Highway and Byways János Kornai, 1995 Hungarian economist Janos Kornai first used the metaphor of a single path to postsocialist transition in his earlier book The Road to a Free Economy The new metaphor that frames this collection of eight recent studies reflects a broader perspective and understanding of the complexities of transition every highway and byway leads eventually to capitalism Kornai observes but to what kind how fast and at what cost Who wins and who loses Kornai draws from his experiences of Hungarian reform as well as from countries of the former Soviet Union to make several major points The first three studies describe what went wrong in countries that tried to mix elements of planned and market economies Efforts made by communist countries to introduce market socialism the middle road contained an inherent contradiction between the logic of socialism and the logic of a free enterprise system and were doomed to failure In the studies that follow Kornai analyzes the on going dilemmas The transition from communism to free enterprise is filled with daunting hurdles it requires no less than redefining ownership changing values concerning the distribution of wealth transferring the control of political power creating financial institutions and enforcing financial discipline and making deep economic sacrifice Kornai closes with an overall survey of postsocialist transition describing the stages that countries tend to go through that will be particularly useful to scholars of comparative economic systems

Transformation of Social Security Katharina Müller, Andreas Ryll, Hans-Jürgen Wagener, 2012-12-06

This collection of papers focuses on the recent pension reform experiences in Central Eastern Europe while starting from a broader theoretical and empirical context. It provides evidence for the political feasibility of radical pension reform considered unlikely in the West. The approach is both multi disciplinary and cross regional. The book contains papers by economists, political scientists and sociologists. The authors come from Germany, Poland, Hungary, the Czech Republic and the US. The volume consists of four parts. First, general questions of transformation and social security in post 1989 Central Eastern Europe are addressed, followed by an introduction into issues and role models in the international pension reform debate. Then three Central European country cases are presented, analysing institutional legacies, recent reform measures and relevant political actors. A comparative section on Central Eastern European pension reforms concludes this book.

The State After Communism Timothy J. Colton, Stephen Holmes, 2006. The Soviet dictatorship was a strong state committed to dominating and transforming society in the name of a utopian ideology. When the communist regime crumbled and the post Soviet countries committed to democracy, most observers took for granted that their state structures would be effective agents of the popular will. Russia's experience demonstrates that this assumption was overly optimistic. This book, based on a major collaborative research project with American and Russian scholars, shows that state capacity, strength and coherence were highly problematic after communism, which had major consequences for particular functions of government and for the entire process of regime change. Eleven respected contributors examine governance in post Soviet Russia in comparative context, investigating the roots, characteristics and consequences of the crisis as a whole and its manifestations in the specific realms of tax collection, statistics, federalism, social policy, regulation of the banks, currency exchange, energy policy and parliamentary oversight of the bureaucracy.

Rural China Jie Fan, Thomas Heberer, Wolfgang Taubmann, 2015-05-15. This book reports the findings of two field studies conducted between 1993 and 2001 in seven townships and six provinces in China. The authors describe the process of rural urbanization and its related economic, social and political changes by focusing mainly on the zhen town, in addition to administrative offices and companies involved in the local economy and village committees. The authors show that the social changes resulting from China's economic reforms are occurring mainly from below and that this process is also resulting in a weakening of the economic and political dominance of the central government. Other changes discussed in this study include the development of new ownership structures and the increasing dominance of the private sector a shift in the functions of administrative offices as the bureaucracy becomes increasingly business oriented the rise of a new local elite a rebirth of traditional social structures clans local associations and the emergence of new interest groups and institutions to represent their needs

Transition, Recession and Labour Supply Paolo Verme, 2020-11-25 This title was first published in 2001 Exploring the relationship between the recession and labour supply in Kazakhstan during the 1990s this volume develops an innovative new model of the transitional process in the context of the CIS It departs from conventional economic models explaining the process of transition transferring the focus of attention from labour demand to labour supply with a view to clarifying how the transitional recession has affected households and in turn how these changes modified the supply of labour Paolo Verme examines how the dynamic of the reallocation of labour between state and private enterprises has been drastically altered by the growth of self employment and also takes a much needed look at the contribution of other factors offering an original explanation of this most important economic phenomenon Korea Yearbook (2008) Rüdiger Frank, Jim Hoare, Patrick Köllner, Susan Pares, 2008-10-29 South Korea related refereed articles in Korea Yearbook 2008 focus on the domestic political scene relations with Japan policy towards the North higher education reform and new Korean cinema Additional articles deal with the recovery of the remains of US soldiers killed in the Korean War economic reform in North Korea and inter Korean economic cooperation For Korea Yearbook 2009 the editors have announced a graduate student prize of US 750 Please see the readership section for more details China's Economic Reform Zhang Yu, 2017-10-12 China's growth miracle over the past 30 years has propelled it to become the world's second largest economy and potentially the largest in the following years This book examines China's experience on economic reform trying to find the reasons for the sustainable and rapid development and provide insights into the study of economic theories From the perspective of political economics this book elaborates on China's socialist market economy which was officially confirmed as the goal of the country's economic reform in 1992 It expounds on China's economic model the relationship between socialism and market economy as well as the establishment and improvement of socialist market economy in China deepening the studies in the laws governing China's economic development Then it explores the gradual reform the reform of state owned enterprises and the relationship between governments and market all of which are crucial to the success of China's economic reform Finally based on the analysis above this book discusses the reasons for the constant and rapid development of China's economy With detailed analysis on the reform experience and theoretical implications this book will appeal to scholars and students studying China's economy and contribute to the development of economic theories Cities in Post-Mao China Jae Ho Chung, 2005-06-21 This volume written by contributors from a number of different specialisms suggests that different combinations of factors have contributed to the relative successes and failures in these cities Endowment factors preferential policies and history have all proved to be important Most importantly Cities in Post Mao China suggests that locally generated strategies of development are crucial determinants This ground breaking volume reveals through close detail and broad coverage how exactly cities have been catalysts for Chinas economic development It will provide much needed data for those working in the fields of comparative politics development studies economic development and Asian studies Constructing Capitalisms Roderick Martin,2013-03-28 This book provides an analysis of the changes in business systems of four Central and Eastern European countries Poland Hungary the Czech Republic and Romania since the fall of Communism in 1989 drawing on the Varieties of Capitalism debate Central Control and Local Discretion in China Chae-ho Chŏng,2000 This book analyses the decollectivization reform in China during the early 1980s in order to gauge the impact of post Mao decentralization on central control and provincial discretion The volume challenges the notion that the decision to decentralize administrative authority ipso facto produces local discretion properly keyed to local conditions In fact outcomes often differ from the intended goals While generally local interests and central local clientilistic networks determine the policy responses of the provinces bureaucratic careerism also plays a crucial role In the case of post Mao decollectivization national level analyses suggest that a majority of provinces adopted household farming neither too quickly nor too slowly since both pioneering and resisting entailed potentially enormous political risks Once Beijing s preference appeared firmly fixed however they all quickly bandwagoned by popularizing the policy as swiftly as possible Three detailed case studies of Anhui as a pioneer Shandong as a bandwagoner and Heilongjiang as a resister further highlight the evolutionary process in which provincial variations came to be replaced by uniform compliance imposed by Beijing Theoretically this study contends that the overall scope of local discretion is circumscribed by the dominant norms and incentive relations embedded in the implementation dynamics Methodologically the book employs a combination of aggregate analyses and comparative case studies Empirically on the basis of newly available materials including classified documents and interviews it challenges the peasant power school which has somehow allowed local governments to evaporate in its descriptions of post Mao decollectivization Alternative Political Economy Models of Transition John Marangos,2017-07-05 The collapse of centrally administered socialism in Russia and Eastern Europe resulted in what is commonly referred to as the transition problem the transformation from a centrally administered socialist economic system to one that is market based Economic science has been faced with the challenge of developing an appropriate body of analysis advice and direction to help other nations that may be undergoing this process In this volume John Marangos adopts a political economy approach that yields alternative models of transition The volume develops transition models from what Marangos defines as the primary elements of six variables 1 economic analysis 2 definitions of the Good Society 3 speed of transition 4 political structure 5 ideological structure and 6 initial conditions The models developed include the shock therapy model the neoclassical gradualist model of transition the post Keynesian model the pluralistic market the socialist model and the non pluralistic market socialist model After identifying the primary elements of each transition model Marangos considers the elements of each model with respect to the desirable reforms An essential element of the transition process is not only to identify the necessary reforms but also a sequence in which the reforms should be introduced For each transition model developed in this book a set of primary and secondary elements were provided in conjunction with a sequence of reforms Analyzing the transition problem from a political economy perspective Marangos shows that it is possible to have inconsistencies within each transition model and between transition models yet be able to identify the potential for implementation and maintenance of necessary reforms each model recommends This volume contributes to the understanding of the process of transition with the objective of identifying an optimal model of transition Reforming the State János Kornai,Stephan Haggard,Robert R.
