures through which the church seeks to do Christ's work. While the book covers more than two centuries of mission work the primary emphasis is on the period from 1945 to the present.

Witness To The World David J. Bosch, 2006-10-01 A great deal of uncertainty exists in the church as to what mission really is. The shifts in political power away from the traditionally Christian West, the call for a moratorium and the other critical voices from the Third World churches and the increasing self-assurance and missionary consciousness among adherents of non-Christian religions all these have given rise to the question whether Christian mission work still makes sense and if it does what form it should take. Is mission identical to evangelism in the sense of proclaiming eternal salvation? Does it include social and political involvement and if so how? Where does salvation take place only in the Church or in the individual or in society or in the world or in the non-Christian religions? The picture is one of change and complexity, tension and urgency. The answers we give to these questions must be consonant with the will of God and relevant to the situation in which we find ourselves.

Introduction to Global Missions Zane Pratt, M. David Sills, Jeff K. Walters, 2014-07-01 Missions is the work of the church to reach and teach the peoples of the world for Christ's sake. The missionary call is a vital part of the life of every follower of Jesus Christ and therefore the church. But the effective discipleship of all nations requires a solid biblical, historical and practical foundation. Therefore the study of missiology demands the effective application of biblical studies, theology and history. This text brings the rich heritage of evangelical missiology founded on conservative theology to a twenty-first century audience passionate for the proclamation of the gospel. Introduction to Global Missions brings the authors' decades of combined missionary and teaching experience to a survey text appropriate for college or seminary classroom. The book is divided into four sections and thirteen chapters. The text begins with the biblical and theological foundations of Christian missions including a biblical theology of missions. Before moving to the practical and strategic issues of twenty-first century missions the authors consider the historical development of missions with a view toward providing a basis for contemporary strategies. A final foundational set of chapters addresses the impact of cultures on the communication of the gospel. The remainder of the text deals with key issues and opportunities in missions including church planting, missions in the local church and strategies for disciple making. Introduction to Global Missions provides a foundation for readers to consider their own missionary call whether as a full-time field missionary or a church member on short-term projects. No matter their role Great Commission Christians need a framework for doing missions well.

Introduction to missiology [Korean] Ho Jin Jun, 1992 After-Mission, Beyond Evangelicalism Najib George Awad, 2020-11-04 After Mission touches on three questions. The first question is about self-perception and identity formation strategies and the various views that we have on the Protestants' relation to their Arab Muslim Middle Eastern context. This will furnish the basis for the ensuing parts as it will provide the study with coherent and analytical readings of the cultural situation and intellectual views of the Arab

Eastern Protestants in their Sitz im Leben from the perspective of the hermeneutic tripod of identity othering relationality The second question about the theological dimension asks what kind of a theological discourse do the Protestants need to develop and how do they need to re form their own theological heritage in such a manner that will allow them to heal the historical enmity and suspicion towards them from the Eastern Orthodox Christian community in the region How should they re think their traditional view on theological subjects common to them and the Eastern Christian tradition Traditional Protestant attitudes towards Eastern Christianity which have been viewed through the lens of evangelicalism and mission have failed to grant the Protestants an influential and truly indigenous presence in the region and have led to them being constantly accused of being a foreign transplant and alien entity In the light of this it is clear that going beyond missiology and traditional evangelicalism demands re thinking certain mutually shared but contentious theological subjects from a new perspective with the focus on more constructive attempts to build fellowship through dialogue Finally the third question touches on the Protestants future in the Arab Muslim Middle East by viewing this inquiry from a broader perspective that is related to all the Middle Eastern Christian communities presence and role in the Muslim majority context It will discuss questions about the kind of presence and role that Christians Protestants included should hope to play in order to guarantee survival and a continuing presence in the region The question of identity formation and the managing of difference without trapping it in the mud of otherizing and self otherizing will also be tackled so that the theological dimension is integrated with the broader multifaceted contextual one

Christian unity Harvey Cox on A Postmodern World There was a time when Pentecostals warned themselves and anyone else who would listen not to become entangled with and dependent on the things of the world Pentecostals were suspicious of the passing fads of stylish clothing the latest hairdo and glitzy new consumer products They were also as it turns out rightly suspicious that the powerful new mass media could be a seductive lure tricking people into the empty values of the consumer market culture Perhaps it is time for a rebirth of that ethic of simplicity that suspicion for the things for the world for which the early Pentecostals were so famous

Dictionary of Mission Karl Muller, Theo Sundermeier, Stephen B. Bevans, Richard H. Bliese, 2006-01-30 Conceived and developed by two of Europe's most eminent missiologists in the country where the scientific and sustained study of mission first took shape the Dictionary of Mission represents the finest of the chorus of voices that comprise contemporary missiology The choice of topics and the authors to address them reflects what Christian mission has become a genuinely worldwide and ecumenical phenomenon That there would be entries on regional theological developments is indicative of how the world church is developing A host of other topics here explored show too how the landscape of mission is changing Taken as a whole then the Dictionary of Mission is a road map through this exciting and challenging terrain from the Foreword
