

WISDOM

A piece of aged, yellowish-brown parchment with irregular, torn edges is centered on a light brown wooden surface with a vertical grain. The word "WISDOM" is written across the parchment in a large, bold, dark brown serif font. Two small, green, textured objects resembling turtle heads or shells are positioned at the top left and top right corners of the parchment, appearing to hold it in place.

It was described by H. G. Wells as the best school story he knew. This edition has an introduction by Germaine Greer. Lesbian Film Guide Alison Darren, 2000-02-17 This A-Z guide to lesbians and lesbianism in the movies contains reviews, gossip, facts, and commentary on over 200 films, including specifically lesbian films such as Go Fish and Desert Hearts, as well as films with a lesbian character or theme like The Children's Hour and The Hunger. The End of a Childhood Henry Handel Richardson, 2022-11-22 In The End of a Childhood, Henry Handel Richardson poignantly explores the intricacies of growing up and the loss of innocence through the lens of a young girl named Laura. Set against the backdrop of late 19th-century Australia, the narrative blends rich, evocative prose with incisive psychological insight, reflecting the restless spirit of a society grappling with its identity. Richardson's keen observations of childhood intricacies, the nuanced portrayal of familial relationships, and the tension between aspiration and reality render the novel a significant work in the canon of Australian literature. The stylistic interplay of lyrical descriptions and stark realism immerses the reader in Laura's emotional landscape, where the ambitions of youth clash with the sobering realizations of adulthood. Henry Handel Richardson, born Ethel Florence Lindon Richardson, was a trailblazing novelist renowned for her deep engagement with the themes of identity and belonging, much of which can be traced to her own experiences of childhood in colonial Australia. Her literary journey was profoundly influenced by her varied upbringing and exposure to European culture, culminating in a distinctive voice that bridged the gap between her Australian roots and the broader literary world. This remarkable novel is essential reading for those interested in the dynamics of childhood and the complexity of human emotions. Richardson's exploration of innocence and its eventual demise will resonate with anyone who has navigated the tumultuous journey from youth to adulthood making The End of a Childhood a poignant and timeless literary exploration Empire Girls Mandy Treagus, 2014-05-12 The dominant form of the nineteenth century novel was the Bildungsroman a story of an individual's development that came to speak more widely of the aspirations of nineteenth century British society Some of the most famous examples David Copperfield Great Expectations Jane Eyre validated the world from which they sprang in which even orphans could successfully make their way Empire Girls the colonial heroine comes of age is a critical examination of three novels by writers from different regions of the British Empire Olive Schreiner's The Story of An African Farm South Africa Sara Jeannette Duncan's A Daughter of Today Canada and Henry Handel Richardson's The Getting of Wisdom Australia All three novels commence as conventional Bildungsromane yet the plots of all diverge from the usual narrative structure as a result of both their colonial origins and the clash between their aspirational heroines and the plots available to them In an analysis including gender empire nation and race Empire Girls provides new critical perspectives on the ways in which this dominant narrative form performs very differently when taken out of its metropolitan setting A Critical Commentary and Paraphrase on the Old and New Testament and the Apocrypha Simon Patrick, 1822

The Chamber of Maiden Thought (Psychology Revivals) Meg Harris Williams, Margot Waddell, 2013-11-26 Literature is recognised as having significantly influenced the development of modern psychoanalytic thought In recent years psychoanalysis has drawn increasingly on the literary and artistic traditions of western culture and moved away from its original medical scientific context Originally published in 1991 The Chamber of Maiden Thought Keats's metaphor for the awakening of the thinking principle is an original and revealing exploration of the seminal role of literature in forming the modern psychoanalytic model of the mind The crux of the post Kleinian psychoanalytic view of personality development lies in the internal relations between the self and the mind's objects Meg Harris Williams and Margot Waddell show that these relations have their origins in the drama of identifications which we can see played out metaphorically and figuratively in literature which presents the self creative process in aesthetic terms They argue that psychoanalysis is a true child of literature rather than merely the interpreter or explainer of literature illustrating this with some examples from clinical experience but drawing above all on close scrutiny of the dynamic mental processes presented in the work of Shakespeare Milton the Romantic poets Emily Bronte and George Eliot The Chamber of Maiden Thought will encourage psychoanalytic workers to respond to the influence of literature in exploring symbolic mental processes By bringing psychoanalysis into creative conjunction with the arts it enables practitioners to tap a cultural potential whose insights into the human mind are of immense value
