Biomag 96 Cheryl J. Aine,Yoshio Okada,Gerhard Stroink,Stephen J. Swithenby,Charles C. Wood,2013-11-11 A modified Linear Estimation Approach was performed to reconstruct current sources within the heart Based on MRI data sets the Boundary Element Method was used to create tailored multicompartment models of the human thorax which were used to solve the forward problem of magnetocardiography The ability of the proposed method was demonstrated for the localization of a single current dipole as an example of a focal source By means of introducing small shiftings to all reconstruction dipoles during linear estimation solution as well as performing a successive focussing strategy ignoring places without significant electrical activity the method could easily be extended to the reconstruction of real 3D sources Based on a special minimum norm solution the source volume can be estimated applying a finite element approximation using cube elements The size of an extended current source can be estimated by superimposing the reconstructed dipoles to an equivalent dipole and comparing the corresponding volume with the sphere which would be related to the equivalent dipole The deviation of these volumes can be taken as a criterion for non dipolarity of sources

Levels of Perception Laurence Harris, Michael Jenkin, 2006-04-29 In this book the authors relate and discuss the idea that perceptual processes can be considered at many levels A phenomenon that appears at one level may not be the same as a superficially similar phenomenon that appears at a different level For example induced motion can be analyzed in terms of eye movements or at the retinal level or at a much higher cognitive level how do these analyses fit together The concept of levels also makes us think of the flow of information between levels which leads to a consideration of the roles of top down and bottom up or feed forward feed back flow There are sections devoted to vestibular processing eye movement processing and processing during brightness perception The final section covers levels of processing in spatial vision All scientists and graduate students working in vision will be interested in this book as well as people involved in using visual processes in computer animations display design or the sensory systems of machines
