Runaway Anthony Chaney, 2017-08-09 The anthropologist Gregory Bateson has been called a lost giant of twentieth century thought In the years following World War II Bateson was among the group of mathematicians engineers and social scientists who laid the theoretical foundations of the information age In Palo Alto in 1956 he introduced the double bind theory of schizophrenia By the sixties he was in Hawaii studying dolphin communication Bateson s discipline hopping made established experts wary but he found an audience open to his ideas in a generation of rebellious youth To a gathering of counterculturalists and revolutionaries in 1967 London Bateson was the first to warn of a greenhouse effect that could lead to runaway climate change Blending intellectual biography with an ambitious reappraisal of the 1960s Anthony Chaney uses Bateson s life and work to explore the idea that a postmodern ecological consciousness is the true legacy of the decade Surrounded by voices calling for liberation of all kinds Bateson spoke of limitation and dependence But he also offered an affirming new picture of human beings and their place in the world as ecologies knit together in a fabric of meaning that said Bateson we might as well call Mind The Culture of Feedback Daniel Belgrad, 2019-08-30

When we want advice from others we often casually speak of getting some feedback But how many of us give a thought to what this phrase means The idea of feedback actually dates to World War II when the term was developed to describe the dynamics of self regulating systems which correct their actions by feeding their effects back into themselves By the early 1970s feedback had become the governing trope for a counterculture that was reoriented and reinvigorated by ecological thinking The Culture of Feedback digs deep into a dazzling variety of left of center experiences and attitudes from this misunderstood period bringing us a new look at the wild side of the 1970s Belgrad shows us how ideas from systems theory were taken up by the counterculture and the environmental movement eventually influencing a wide range of beliefs and behaviors particularly related to the question of what is and is not intelligence He tells the story of a generation of Americans who were struck by a newfound interest in and respect for plants animals indigenous populations and the very sounds around them threading his tapestry with cogent insights on environmentalism feminism systems theory and psychedelics The Culture of Feedback repaints the familiar image of the 70s as a time of Me Generation malaise to reveal an era of revolutionary and hopeful social currents driven by desires to radically improve and feed back into the systems that had come before

Vast Expanses Helen M. Rozwadowski, 2018-10-15 Much of human experience can be distilled to saltwater tears sweat and an enduring connection to the sea In Vast Expanses Helen M Rozwadowski weaves a cultural environmental and geopolitical history of that relationship a journey of tides and titanic forces reaching around the globe and across geological and evolutionary time Our ancient connections with the sea have developed and multiplied through industrialization and globalization a trajectory that runs counter to Western depictions of the ocean as a place remote from and immune to human influence Rozwadowski argues that knowledge about the oceans created through work and play scientific investigation and also through human ambitions for profiting from the sea has played a central role in defining our relationship with this vast trackless and opaque place It has helped us to exploit marine resources control ocean space extend imperial or national power and attempt to refashion the sea into a more tractable arena for human activity But while deepening knowledge of the ocean has animated and strengthened connections between people and the world's seas to understand this history we must address questions of how by whom and why knowledge of the ocean was created and used and how we create and use this knowledge today Only then can we can forge a healthier relationship with our future sea

Souls in the Sea Scott Taylor, 2003-02-21 Dolphins have long been attributed with intelligence but do they have souls Self awareness Compassion Scott Taylor Director of the Cetacean Studies Institute investigates the history mythology and science surrounding these creatures and emerges with a resounding yes And not only do whales and dolphins merit our attention and respect in their own right they are an index to what our future as a species can be In this multi faceted cetology compendium Taylor surveys the portrayal of dolphins and whales in works of literature as disparate as Moby Dick and Sumerian legend examines biologist John Lilly s research on interspecies communication and explores the benefits of dolphin assisted swimming therapy for disabled children and adults Looking at the world from the perspective of one of these souls in the sea Taylor suggests that cetaceans are an ideal bridge between humanity and nature Poetically written and thoughtfully illustrated with photos and drawings Souls in the Sea is a comprehensive celebration of the biology history and mystique of dolphins and whales

Aesthetics of Change Bradford P. Keeney, 2017-02-13 The fundamental concern of psychotherapy is change While practitioners are constantly greeted with new strategies techniques programs and interventions this book argues that the full benefits of the therapeutic process cannot be realized without fundamental revision of the concept of change itself Applying cybernetic thought to family therapy Bradford P Keeney demonstrates that conventional epistemology in which cause and effect have a linear relationship does not sufficiently accommodate the reciprocal nature of causation in experience Written in an unconventional style that includes stories case examples and imagined dialogues between an epistemologist and a skeptical therapist the volume presents a philosophically grounded ecological framework for contemporary clinical practice

Animal Ethics in the Age of Humans Bernice Bovenkerk, Jozef Keulartz, 2016-09-21 This book provides reflection on the increasingly blurry boundaries that characterize the human animal relationship In the Anthropocene humans and animals have come closer together and this asks for rethinking old divisions Firstly new scientific insights and technological advances lead to a blurring of the boundaries between animals and humans Secondly our increasing influence on nature leads to a rethinking of the old distinction between individual animal ethics and collectivist environmental ethics Thirdly ongoing urbanization and destruction of animal habitats leads to a blurring between the categories of wild and domesticated animals Finally globalization and global climate change have led to the fragmentation of natural habitats blurring the old distinction between in situ and ex situ conservation In this book researchers at the cutting edge of their fields systematically examine the broad field of human animal relations dealing with wild liminal and domestic animals with conservation and zoos and with technologies such as biomimicry This book is timely in that it explores the new directions in which our thinking about the human animal relationship are developing While the target audience primarily consists of animal studies scholars coming from a wide range of disciplines including philosophy sociology psychology ethology literature and film studies many of the topics that are discussed have relevance beyond a purely theoretical one as such the book also aims to inspire for example biologists conservationists and zoo keepers to reflect on their relationship with animals
