Essays in the History of Linguistic Anthropology Dell H. Hymes,1983 Anthropology and linguistics as historically developing disciplines have had partly separate roots and traditions In particular settings and in general the two disciplines have partly shared partly differed in the nature of their materials their favorite types of problem the personalities of their dominant figures their relations with other disciplines and intellectual current The two disciplines have also varied in their interrelation with each other and the society about them Institutional arrangements have reflected the varying degrees of kinship kithship and separation Such relationships themselves form a topic that is central to a history of linguistic anthropology yet marginal to a self contained history of linguistics or anthropology as either would be conceived by most authors There exists not only a subject matter for a history
