landscape for higher education is changing rapidly and distance learning is a key element in this upheaval. In this practical and timely volume authors Marcia L Williams, Kenneth Paprock and Barbara Covington provide clear commentary on the basic issues surrounding distance learning. Distance Learning answers some of the key questions at the heart of new educational technologies. What are the options available to institutions considering the addition of distance learning to their programs? What is the most practical way to integrate new technologies with existing equipment? For teachers, what is the best way to minimize the loss of content and foster a positive learning environment without face to face contact? An ideal introduction to the world of new educational technologies, the guide is filled with case studies and built on an intuitive set of How do I questions. Providing a strong foundation for teachers who need to teach from a distance, it will be an invaluable sourcebook for teachers who need to know more about open and distance learning across any academic discipline.

Distance Learning Chandra Mehrotra, C. David Hollister, Lawrence McGahey, 2001-09-21. This book is a fine example of what is needed for distance learning: teachers, administrators and evaluators throughout the world. It provides good coverage of the timely topics that face distance educators daily. For those considering starting a distance learning course or program, this book would provide a solid footing upon which to make important decisions. REVIEW OF HIGHER EDUCATION. The overall strength of this volume is its emphasis on practical considerations that an instructor is likely to encounter in creating a distance course, particularly strong in presenting easily understood principles of good practice for those who must plan and implement distance learning. EVALUATION PROGRAM PLANNING. What delivery methods are available to make education accessible to a wide variety of potential learners? What are their strengths and weaknesses? How can instructors create effective learning environments in distance courses? What support from administrators and staff is essential? What guidelines are used by accrediting agencies to assure program quality? This highly readable book by three experienced faculty members answers these questions and more. Both theoretical and practical, the book presents proven principles and research-based advice. Drawing upon their experience with a variety of delivery modes, the authors provide readers with tips they can use in designing, implementing and evaluating distance courses and programs. Instructors and administrators alike will find much valuable assistance, including a wealth of examples and strategies based on field-tested models, student preferences and the authors' own extensive experiences. Comprehensive coverage that addresses available delivery options, factors to consider when selecting a delivery mode, designing a syllabus for a distance course, fostering student learning and development and providing student support services. Concrete and practical approaches for assessing student learning, conducting course and program evaluation and addressing accreditation guidelines. Summary tips and references to web sites that conclude each chapter provide convenient summaries for readers and guide them to additional resources. A companion web site that illustrates the text's coverage with concrete examples. Drawing upon the rich details provided by the authors, faculty and administrators will be able to meet the challenge of developing and evaluating successful distance learning courses and
