Past Climates Leona Marshall Libby, 2014-11-11 Leona Marshall Libby was a pioneer in modern climatic research a field that gained great impetus in the late twentieth century because of the promise it holds for predicting future climatic trends Libby's work led to remarkable new procedures for investigating long term changes in precipitation and temperature and thereby greatly expanding our knowledge of past climates As Professor Rainer Berger writes in his foreword In recent years tree ring based temperature data have been collected which go far beyond the records available to historians These data can be analyzed by Fourier transforms which identify certain periodicities Climatic changes detected by tree rings have been checked against historic records The correspondence is astonishing At present weather forecasting is becoming more accurate for periods on the order of days weeks and months Climatic prognoses have also been attempted for very long times of tens of thousands of years But the intermediate range in the decades and centuries has so far been an enigma It is here where tree ring thermometry plays its trump cards Its potential is enormous in assessing worldwide crop yields water inventory heating requirements stockpiling policies and construction planning as well as political and military prospects

Professor J.W. Gregory FRS (1864-1932), Geologist, Writer and Explorer Bernard E. Leake, 2011 Gregory's remarkable career and his scientific work are detailed and critically assessed. Accounts of his heroic 1893 expedition to the Rift Valley, a term he coined in Kenya, now the Gregory Rift, his first crossing of Spitzbergen and his resignation as Leader of the first British Antarctic Expedition of 1901 when racing to the Pole under Scott became the priority draw on unpublished letters. While in Melbourne he published on mining geology and a series of geography textbooks. His 1901 Lake Eyre expedition in Central Australia initiated the phrase 'The Dead Heart of Australia' and controversy over the source of artesian water. In the Chair of Geology in Glasgow from 1904 he built up the largest first year geology class in the UK over 400 students. He worked in every field of geology and every continent except Antarctica. He was also involved with the search for a homeland for the Jews in Libya and Angola. He shrewdly realized that Wegener's Continental Drift Theory erroneously supposed that the Pacific Ocean was wider than now before the Atlantic opened. This led to his influential rejection of Continental Drift. He drowned in Peru traversing the Andes having published over 30 books and nearly 400 articles.
