Success and Failure in Israeli Elementary Education Abram Minkowich, Dan Deyá¹ is, Joseph Bashi, This book presents a comprehensive evaluation study of elementary education in Israel conducted over several years and completed in 1977 The study concentrates on Jewish schools but some data are presented from parallel studies in the Arab Schools A notable feature of the study is its unusually large scope both in size and content It sampled nearly ten percent of Jewish schools and fifteen percent of Arab schools The content includes a great variety of areas cultural origins home conditions and socialization patterns of pupils conditions and practices in schools teachers and principals backgrounds and their attitudes toward central issues in education pupils personality characteristics and motivations related to school experience their learning abilities and achievements in five major school subjects Special emphasis is given to the disadvantaged pupils and an examination of the problem of equality of educational opportunity This study s uniqueness lies in a novel approach in the measurement and analysis of scholastic achievements Like all studies in the psychometric tradition it places pupils in a position related to an advantaged pupil group But test construction and most data analyses were carried out by the criterion reference approach combined with a notion of master learning This enabled presentation of the absolute achievement level of a pupil or a pupil group vis a vis the optimal and minimal requirements of the curriculum and each school subject as well as for its various content area This approach permits much more than the traditional methods utilization of results for deliberation and revision in educational policies This applies particularly to curriculum construction and methods of instruction It may also lead to a more appropriate definition of the disadvantaged pupil Five chapters of the study present a historical review and sociological analysis of the problems of Israeli education and deal with specific methodological considerations The twelve following chapters present detailed results and analysis for each topic of investigation

Understanding Individual Differences in Language Development Across the School Years J. Bruce Tomblin, Marilyn A. Nippold, 2014-03-26 This volume presents the findings of a large scale study of individual differences in spoken and heard language development during the school years The goal of the study was to investigate the degree to which language abilities at school entry were stable over time and influential in the child's overall success in important aspects of development. The methodology was a longitudinal study of over 600 children in the US Midwest during a 10 year period. The language skills of these children along with reading academic and psychosocial outcomes were measured. There was intentional oversampling of children with poor language ability without being associated with other developmental or sensory disorders. Furthermore, these children could be sub-grouped based on their nonverbal abilities such that one group represents children with specific language impairment (SLI) and the other group with nonspecific language impairment (NLI) represents poor language along with depressed nonverbal abilities. Throughout the book, the authors consider whether these distinctions are supported by evidence obtained in this study and which aspects of development are impacted by poor language ability. Data are provided that allow conclusions to be made regarding the level of risk associated with different degrees of poor language and whether this risk should be viewed as lying on a continuum. The volume will appeal to researchers and professionals with an interest in children's language development, particularly those working with children who have a range of language impairments. This includes Speech and Language Pathologists, Child Neuropsychologists, Clinical Psychologists working in Education as well as Psycholinguists and Developmental Psychologists.

Objective Tests Jacob Samuel Orleans, Glenn A. Sealy, 1928 State Assessment Policy and Practice for English Language Learners Charlene Rivera, Eric Collum, 2014-05-12

State Assessment Policy and Practice for English Language Learners presents three significant studies each examining a different aspect of states' strategies for including English language learners in state assessments: an Analysis of State Assessment Policies Regarding Accommodations for English Language Learners, a Survey and Description of Test Translation Practices, and an Examination of State Practices for Reporting Participation and Performance of English Language Learners in State Assessments. With the rise in population of English language learners and the subsequent stepped up legislative focus on this student population over the past decade, states have been challenged to include English language learners in state assessment programs. Until now, the little data available on states' policies and practices for meeting this challenge has been embedded in various reports and professional journals and scattered across the Internet. This volume offers for the first time a focused examination of states' assessment policies and practices regarding English language learners. The three studies were supported by OELA, the U.S. Department of Education's Office of English Language Acquisition, Language Enhancement, and Academic Achievement for Limited English Proficient Students.

State Assessment Policy and Practice for English Language Learners is of interest to researchers and professionals involved with the assessment of English language learners, state and district level policy makers and academics, teacher educators and graduate students in a number of fields including educational and psychological assessment, testing and measurement, bilingual education, English as a second language, and second language acquisition.
