Document ,1863 How to Build a Habitable Planet Charles H. Langmuir,Wallace Broecker,2012-08-13 A classic introduction to the story of Earth s origin and evolution revised and expanded for the twenty first century Since its first publication more than twenty five years ago How to Build a Habitable Planet has established a legendary reputation as an accessible yet scientifically impeccable introduction to the origin and evolution of Earth from the Big Bang through the rise of human civilization This classic account of how our habitable planet was assembled from the stuff of stars introduced readers to planetary Earth and climate science by way of a fascinating narrative Now this great book has been made even better Harvard geochemist Charles Langmuir has worked closely with the original author Wally Broecker one of the world s leading Earth scientists to revise and expand the book for a new generation of readers for whom active planetary stewardship is becoming imperative Interweaving physics astronomy chemistry geology and biology this sweeping account tells Earth s complete story from the synthesis of chemical elements in stars to the formation of the Solar System to the evolution of a habitable climate on Earth to the origin of life and humankind The book also addresses the search for other habitable worlds in the Milky Way and contemplates whether Earth will remain habitable as our influence on global climate grows It concludes by considering the ways in which humankind can sustain Earth s habitability and perhaps even participate in further planetary evolution Like no other book How to Build a Habitable Planet provides an understanding of Earth in its broadest context as well as a greater appreciation of its possibly rare ability to sustain life over geologic time Leading schools that have ordered recommended for reading or adopted this book for course use Arizona State University Brooklyn College CUNY Columbia University Cornell University ETH Zurich Georgia Institute of Technology Harvard University Johns Hopkins University Luther College Northwestern University Ohio State University Oxford Brookes University Pan American University Rutgers University State University of New York at Binghamton Texas A M University Trinity College Dublin University of Bristol University of California Los Angeles University of Cambridge University Of Chicago University of Colorado at Boulder University of Glasgow University of Leicester University of Maine Farmington University of Michigan University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill University of North Georgia University of Nottingham University of Oregon University of Oxford University of Portsmouth University of Southampton University of Ulster University of Victoria University of Wyoming Western Kentucky University Yale University Supernovae Paul Murdin,Lesley Murdin,1985-11-07 This revised 1985 edition tells the story of supernovae capturing the flavour of ancient astronomy Offending Women Lynne Allison Haney,2010 Lynne Haney is already an important voice in the sociology of welfare but this book marks her debut as a major figure in the sociology of punishment and the study of governmentality Offending Women is a fascinating work that combines rich ethnographic detail with a structural account of the changing contours of contemporary governance Its original contributions to prison ethnography women s studies and the sociology of Innovations in Fishing Technology Aimed at Achieving Sustainable Fishing Alessandro Lucchetti,Valentina Melli,Jure Brčić,2023-11-20 Over the last fifty years human exploitation of marine resources has become more efficient as the understanding of the habits and behaviour of the various species available in the sea gradually increased Thus technologies have developed naturally over time and fishing gears and practices have become more sophisticated These technical advances in fishing gear have generally led to more efficient economic fishing operations and better access to resources However fishing implies the harvesting of marine organisms directly from their natural environment therefore general awareness of environmental problems due to the exploitation of fishery resources has also increased In particular the poor selectivity of some gears is responsible for the capture of juveniles immature and undersized specimens of many species with negative consequences on the state of stocks In addition bycatch in marine fisheries is a major source of human caused mortality of marine megafauna often leading to the capture of vulnerable species Finally many bottom towed gears are responsible for high impacts on bottom communities and habitats with cascading consequences on the entire marine ecosystem All these impacts can lead to changes in the structure function and integrity of ecosystems including effects on the food webs and multispecies predator prey relationships Optical and Infrared Detectors R.J. Keyes,2013-06-05 This volume is written for those who desire a comprehensive analysis of the latest developments in infrared detector technology and a basic insight into the fundamental processes which are important to evolving detection techniques Each of the most salient infrared detector types is treated in detail by authors who are recognized as leading authorities in the specific areas addressed In order to concentrate on pertinent aspects of the present state of the detector art and the unique point of view of each author extensive tutorials of a background nature are avoided in the text but are readily available to the reader through the many references given The volume opens with a broad brush introduction to the various types of infrared detectors that have evolved since Sir William Herschel's discovery of infrared radiation 175 years ago The second chapter presents an overall perspective of the infrared detector art and serves as the cohesive cement for the more in depth presentation of subsequent chapters Those detector types which for one reason or other have not attained wide use today are also discussed in Chapter 2 The more notable and widely used infrared detectors can be divided into three basic classes which are indicative of the primary effect produced by the photon detector interaction i e thermal photoconductive photo voltaic and photoemissive Chapters 3 4 and 5 offer a detailed treatment of each of these important processes

Trans-Generational Plasticity Olivia Roth, Dalial Freitak, 2022-01-13 The IGM/Galaxy Connection Jessica L. Rosenberg, Mary E. Putman, 2012-12-06 This volume contains the proceedings of the meeting entitled The IGM Galaxy Connection The Distribution of Baryons at $z=0$ The meeting was held August 8 10 at the National Center for Atmospheric Research NCAR located in Boulder Colorado on the foothills of the Rocky Mountains see conference photo We organized this meeting because we felt it was time to address the link between galaxies and the intergalactic medium at low redshift In this vein we posed several questions to the conference participants Where are the baryons in the local universe and in what phase do they reside What signatures of galaxy evolution have been imprinted on the IGM What percentage of intergalactic gas is left from the galaxy formation process What does the distribution of baryons at $z=0$ tell us about the early universe The conference was an overwhelming success with lots of friendly interaction and discussion among the participants At lunch we were treated to splendid views from the NCAR terrace and discussions ranging from the importance of the LSR GSR and LGSR velocity frames to how long the desserts would last with 90 astronomers and the hot Boulder sun From an inventory of the baryons to the associations between galaxies and Ly α absorbers to the mechanisms by which galaxies obtain and lose gas the conference covered many topics The results of these endeavors are contained in these pages and eloquently summarized by Chris Impey Origin and Evolution of Planetary Atmospheres Helmut Lammer, 2012-09-13 Based on the author's own work and results obtained by international teams he coordinated this SpringerBrief offers a concise discussion of the origin and early evolution of atmospheres of terrestrial planets during the active phase of their host stars as well as of the environmental conditions which are necessary in order for planets like the Earth to obtain N₂ rich atmospheres Possible thermal and non thermal atmospheric escape processes are discussed in a comparative way between the planets in the Solar System and exoplanets Lastly a hypothesis for how to test and study the discussed atmosphere evolution theories using future UV transit observations of terrestrial exoplanets within the orbits of dwarf stars is presented

Drug Dependence and Alcoholism Arnold J. Schecter, 2013-11-11 Determination and treatment of the unique needs of each addicted individual is a prerequisite to rehabilitation General descriptions of large subgroups of the addicted population may only serve to identify issues pertinent to treatment and global treatment needs However specification of services needed is a first step in incorporating these in treatment Clearly women in treatment need many services which currently are not typically available and may be critical for successful treatment of many of these women
