Peacekeeping and the UN Agencies Jim Whitman, 2013-12-02 This book is a long overdue assessment of the role of the UN specialized Agencies in peacekeeping operations Special emphasis is given to that most vexed category complex emergencies involving entrapped or victimized civilian populations and a plethora of UN national military and NGO actors While based on the full range of recent history the contributions to this volume are forward looking and policy oriented bringing a hard edged practicality to complex and hitherto under examined issues

Natural Disasters and Development in a Globalizing World Mark Pelling, 2003 Authorative and comprehensive this book makes clear that there are links between global scale processes and local experiences of disaster but underlies the difficulty of attributing blame for individual disasters on specific global pressures

Children in the International Political Economy G. Kent, 1995-09-13 The first line of responsibility for children lies with their parents but what if the parents fail to look after their children Who else is involved and what should they do Children in the International Political Economy examines the moral responsibilities of different individuals and agencies towards children and argues that some responsibilities should be codified as concrete legal duties If all else fails children must look to the international community for help Thus international agencies should recognize specific obligations to look after the well being of children around the world

The Cosmopolitan Potential of Exclusive Associations Bettina R. Scholz, 2015-10-08 Contemporary cosmopolitan moral theorists argue that in our increasingly interconnected world all individuals need to recognize that moral duties span state borders involving responsibilities such as respecting human rights Such arguments usually focus on the duties of individuals or on reforms for international political and economic institutions The Cosmopolitan Potential of Exclusive Associations draws attention to how non state not for profit transnational associations can advance respect for equality in a plurality of less obvious ways By synthesizing moral theories of cosmopolitanism with international relations scholarship it is possible to establish criteria for assessing whether and to what extent transnational associations like M decins sans Fronti res Doctors without Borders or the International Olympic Committee cultivate respect for fellow humans and build transnational communities As these examples show not all non state associations have the mission of advocating for human rights Membership is also not necessarily inclusive of all humanity Membership criteria exclude based on criteria such as professional expertise athletic prowess or certain religious beliefs As a result assessing their impact requires looking for partial expressions of cosmopolitanism that arise piecemeal and without self conscious intention Rather than defending one version of cosmopolitan theory as more applicable to evaluating the impact of associations adapting and combining four common approaches to cosmopolitanism 1 institutional cosmopolitanism 2 natural duties cosmopolitanism 3 cultural cosmopolitanism and 4 deliberative democratic cosmopolitanism makes it possible to evaluate institutional developmental shared identity or public sphere effects of associations Applying the criteria to associations that do not self consciously advance cosmopolitanism shows the potential for partial forms of cosmopolitanism M decins sans Fronti res the first case explored provides emergency medical care across the globe without establishing a transnational community with those it aids The International Olympic Committee the second case brings the world together around global games in which national teams compete against each other Dissidents in the Anglican Communion the third case unite across borders but do so in favor of an interpretation of the Bible that excludes gay men from ordained ministry Despite non cosmopolitan elements each case has lessons about how respect for transnational equality can emerge in subtle ways without self conscious belief in cosmopolitan moral philosophy Preventive

Global Governance and Biopolitics David Roberts, 2013-07-04 This seminal work is the first fully to engage human security with power in the international system It presents global governance not as impartial institutionalism but as the calculated mismanagement of life directing biopolitical neoliberal ideology through global networks undermining the human security of millions The book responds to recent critiques of the human security concept as incoherent by identifying and prioritizing transnational human populations facing life ending contingencies en masse Furthermore it proposes a realignment of World Bank practices towards mobilizing indigenous provision of water and sanitation in areas with the highest rates of avoidable child mortality Roberts demonstrates that mainstream IR's nihilistic domination of security thinking is directly responsible for blocking the realization of greater human security for countless people worldwide whilst its assumptions and attendant policies perpetuate the dystopia its proponents claim is inevitable Yet this book presents a viable means of achieving a form of human security so far denied to the most vulnerable people in the world
