High Marsh Road Lines For A Diary:

Against the Tides Ronald Rudin, 2021-11-15 For four centuries dykes held back the largest tides in the world in the Bay of Fundy region of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia These dykes turned salt marsh into arable land and made farming possible but by the 1940s they had fallen into disrepair Against the Tides is the never before told story of the Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration MMRA a federal agency created in 1948 to reshape the landscape Although agency engineers often borrowed from long standing dykeland practices they were so convinced of their own expertise that they sometimes disregarded local conditions marginalizing farmers in the process The engineers hubris resulted in tidal dams that compromised some of the region's rivers leaving behind environmental damage This book is a vivid richly detailed account of a distinctive landscape and its occupants revealing the push pull of local and expert knowledge and the role of the state in the postwar era Canadian Wetlands Rod Giblett, 2014-12-15 In Canadian Wetlands Rod Giblett reads the Canadian canon against the grain critiquing its popular representation of wetlands and proposing alternatives by highlighting the work of recent and contemporary Canadian authors such as Douglas Lochhead and Harry Thurston and by entering into dialogue with American writers The book will engender mutual respect between researchers for the contribution that different disciplinary approaches can and do make to the study and conservation of wetlands internationally Literary History of

Irvine, Vanessa Lent, Bart A. Vautour, 2017-03-17 An examination of the connections between modernist writers and editorial activities Making Canada New draws links among new and old media collaborative labour emergent scholars and scholarships and digital modernisms In doing so the collection reveals that renovating modernisms does not need to depend on the fabrication of completely new modes of scholarship Rather it is the repurposing of already existing practices and combining them with others whether old or new print or digital that instigates a process of continuous renewal Critical to this process of renewal is the intermingling of print and digital research methods and the coordination of more popular modes of literary scholarship with less frequented ones such as bibliography textual studies and editing Making Canada New tracks the editorial renovation of modernism as a digital phenomenon while speaking to the continued production of print editions High Marsh Road Douglas Lochhead, 1980-01-01 Studies in Maritime Literary History Gwendolyn
