Geography And Identity:

Geography and Identity Dennis Crow, 1996 Mapping the Private Geography Gerri Reaves, 2001-01-10 This study of autobiographical writing and its reflection of personal and national identity analyzes the different ways in which these authors balance individual American identity with collective identities and reinvent their familial cultural and national engenderings In each of the works discussed a private geography a psychological map a myth an ideology or a fiction is posited while its author explores claims to the ownership of memory history and the self The Geography of Identity Patricia Yaeger, 1996 Deterritorialization translocality globalization postcolonial postnational transnational We are in the midst of a redefinition of space In the very moment that national and ethnic boundaries are breaking down we encounter paradoxical reinvestments in homeland territorial integrity localism regionalism and race and ethnocentrism How do we make sense of this contradictory mapping of global and local space How do we understand state and national systems of sovereignty as geographic or place centered dramas of domination How do we maneuver between incommensurable histories of the regional and transnational in a postmodern world The contributors to The Geography of Identity are at the forefront of the new social geography Their essays investigate a range of topics as categories of analysis we have to reimagine With its explorations of the urban heteroclite the postcolony and nativist ideologies of place this volume promises to be a groundbreaking contribution to the remapping of global and local cartographies of culture Geography and National Identity David Hooson, 1994-10-20 This volume of especially commissioned essays explores the geography of and the role of geography in national and proto national identity Place and national identity are bound together Attachment to the one is almost always inseparable from the sense of the other Yet as this volume shows the articulated self conscious linking of place and identity is by and large a modern phenomenon that took root in nineteenth century Europe The formation of supranational states and the much vaunted globalization of culture led many to believe there would be a progressive dilution of national identities and a growing agglomeration of places and nations into larger state units Precisely the reverse has taken place This book explores the connections between identity and homeland showing how a place may be perceived as archetypal endowed with love and celebrated in music and poetry yet be a pretext for violence and war It examines the evolution of ideas about identity and their manifestations in a wide variety of settings from the former Soviet Union to the island states of the South Pacific Geography, Science and National Identity Charles W. J. Withers, 2001-10-04 Charles Withers book brings together work on the history of geography and the history of science with extensive archival analysis to explore how geographical knowledge has been used to shape an understanding of the nation Using Scotland as an exemplar the author places geographical knowledge in its wider intellectual context to afford insights into perspectives of empire national identity and the geographies of science In so doing he advances a new area of geographical enquiry the historical geography of geographical knowledge and demonstrates how and why different forms of geographical knowledge have been used in the past to constitute national identity and where those forms were constructed and received The book will make an important contribution to the study of nationhood and empire and will therefore interest historians as well as students of historical geography and historians of science It is theoretically engaging empirically rich and beautifully illustrated Why Place Matters Wilfred M. McClay, Ted V. McAllister, 2020-02-04 Contemporary American society with its emphasis on mobility and economic progress all too often loses sight of the importance of a sense of place and community Appreciating place is essential for building the strong local communities that cultivate civic engagement public leadership and many of the other goods that contribute to a flourishing human life Do we in losing our places lose the crucial basis for healthy and resilient individual identity and for the cultivation of public virtues For one can't be a citizen without being a citizen of some place in particular one isn't a citizen of a motel And if these dangers are real and present ones are there ways that intelligent public policy can begin to address them constructively by means of reasonable and democratic innovations that are likely to attract wide public support Why Place Matters takes these concerns seriously and its contributors seek to discover how given the American people as they are and American economic and social life as it now exists and not as those things can be imagined to be in some utopian scheme we can find means of fostering a richer and more sustaining way of life The book is an anthology of essays exploring the contemporary problems of place and placelessness in American society The book includes contributions from distinguished scholars and writers such as poet Dana Gioia former chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts geographer Yi Fu Tuan urbanist Witold Rybczynski architect Philip Bess essayists Christine Rosen and Ari Schulman philosopher Roger Scruton transportation planner Gary Toth and historians Russell Jacoby and Joseph Amato Francophone Post-colonial Cultures Kamal Salhi, 2003-01-01 A collection of discussions of literary texts from areas as diverse as Europe and North Africa the Caribbean and South Asia regions of the world that seem to have only their language in common But despite enormous differences among all the countries where French is spoken Francophone literatures tend to deal with a similar spread of issues This volume positions the study of the Francophone world and its cultures as a comparative project in which post colonial Francophone cultures and the specific alterity of these cultures emerge as inextricable from and essential to an understanding of modern France The volume is organized by region with an international roster of contributions and includes summaries of selected creative and critical works and a guide to selected terms and figures Place Naming, Identities and Geography Gerry O'Reilly, 2023-04-06 This book presents research on geographical naming on land and sea from a wide range of standpoints on theory and concepts case studies and education Space and place naming or toponymy has a long tradition in the sciences and a renewed critical interest in geography and allied disciplines including the humanities Place location and cartographical aspects etymology and geo histories so salient in past studies are now being enhanced from a range of radical perspectives especially in a globalizing standardizing world with Googlization and the consequent normalization of place names perceptions and images worldwide including those for marketing purposes Nonetheless there are conflicting and contesting voices The interdisciplinary research is enhanced with authors from regional national and international toponymy related institutions and organizations including the UNGEGN IGU ICA and so forth

Toward a Geography of Art Thomas DaCosta Kaufmann,2004-03-14 Art history traditionally classifies works of art by country as well as period but often political borders and cultural boundaries are highly complex and fluid Questions of identity policy and exchange make it difficult to determine the place of art and often the art itself results from these conflicts of geography and culture Addressing an important approach to art history Thomas DaCosta Kaufmann s book offers essays that focus on the intricacies of accounting for the geographical dimension of art history during the early modern period in Europe Latin America and Asia Toward a Geography of Art presents a historical overview of these complexities debates contemporary concerns and completes its exploration with a diverse collection of case studies Employing the author s expertise in a variety of fields the book delves into critical issues such as transculturation of indigenous traditions mestizaje the artistic metropolis artistic diffusion transfer circulation subversion and center and periphery What results is a foundational study that establishes the geography of art as a subject and forces us to reconsider assumptions about the place of art that underlie the longstanding narratives of art history

The Community Justice Ideal Todd R Clear, 2018-03-05 Over the past quarter century U S politicians have responded to the public's fear of crime by devoting ever more resources to building and strengthening the criminal justice apparatus which as a result has grown tremendously in size and cost Policymakers have also taken steps to toughen procedures for dealing with suspects and criminals and broaden legal definitions of what constitutes crime which has led to the incarceration under harsher than ever conditions of a record high percentage of the U S population Yet public confidence in the criminal justice apparatus is if anything lower than ever before and fear of crime continues to be high In recent years some activists scholars criminal justice officials and politicians have begun to call for a reexamination of get tough crime policies A more sensible approach to crime they argue would focus on community justice that is on building healthy communities in which criminality cannot take root and on making citizens and criminal justice into partners rather than adversaries In this thought provoking study Todd Clear and David Karp provide both a broad theoretical analysis of this ideal and a close examination of a range of attempts to put it into practice in communities throughout the country They conclude that by making the criminal justice system and the public into partners rather than adversaries community justice strategies for dealing with crime are both more effective and more resource efficient than the failed get tough approach
