Introduction To Prisons And Imprisonment:

Prison Readings Yvonne Jewkes, Helen Johnston, 2006 Prison Readings provides a comprehensive critical introduction to the main debates and dilemmas associated with prisons and imprisonment bringing together a selection of the key readings on the subject along with a comprehensive introduction and commentary written by the editors. It will be essential reading for students studying prisons as part of courses in criminology, sociology, law, psychology and other disciplines and practitioners working in this field. Prison Readings introduces students to the history and development of prisons, contemporary theories and issues relating to prison populations, to sociological and psychological literature on the effects of imprisonment and to debates about the management and privatisation of the prison estate and emerging trends. Prisons and Imprisonment

Cormac Behan, Abigail Stark, 2023-01-01 This textbook examines prisons and imprisonment. Historically, prisons and prisoners have been a source of interest to the general public. However, despite near universal acceptance of imprisonment as a feature of society, we know relatively little about the reality of prison life or the effects it has on individuals and communities. Using academic scholarship, empirical research, government papers, policy reports and accounts from lived experiences of the institution, this book analyses the complexities and contradictions of prison life, the place of the prison in twenty-first century society and its prospects for the future. This book will introduce readers to key debates surrounding the use of imprisonment and challenge readers to interrogate conventional perspectives on an institution that reflects the society in which it is situated. Introduction to Prisons and Imprisonment Nick Flynn, 1998-12-07 Published in association with the Prison Reform Trust and one of a series on criminal justice and the penal system, this book covers the history of imprisonment in England and Wales, prison conditions, the prison population and regimes from reception to discharge.

An Introduction to Penology: Punishment, Prisons and Probation Lawrence Burke, Dr Helena Gosling, 2022-11-23 An Introduction to Penology is a concise, informative, scholarly guide that will speak to a variety of audiences interested in how the notion of punishment plays out in community and custodial settings with people who have broken the law. With a particular focus on prisons and probation, the book provides an opportunity for readers to critically engage with the concept of punishment in theory and practice and consider different ways in which we as a society can respond to lawbreaking. The text will allow students to pursue a more in-depth study of two of the main criminal justice institutions through the lens of their organisational structures, cultures, service delivery and responses to the needs of minority and vulnerable groups. Throughout the text, students will be encouraged to critically engage with longstanding penological debates, taking into consideration the theory, policy and practice of punishment and will explore ways in which we can rethink penology on an individual and social level and begin to make a case for social justice rather than criminal justice. This innovative and contemporary text is a must-read for students studying criminology, criminal justice, penology and those interested in pursuing a career in either the prison or probation services. Lol Burke is Professor in Criminal Justice and Dr Helena Gosling is a Senior Lecturer in Criminal Justice at
