Interrogating Pregnancy Loss: Feminist Writings on Abortion, Miscarriage and Stillbirth R.M. Lind, 2017-11-01 Whereas biomedical and feminist literature treat abortion miscarriage and stillbirth as differently conceptualized events this collection explores the connections between these three categories How have feminist debates and strategies around reproductive choice invigorated the cultural conversation about miscarriage and stillbirth How can we imagine more nuanced engagements with the spectrum of experiences that are at stake when a pregnancy ends And how can we effectively create a space where pregnant people contend with the ways that loss makes meaning for those who grieve and or celebrate the end of pregnancy This collection centres pregnancy loss as an embodied and social phenomenon within a framework that understands pregnancy as a process with no guaranteed outcomes Interrogating Pregnancy Loss considers pregnancy as an epistemic source one that has the capacity to reveal the limits of our collective assumptions about temporality expectation narrative and social legitimacy By interrogating loss this collection argues that the lessons learned from loss have the capacity to serve our collective understandings of both the expected and unexpected rhythms of social and reproductive life

Invisible Labours Aimee Louise

Middlemiss, 2024-02-02 Tracing women's experiences of miscarriage and termination for foetal anomaly in the second trimester before legal viability shows how such events are positioned as less real or significant when the foetal being does not or will not survive Invisible Labours describes the reproductive politics of this category of pregnancy loss in England It shows how second trimester pregnancy loss produces specific medical and social experiences revealing an underlying teleological ontology of pregnancy Some women then understand their pregnancy through kinship with the unborn baby

America South Africa and Northern Ireland provide a fascinating insight into the experience and management of miscarriage across a number of different cultures The authors explore how the social technological and medical context in which miscarriages occur can affect the ways in which women experience such an event In the West advances in medical technology a low infant mortality rate and a low birth rate have raised expectations as to the successful outcome of each pregnancy In addition the early confirmation of pregnancy makes consequent pregnancy loss which might have gone unnoticed or unconfirmed in the past all the more difficult for mothers in the West Yet mourning rituals and behaviour at a pregnancy loss which may be elaborate in some societies are generally considered to be inappropriate in many Western societies Differing social beliefs regarding the causes of miscarriage preventative measures and curative treatments are also examined Medical anthropologists sociologists and health professionals will all find this book fascinating reading
