Higher Education In The Making:

Checklist for Change Robert Zemsky, 2013-08-20 Almost every day American higher education is making news with a list of problems that includes the incoherent nature of the curriculum the resistance of the faculty to change and the influential role of the federal government both through major investments in student aid and intrusive policies Checklist for Change not only diagnoses these problems but also provides constructive recommendations for practical change Robert Zemsky details the complications that have impeded every credible reform intended to change American higher education He demythologizes such initiatives as the Morrill Act the GI Bill and the Higher Education Act of 1972 shedding new light on their origins and the ways they have shaped higher education in unanticipated and not commonly understood ways Next he addresses overly simplistic arguments about the causes of the problems we face and builds a convincing argument that well intentioned actions have combined to create the current mess for which everyone is to blame Using provocative case studies Zemsky describes the reforms being implemented at a few institutions with the hope that these might serve as harbingers of the kinds of change needed the University of Minnesota at Rochester's compact curriculum in the health sciences only Whittier College's emphasis on learning outcomes and the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh's coherent overall curriculum In conclusion Zemsky describes the principal changes that must occur not singly but in combination These include a fundamental recasting of federal financial aid new mechanisms for better channeling the competition among colleges and universities recasting the undergraduate curriculum and a stronger more collective faculty voice in governance that defines not why but how the enterprise must change

College Made Whole Chris W. Gallagher, 2019-09-24 How can universities shape creative adaptive integrated learners ready to confront the world This book's clear eyed optimism is a challenge to everyone in higher education American higher education is being torn apart Institutions curricula courses and faculty roles are being unbundled broken into constituent parts in the name of efficiency and cost savings As a result the college learning experience is fragmented and incoherent leaving graduates less and less equipped to confront the dire social problems that cause those divisions in the first place In College Made Whole Chris W Gallagher lays bare the dangers of the dis integration of the college experience and shows how we can put higher education back together again The successful colleges and universities of the future Gallagher argues will be integrated coherently and cohesively designed to help students achieve a lifelong learning experience that is more than the sum of its parts Pushing back against pernicious dichotomies that frame much discussion of US higher education Gallagher critiques many of the hottest educational trends including the overhyping of technological solutions rampant adjunctification the promotion of nondegree credentials as a suitable replacement for college degrees and the increasingly narrow focus on the vocational aims of a college education Investigating the purposes of higher education historically and today he suggests audacious proposals to enhance learning including reorganizing institutions reordering institutional priorities redesigning curricula and courses and rethinking edtech and learning technologies Lucidly written and packed with practical recommendations and real student stories College Made Whole will challenge higher education professionals and policy makers as well as anyone with a stake in the future of US higher education which is to say all of us who inhabit this fragile planet      Making College Better Joseph L. Hora,2019-01-02 2018 Frederic W Ness Book Award AAC U How can educators ensure that young people who attain a postsecondary credential are adequately prepared for the future Matthew T Hora and his colleagues explain that the answer is not simply that students need more specialized technical training to meet narrowly defined employment opportunities Beyond the Skills Gap challenges this conception of the skills gap highlighting instead the value of broader twenty first century skills in postsecondary education They advocate for a system in which employers share responsibility along with the education sector to serve the collective needs of the economy society and students Drawing on interviews with educators in two and four year institutions and employers in the manufacturing and biotechnology sectors the authors demonstrate the critical importance of habits of mind such as problem solving teamwork and communication They go on to show how faculty and program administrators can create active learning experiences that develop students skills across a range of domains The book includes in depth descriptions of eight educators whose classrooms exemplify the effort to blend technical learning with the cultivation of twenty first century habits of mind The study set in Wisconsin takes place against the backdrop of heated political debates over the role of public higher education This thoughtful and nuanced account enriched by keen observations of postsecondary instructional practice promises to contribute new insights to the rich literature on workforce development and to provide valuable guidance for postsecondary faculty and administrators      Making Haste Slowly David G. Sansing,1990-09-30 A comprehensive history that reveals the intrusion of culture and politics into higher education in Mississippi      The Making of a College Franklin Patterson,Charles R. Longworth,1968      Diversity's Promise for Higher Education Daryl G. Smith,2024-08-06 Building sustainable diversity in higher education isn't just the right thing to do it is an imperative for institutional excellence and for a pluralistic society that works. In Diversity's Promise for Higher Education author Daryl G. Smith proposes clear and realistic practices to help institutions identify diversity as a strategic imperative for excellence and pursue diversity efforts that are inclusive of the varied issues on campuses without losing focus on the critical unfinished business of the past. To become more relevant while remaining true to their core missions, colleges and universities must continue to frame diversity as central to institutional excellence. Smith suggests that seeing diversity as an imperative for an institution's mission and not just as a value is the necessary lever for real institutional change. Furthermore, achieving excellence in a diverse society requires increasing institutional capacity for diversity, working to understand how diversity is tied to better leadership, positive change, research in virtually every field, student success, accountability, and more equitable hiring practices. In this edition, Smith emphasizes a transdisciplinary approach to the topic of diversity. Drawing on fifty years of diversity studies, this fourth edition engages with how the environment has transformed for diversity work since the third edition appeared in 2020. It addresses the changed landscape in which DEI work has been politicized both on and off campus, provides examples and language to suggest ways to articulate the centrality of diversity to mission and excellence, emphasizes the link between healthy democracies and higher education's mission in light of the current global and domestic challenges to democracy, highlights the need to focus on the conditions for developing healthy communities where dialogue, difference, and learning can take place, examines the current climate of campus protests and the implications for free speech and academic freedom, and reemphasizes the complexity of identity and explains how to attend to the growing kinds of identities relevant to diversity, equity, and inclusion while not overshadowing the unfinished business of race, class, and gender. Higher Education, 1948

La voie de l'excellence académique Philip G. Altbach, Jamil Salmi, 2012-01-27. Le bassin du Congo représente 70 % de la couverture forestière du continent africain et abrite une grande partie de la biodiversité de l'Afrique. Historiquement, la pression exercée sur les forêts du bassin du Congo a été comparativement faible, mais des signes indiquent que cette situation ne devrait pas durer car la pression sur les forêts et les autres écosystèmes s'accroît. La reconnaissance croissante de l'importance des forêts pour endiguer le changement climatique a introduit un nouvel élan dans la lutte contre la déforestation et la dégradation de la forêt tropicale. La plupart des pays de bassin du Congo sont activement engagés dans un processus de préparation des cadres et stratégies, capable de créer des incitations, réduire les missions dues à la déforestation et la dégradation des forêts, encourageant la conservation et la gestion durable des forêts, ainsi que l'amélioration de la séquestration du carbone par les forêts REDD. Ils travaillent ainsi à améliorer et à renforcer leur capacité de suivi des missions liées aux forêts, améliorer la gouvernance des forêts, promouvoir le développement et réduire la pauvreté tout en protégeant les ressources naturelles de la région. Un exercice de deux ans visant à analyser et comprendre en profondeur la dynamique de la déforestation dans le bassin du Congo est résumé dans le présent rapport qui s'organise comme suit. Le chapitre 1 donne une vue commissioned by the Council for National Academic Awards to commemorate its silver jubilee The book covers the history of a period of rapid expansion in higher education outside the universities mirrored in the growth and development of the CNAA The Council was established with the role of awarding degree courses in polytechnics and colleges and so its successes and strengths as well as its problems and difficulties reflect very closely the preoccupations and events of higher education since 1964 The book describes how the CNAA helped to broaden the range of degree courses beyond the traditional subjects the way it maintained and enhanced standards in a swiftly changing academic world and its part in widening access to higher education The book draws on interviews as well as extensive records of the CNAA and some of its institutions

Using Evidence of Student Learning to Improve Higher Education George D. Kuh, Stanley O. Ikenberry, Natasha A. Jankowski, Timothy Reese Cain, Peter T. Ewell, Pat Hutchings, Jillian Kinzie, 2014-12-09 American higher education needs a major reframing of student learning outcomes assessment Dynamic changes are underway in American higher education New providers emerging technologies cost concerns student debt and nagging doubts about quality all call out the need for institutions to show evidence of student learning From scholars at the National Institute for Learning Outcomes Assessment NILOA Using Evidence of Student Learning to Improve Higher Education presents a reframed conception and approach to student learning outcomes assessment The authors explain why it is counterproductive to view collecting and using evidence of student accomplishment as primarily a compliance activity Today's circumstances demand a fresh and more strategic approach to the processes by which evidence about student learning is obtained and used to inform efforts to improve teaching learning and decision making Whether you're in the classroom an administrative office or on an assessment committee data about what students know and are able to do are critical for guiding changes that are needed in institutional policies and practices to improve student learning and success Use this book to Understand how and why student learning outcomes assessment can enhance student accomplishment and increase institutional effectiveness Shift the view of assessment from being externally driven to internally motivated Learn how assessment results can help inform decision making Use assessment data to manage change and improve student success Gauging student learning is necessary if institutions are to prepare students to meet the 21st century needs of employers and live an economically independent civically responsible life For assessment professionals and educational leaders Using Evidence of Student Learning to Improve Higher Education offers both a compelling rationale and practical advice for making student learning outcomes assessment more effective and efficient
